Wind Storm Slashes Southern Ulster

By Jon Powers

ACCORD—Parts of southern Ulster County resembled a battlefield today after devastating winds cut a path of destruction from Samsonville to Clintondale Sunday afternoon.

Unofficial reports have placed the damage in excess of $100,000. The hardest hit area of the county was the Town of Rochester, where at least six mobile homes and four barns were demolished.

The storm hit shortly after 2 p.m., and arrived with a suddeness that caught numerous homeowners and motorists by surprise. Minutes later the skies had cleared and the winds had calmed; the only evidence of nature's fury were scattered piles of rubble that shortly before had been homes and buildings.

Despite the devastation, only three minor injuries were reported. One woman suffered rib injuries when she was buried in the debris of her mobile home along Route 209 in Accord; a man at the same location suffered an electric shock when he tried to crawl back inside his demolished house trailer.

Although there were several reports that "funnel clouds" had been sighted in the Accord area, the storm has not officially been classified as a tornado.

According to Accord Fire Chief Lowell Baker, Sunday's storm carved a narrow path of destruction from one end of the town to the other. Three mobile homes on Samsonville Road were damaged by fire when falling tree limbs severed power lines; three house trailers at the Herma George mobile home park in Accord wer demolished; a barn in Alligerville wa leveled.

Rochester Supervisor Vincent Dunn who conducted an aerial survey of th town today, supplemented that list: th roof covering the Herman Dunn home o Boice Mill Road was blown away; barn a the Roy Lattimer farm was lifted off it foundation and dashed to pieces, but th machinery inside was left untouched; on mobile home was flipped into the air anc landed on its roof.

"I've lived in this town all my life, 4 years," said Baker, "and I've never seer anything like this. You read about this kind of thing in the papers, but you never think it could happen here. When it does, you just don't know what to do."

Although the National Weather Service had not confirmed that it was a tornado that struck the area Sunday, the storm had all the markings of a typical midwest twister. In one section of Rochester Sunday, a small barn disintegrated in the high winds, but two buildings on either side escaped untouched.

Rochester officials said today that more than 100 buildings were damaged in the storm, most by flying debris and falling tree limbs.

Central Hudson officials today confirmed that the Rondout Valley area was the hardest hit in Ulster County Sunday, but problems certainly weren't restricted to that area. A utility spokesman said some 3,500 customers were left without power Sunday afternoon in the Kingston area. In Newburgh, service to 9,000 customers was disrupted by Sunday's storm.

The wind storm, traveling west to east, passed quickly through Rochester and then headed southeast through New Paltz, Gardiner and Plattekill. Scattered damage was reported in Rosendale, Gardiner, Modena and Clintondale.

In New Paltz, village police said today that at least 12 roads were blocked by fallen trees Sunday afternoon, including Main Street and Routes 32, 208 and 44-55. In Modena, several mobile homes were blown off their foundations and dozens of structures were damaged.

In Kingston, the storm was preceded by blackened skies, rain squalls and heavy winds. Thirty minutes later, patches of blue sky could be seen.

Wind gusts of 75 miles per hour were reported at the Dutchess County Airport in Poughkeepsie; two planes were damaged and several buildings were destroyed.

The Ulster County Civil Defense Office is compiling damage records and is expected to apply for state disaster aid.

A Program To Lessen Shortfall

By Lynn Mulvaney

KINGSTON—Faced with a $1.7 million deficit in the 1976 budget, Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago, R-Dist. 8, put forward today a five-point emergency program which he is hopeful will enable the county to close the financial gap.

Savago will propose to the legislature at a special meeting Tuesday night that:

- Promotions of all current county employes and the hiring of new personnel for vacant county positions be frozen.
- All department equipment accounts be frozen.
- Contractual expense accounts for all departments be frozen.
- Resolutions authorizing or directing the expenditure of county funds include a financial impact statement.
- Expenditures of all encumbered funds be prohibited without prior approval of the legislature.

At a press conference earlier today Savago revealed that he also issued a four-point directive to all department heads as part of what he called Phase One of the emergency procedure.

He is asking department heads to submit a current year-to-date report of all revenues and expenditures with the first report due March 29 for the period Jan. 1 through Feb. 29. The department heads will also be required to submit additional reports on a monthly basis as part of ongoing financial scrutiny.

Department heads will also be required to report all state and federal mandates which affect either county expenditures or state and federal funding. The reports are to be an estimate of financial impact and are due no later than April 1. They will continue to be made on a monthly basis.

All department heads are to meet with their respective legislative committees withing 30 days to determine if further budget savings can be made. They are to also jointly review with their legislative committees all budgeted revenues and expenses, on a monthly basis, and report on their operational efficiency.

Savago said he worked out the program during three-days of consultation with Legislator William R. West, R-Dist. 2, chairman of the Treasurer's Committee; budget officer, William Darwak and staff; Social Services Committee Chairman Ernest J. Gardner, R-Dist. 5, and County Attorney Abram Molyneaux, among others.

He predicted that the county administration garage which was scheduled for construction this year will not be built and he said he will not be surprised if Social Services Commissioner Bernhardt S. Kramer is forced to come back to the county board later this year asking for more funds to meet the increased welfare load.

Savago blamed most of the county's financial plight on state and federal welfare mandates and urged welfare reform.

The shortfall became public last week after County treasurer Fred H. DuBois filed a report with the legislature in which it was apparent that the estimated surplus of $4.6 million in the 1976 budget would have a shortfall of about $1.7 million.

Savago attributed the shortfall to seven areas including uncollected taxes exceeding estimated allowances by nearly $750,000. Also adverse certiorari judgments on real property taxes which caused the loss of nearly $223,000 in the City of Kingston and the State Office of Drug Abuse Services reneging on assurances it would reimburse the county $83,000 for the Drug Abuse Outreach Program.

Savago pointed to 1975 welfare expenditures mandated by the state and federal government which exceeded 1974 by nearly 46 per cent and the fact that department heads exceeded spending estimates in December which were used to prepare the 1976 budget.

'Hooked on Sex'

NEW YORK — Marilyn Monroe reportedly once told an interviewer she was "hooked on sex" the way an alcholic is hooked on liquor, but blamed the public for making her a bigger-than-life sex symbol.

"My body turned all these people on like turning on an electric light and there was rarely anything human in it. Marilyn Monroe became a burden, a what do you call it? — an albatross. People expected so much of me I sometimes hated them."

The late movie star's remarks were quoted in prepublication excerpts released Sunday of a new book in the April issue of the Ladies Home Journal.

D.B. Not O.K. With IRS

PORTLAND, Ore. — "D.B. Cooper," wherever you are? You're in trouble with the tax people.

The Internal Revenue Service disclosed that the parachuting skyjacker who disappeared between Reno, Nev., and Seattle in 1971 owes the government $295,906 in taxes and penalties because of the $200,000 he extorted from Northwest Orient Airlines.

But "D.B. Cooper" can take some comfort in knowing that the statute of limitation for his Thanksgiving eve caper runs out in November.

Copter Crashes Kill 10

BLAIRSVILLE, Ga. — Ten Army crewmen were killed during the weekend when two UH-1H (Huey) helicopters crashed in separate incidents.

Seven crewmen were killed about noon Saturday when one of the copters crashed into Aiken Mountain in the Chattahoochee National Forest near Blairsville, Ga. Two other crewmen survived.

Three crewmen were killed Saturday night when the second helicopter crashed during a thunderstorm while participating in a field training exercise.

'Hurricane' Heading South

PATERSON, N.J. — Former boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter, under court orders not to discuss his release from prison where he served nine years for a triple murder, plans to vacation in Florida while awaiting a new trial.

His co-defendant in the case, John Artis, will spend his time working on his personnel management courses at Glassboro State College. He hopes to graduate in the fall.

Their release on bail Saturday came three days after the New Jersey Supreme Court granted the two a new trial on charges of murdering three patrons of a Paterson tavern in 1966.

Argentine Coup Rumored

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — A week-long rampage of terrorism that killed at least 37 persons has touched off new rumors that a military coup to oust President Isabel Peron may be only days away.

A memorial ceremony today in honor of the general who led the 1955 military revolt that ousted President Juan D. Peron reinforced speculation that a coup was imminent.

A delegation of high-ranking army officers planned to attend a graveside ceremony to pay homage to Gen. Eduardo Lonardi, leader of the successful revolt against Peron Sept. 19, 1955, and provisional president for 50 days following the coup.

Labor Anti-Anti-Nuke

WASHINGTON — The nation's largest labor organization is moving to combat a growing anti-nuclear power movement in some states.

The AFL-CIO's industrial union department is distributing pro-nuclear articles, fact sheets from the atomic power industry, printed statements from scientists and exhortations from top union leaders, concerned that jobs may be lost if the anti-nuclear movement manages to slow or stop the spread of atomic power plants.

The immediate focus is on California, where the June 8 ballot includes a voter initiative measure known as "Proposition 15" that may impose the nation's first nuclear moratorium.

Set Royal Wedding Date

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Sweden's King Carl Gustaf will marry Silvia Sommerlath, daughter of a West German businessman, on June 19 in Stockholm, the Royal Court announced today.

Carl Gustaf, 29, and Miss Sommerlath, 32, were engaged March 12 and the King said they would marry before midsummer, but refused at the time to give a date.

They will be married at Stockholm's Storkyrkan (Large Church) by Swedish Archbishop Olof Sundby in a glittering ceremony attended by royalty and government personalities from throughout the world.

Reactivate GOP Club

OSENDALE—The Town of osendale Republican Club is o be reactivated Tuesday at a neeting to be held at the Town ecreation Center, formerly portsman's Park, at 8 p.m.

The meeting has been called y the Town of Rosendale Republican Committee to reactivate the club, which has een dormant for about eight ears.

The purpose of the meeting will be to authorize the drafting of a new constitution and bylaws, and the selection of a nominating committee for new officers of the club. All of the necessary business will be transacted and various public officials and members of the Ulster County Republican Committee have been invited and are expected to be represented.

Memoriam

In tender and loving memory of my wife, Mary Amato, who passed away one year ago today, March 22, 1975.

There was no cross too hard to bear
While you were at my side
52 years of wedded bliss
No one could part us God
When the Lord himself came to meet you
All your pain and grief was ended
This temporary parting is lonely
I miss you sincerely, my darling
For you were my only love.
Husband,
SANTO AMATO

Memoriam

In memory of our Mother, Mary Amato, who passed away one year ago today, March 22, 1975.

MAMA, you left us one year ago today
Sadness, lonliness, and sorrow we cannot say
We often wonder why you couldn't stay
But who are we to judge, when God wants things his way.
DAUGHTERS

Memoriam

In memory of my Grandmother, Mary Amato, who passed away one year ago today, March 22, 1975.

But, O, for the touch of a vanins'd hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still!

Career Goes Up In Smoke

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two years ago Lawrence Nestler and M. Allen Mason were law students waiting to take the bar examination in North Carolina.

Today, Nestler works in a wood shop; Mason in a restaurant.

Both 27-year-olds have been blackballed by state bar examiners who held that they lacked moral character to become lawyers.

Their crime? On Dec. 6th, 1974, Nestler and Mason had pleaded guilty to possessing less than one ounce of marijuana, a misdemeanor, and were placed on probation for one year after paying $16 in court costs.

Both are fighting the bar examiners' ruling in North Carolina and U.S. district courts on the ground that no moral turpitude was involved. Both denied dealing in the drug.

The Drug Abuse Council, which estimates that 29 million Americans have tried marijuana, has no firm figures on the number who have acquired court records but said it must be in the thousands. The Council says about 12 million use marijuana regularly.

"The only difference between me and half the law school population is that I got caught," says Nestler.

Six states — California, Oregon, Alaska, Ohio, Colorado and Maine — have passed laws decriminalizing convictions based on smoking marijuana. Eight Democratic presidential candidates say they support marijuana law reform.

But until the reforms are brought about, in some states legal careers apparently can be denied to students who smoke pot.

The North Carolina examiners tried to prevent Nestler and Mason from taking the bar examination and were upheld in state courts. But a federal judge issued an order permitting the two to take the bar examination while the constitutional issues were resolved.

That could take years, unless the bar examiners relent.

It took four years for former Beatle, John Lennon, to upset a Board of Immigration ruling denying him residence in the United States because of a marijuana possession conviction in London in 1968. A federal appeals court ruled last December that no moral turpitude was involved in the misdemeanor.

Another who had a close call was Bob Korn, city attorney for Telluride, Colo., who was arrested on charges of possession and distribution. He had given some marijuana to a friend who was a deputy sheriff.

The arrest came 12 days before the state's decriminalization law went into effect. Under the old law, Korn could have been sent to jail for 14 years with revocation of his attorney's license.

After a hassel, Korn was allowed to plead guilty to the new law and subjected to a $100 fine, much like paying a traffic ticket.

The Way She Was

Barbara Streisand performs "The Way We Were" during concert staged over the weekend at Arizona State University's Sun Devil Stadium. Concert was filmed for the movie "A Star Is Born," which will feature Miss Streisand and Kris Kristofferson. More than 45,000 jammed the football stadium for the concert.(UPI)

Orange Strike In Court

GOSHEN (UPI) — Both sides in a strike against Orange County were to return to court today for a hearing on an injunction against the walkout by the Civil Service Employes Association.

Meanwhile, union leaders told their members at a rally in Middletown Sunday night that they had offered the county legislature a package calling for full salary increments, a 2 per cent raise retroactive to January and a 2 per cent hike in July.

The union struck last Wednesday after the legislature had rejected a state fact finder's recommendation for a 4 per cent raise and ordered a cut in increments scheduled in the current three-year contract.

Talks between the two sides broke off Saturday night after both sides, aided by a state mediator, met for 9½ hours but reached no settlement.

The legislature agreed Saturday afternoon to pay the increments, but not to go along with the raise. Officials said the increments alone would cost the county $373,000.

Wolf Hunt

SPIEGELAU, West Germany (UPI) — Government authorities, prompted by an attack on a four-year-old boy, today gave hunters the go-ahead to shoot wolves that broke out of the Bavarian National Park seven weeks ago.

Police said Sunday two wolves separated from the pack and bit the boy who was playing with friends in a meadow in the Weiler Forstwald forest.

Hospital authorities said the bites were not serious and did not require stitches.

The attack prompted the Bavarian Ministry of the Interior to lift the ban on wolf hunting that was instituted after animal experts, including Nobel Prize winner Konrad Lorenz and wolf specialist Eric Zimen, insisted that they were not dangerous.

The escape of the wolves unleashed a "wolf psychosis" and wolves were reported in the outskirts of Munich and in small villages, where they apparently roamed the streets, playing with children and rummaging in garbage cans.

Neil Sedaka's Back and Big as Life

Neil Sedaka . . . getting his second wind.

By Marian Christy

NEW YORK — Millionaire Neil Sedaka, who calls his current comeback at age 36 his "second coming" is perched on an aubergine velvet sofa in a sprawling uppercrust Fifth Avenue apartment. He's talking about himself.

"I know it sounds awful but I equate success with money — and vice-versa," says Sedaka, the songwriter-performer of the early '60s whose fade-out is a thing of the past. "For a long time, I'd would meet friends who'd say: 'Hi, what are you doing now?' " says Sedaka. Since he wrote three recent No. 1 Singles — "Love Will Keep Us Together," "Bad Blood" and "Laughter in the Rain" — he tells them.

"Yup," says Sedaka, who has written 80 hits, "I'm buying another duplex cooperative, I just got my wife a new sable coat and I took my family to London for the weekend because there was nothing else to do."

Brooklyn-born Sedaka, a Turkish Jew whose father drove a taxi and whose mother worked as a salesperson to help him through Juilliard School, says he's also rich in independence. "Now that I've made it big again," he says, "no one tells me what to sing or how to sing. When you're Somebody, you're at Nobody's mercy."

Sedaka, who grew up in a lower-middleclass neighborhood that also produced Neil Diamond, is not the prototype rock star. He thinks writing music while under the influence of two or more vodkas is "far out." Booking agents furtively refer to him as "Mr. Unlikely" because he stubbornly bypasses "heavy" drugs and absurd clothes.

"The world is getting more civilized," Sedaka insists. "It's not necessary to look or act like a freaky degenerate or so beautiful that you become untouchable. Ordinary people want to relate to other ordinary people. The fact that I am who I am — a simple middle-of-the-roader — is part of my rebirth.

Apparently Sedaka harbored an inferiority complex as a child. Besides being short, pudgy, a wearer of braces and glasses, he was the kid who played piano instead of ball. It didn't exactly endear him to his classmates who weren't above taunts.

Today he admits he grappled with deep feelings of "isolation." His doting mother, aware he had a problem maintaining self-esteem tried to strike a chord of confidence.

"Mama insisted everything I did was perfect." says Sedaka who, for a long time, didn't believe the maternal assurances. "I wasn't really popular so I tried to compensate with my music."

The plan worked. By the time Sedaka was 16, he hit two extremes with equal aplomb. Pianist Arthur Rubinstein predicted he could develop into an outstanding classic pianist. Meanwhile he had written Connie Francis's first hit, "Stupid Cupid."

"All I knew," says Sedaka, "is that I wanted to walk into a big room anywhere and be recognized. This music scene is one very necessary ego trip," he admits.

Sedaka, now getting bald on top, is married to Leba Strasberg, the mother of his two children — Dara, 12 and Marc 9. It was Leba's mother who hired Sedaka's teen-age band to liven things up at Esther Manor, her Catskills motel.

When Sedaka arrived, Leba, age 16, was the desk clerk.

"Honest to God," smiles Sedaka, about his love-at-first-sight reaction, "my heart went tipsy. Right then I told the drummer that this is the girl I'd marry."

The on-again, off-again dating game lasted for five years. When Leba turned 21, she became Mrs. Neil Sedaka. "She's the answer to my prayers," glows Sedaka. "I'm never sure of anything except my music. She's the one who deals with agents, booking managers, lawyers and accountants. Besides, when I need to unravel the knots of my life — she's there. Leba knows that I'm just a child at heart. We sort of take it from there."

Sedaka's spiraling career is not without disenchantment.

"I'm simply amassing my riches," he says. "Why else would I agree to accept bookngs in far-flung places? Why should I accept being away from home for months at a time? The music business is a fickle business. One day you're in. The next day you're out."

Political Forum

NEW YORK — Governors of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut lead a distinguished list of public figures who will host a town meeting for presidential candidates on March 29 at the Waldorf Astoria.

The meeting is the third in a series of five such forums sponsored by the League of Women Voters Education Fund. The Mid-Atlantic Forum to be held in New York will be broadcast over WNET, Channel 13, at 8:30 p.m. on March 29 and made available to the 264 affiliates of the Public Broadcasting Service.

The composition of the Host Committee reflects the broad concern in the Mid-Atlantic region over the subject of the New York Forum: Who Is Responsible for the Cities?

Among the hosts are representatives of industry and finance, labor and the public sector, and of various political and ethnic interests. Consistent with the voter service tradition established by the League of Women Voters at candidates meetings, Richard M. Rosenbaum and Patrick J. Cunningham, heads of the Republican and Democratic State Committees, will co-chair the Host Committee along with Natacha Dykman, State League president.

Serving on the committee with Governors Hugh L. Carey, Brendan T. Byrne and Ella Grasso are Senators James Buckley and Jacob Javits, Mayor Abraham Beame, and Representatives Millicent Fenwick and Helen S. Meyner.

Other members are: Robert Bernstein, Maria Bonilla, Sol Chaikin, James R. Dumpson, Sara Gotbaum, Edward Jesser, Jr., Vernon Jordan, Dr. Herbert Kayden, Donald McNaughton, Eleanor Holmes Norton, Carl M. Pforzheimer, Jr., Dr. Gabrielle Reem, Howard Samuels, Martha Wallace, Dr. Jacqueline Wexler, Theodore H. White, and David Yunich.

All candidates who have qualified for Federal funds and who remain in the presidential race have been invited to the Forum. This includes Jimmy Carter, Frank Church, Gerald Ford, Fred Harris, Henry Jackson, Ellen McCormack, Ronald Reagan, R. Sargent Shriver, Morris Udall, and George C. Wallace. Elie Abel, Dean of the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism, will be moderator.

The forum provides an unusual opportunity for voters in the audience to put their questions directly to the presidential candidates.

Mr. Fit Program

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS — It may be 1980 before the results of an experiment aimed at saving lives and now being conducted in a special center in this New Jersey community are known. But, in the meantime, everyone interested in a program that concerns itself with the heart, can take a cue from the basic idea.

The program is called MR FIT, the initials standing for Multiple Risk Factor Intervention Trial. It was a new program when it was set up two years ago under the auspices of the National Heart and Lung Institute of the National Institute of Health.

The idea was simple. About 80 per cent of heart attacks seem to occur in men having one or more of the following three risk factors: heavy cigarette smoking, high blood pressure and elevated blood cholesterol. If a research team could find some of these men and intervene —change their habits — perhaps the men could avoid such a high rate of heart attacks.

Although it took more time than expected to find the number of volunteers required for the study (one reason was that so many middle-aged men have given up smoking), the ranks are now filled and the research is underway at 20 centers in the States.

The men are attending stop-smoking clinics and are! being counseled on how to bring down blood pressure and cholesterol. A principle technique here is a change in diet away from saturated fats and toward lower total fat, with a greater emphasis on the polyunsaturated variety (like Mazola corn oil). Weight control is important, so the men are being taught to avoid extra calories, too.

If total results may still be several years in the making, some basic information has already emerged from the 20 centers. The suggestions for all of us:

See your physician. Have him determine your blood pressure, do a lipid count on your blood (this gives you not only a cholesterol count but measures triglycerides and other fatty substances as well), and evaluate your weight.

When the results are in, work together with your doctor to put yourself in a better risk-factor position. Do stop smoking. Do exercise more, according to your capabilities.

Make appropriate changes in your diet. If you correct obesity, you have everything to gain and nothing to lose, but excess weight. As you cut down on foods high in saturated fat, you can be exploring new ways of cooking. You also may find exciting new taste rewards along with improved nutrition.

For more information about a diet lower insaturated fat, send for the booklet "A Diet for Today," available free from Dept. DTGN, Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238.

SHS Reunion Planned

SAUGERTIES — A committee has been formed to plan the 20th reunion of the Saugerties High School class of 1956.

The following classmates have not been located: Pete Hedly, Elizabeth Atwell, Iris Bogart, David Hymes, Marie VanTassell Klemke. Anyone knowing the addresses of these people is asked to notify committee members, Mary Woerthman Fellows or Bill Thornton, both of Saugerties.

The reunion will take place at Flamingo Restaurant on Saturday, June 12. Advance reservations are required.

Award Presented

STONE RIDGE— Gary Hilton Thorn of Clintondale, an engineering student at Ulster County Community College, has been awarded a medal from RPI for academic excellence at the Stone Ridge campus.

The award was presented by Dr. Joseph Smith of RPI, Troy, one of the nation's leading engineering schools.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Thorn and a graduate of Highland High School, Thorn has maintained a 3.85 academic average at UCCC where he is in the Engineering Science program. The highest average is a perfect 4.0.

"Gary Thorn is an outstanding student at UCCC," said Walter Hopkins, chairman of the Department of Engineering Technologies,"and I am pleased to see him recognized for his academic excellence by RPI."

Also commending the Ulster student on his achievement was Robert T. Brown, college president.

Nurses Alumni Donates Check

KINGSTON — Lighting up the lives of patients in one section of Kingston Hospital was a project felt to be important by members of the Kingston Hospital Nurses Alumni. To make life a little brighter for those who will be admitted in the future to rooms on the fourth floor east of the hospital, the Nurses Alumni recently presented a check in the amount of $805 to be used for individual bed lights.

VFW Conference

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Albert T. DeLuca, commander of Hudson Valley Counties Council, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U.S., was among the many VFW members from all 50 states attending the 1976 Washington Conference at the Sheraton Park Hotel earlier this month.

"Voice of Democracy" winners from all 50 states were honored at the Congressional banquet. National winners included Christopher James Hammond of Carmel, second place. Hammond is from District 2, Department of New York, VFW, of which Ulster County is a part.

A preview of the VFW Bicentennial statue, "Torch of Freedom," took place in front of the VFW building. This statue will be dedicated to all who served their country in the armed forces during the wars.

Polish Queen Contest

The White Eagle Benevolent Society is preparing for the Pulaski Day Parade to be held in October in New York. The Activities Committee chaired by Francis Duffy is planning a Polish Queen Contest. The Queen will be representing the contingent from the White Eagle Benevolent Society of Kingston. Applications are now available at the White Eagle Hall. To qualify a young lady must be in the age bracket of 16 to 25, single, a resident of Ulster County and of Polish extraction.

Philharmonic to Tour U.S. and Canada With Eglevsky

POUGHKEEPSIE — Five years of musical and artistic cooperation has paid off handsomely forthe Hudson Valley Philharmonic. Already known for its excellence in many parts of New York State, our regional philharmonic musicians will be attracting new converts in the South, Midwest, Northeast and Canada in the next month.

"It's a very exciting thing for the orchestra," said Ken Fricker, the HVP's manager. "We're looking forward to it very much."

And, with ample reason and very little warning, it might be added.

"Very much a last minute thing," continued Fricker, of the surprise news that the orchestra would be appearing with Valery and Galina Panov, famed Russian ballet stars, and the Eglevsky Ballet Company in a four-week, 15-city tour beginning March 23 in St. Petersburg, Fla.

"The Eglevsky's decision to use us for their tour is the result of five years of cooperation between our two organizations," noted Fricker, "and it's a clear demonstration of what regionalism can mean for performing groups."

The full orchestra will not go on tour, since concerts already scheduled in this area will continue through the traveling period. Twenty-five musicians from the philharmonic will accompany the Panovs and the Eglevsky troupe through the first half of the tour for three weeks. They will appear in performances in Miami and Jacksonville, Fla., Charlotte, N.C., Birmingham, Oklahoma City, Kansas City, Tulsa, St. Louis, Nashville and Atlanta.

Fifteen orchestra members will return home after three weeks, but ten others will go on for the remainder of the tour which includes a one-night stop in Montreal and extended engagements in Boston, Toronto and Chicago where the tour ends with a three-day engagement April 23-25. The HVP will be under the baton of Allen Lewis, assistant conductor of the Joffrey Ballet Company.

The Panovs, who became a cause celebre internationally when the Soviet Union denied them permission to emigrate to Israel, will dance "The Lady and the Hooligan," apiece which is known as their signature work; "Gorianka," "Albinoni," the pas de deux from "Le Corsaire" and the grand pas de deux from the ballet "Don Quixote," excerpts of which will be performed by the Eglevsky troupe. The famed Russian stars will also dance "Harlequinade" and Galina Panov will perform the legendary "Dying Swan" from Tchaikovsky's "Swan Lake."

The company's repertoire include "Concerto Barocco," "Allegro Brilliante," and the world premiere of "Rituals for an Impatient Age."

The Hudson Valley Philharmonic has appeared frequently with the Long Island-based Eglevsky troupe over the past five years, including several times in Kingston. And the musicians chosen for the tour represent an excellent cross section of the orchestra. Panovis considered one of the world's finest character dancers. Along with his wife, he was a leading member of the Soviet Union's famed Kirov Ballet. After being jailed and denied permission to either dance or practice, the couple left Russia by permission in 1974; has since danced in Israel and the United States.

Test Urged for Late Pregnancies

One of the country's leading authorities in the field of genetic counseling advises any pregnant woman over 35 to undergo a test called amniocentesis which reveals the presence of abnormalities in the fetus related to mental retardation.

Dr. Arthur Robinson, who is professor of Biophysics and Genetics at the University of Colorado Medical Center, notes that the risk of incurable chromosomal abnormalities, as Downs syndrome which is a primary cause of mental retardation, rises steadily after a woman reaches the age of 35. According to Dr. Robinson, the chance of chromosomal abnormalities is approximately one per cent at age 35, two per cent at 38, three per cent at age 40, and at age 45 the chances of being a mongoloid child or one with chromosomal abnormalities is as high as one in 10.

Even those opposed to interrupting a pregnancy for any reason will sometimes choose to undergo amniocentesis as a means of preparing themselves to deal with the special problems an affected child and his family would face. (The test also reveals such conditions as spina bifida and certain metabolic disorders.)

The actual "tap," or extraction of a small amount of amniotic fluid, should be conducted by a physician experienced in this procedure. "Ultrasound" is often used to chart the exact position of the fetus and the placenta. The fetal cells contained in the fluid must be analyzed by a team trained in genetics. The results constitute an accurate picture of the chromosomal make-up of the fetus. The intensive session of genetic counseling which should precede the tap, the extraction of the fluid and the laboratory analysis costs approximately $300.

Most parents who learn that he fetus will be a mongoloid or otherwise affected will consider an abortion. Since amniocentesis cannot be conducted until the 14th or 15th week of gestation when there is a sufficient volume of amniotic fluid, and since the analysis of the fetal cells requires two or three weeks, a decision to abort the fetus cannot be made until the second trimester.

Despite this fact, Dr. Robinson regards amniocentesis as a lifesaving procedure, citing that only two-and-a-half per cent of the tests run by his Denver team revealed babies who were not normal. In his opinion, this means that the normal babies — the 97.5 per cent — were saved from possible abortion.

Before amniocentesis test was available, many women who were at an increased risk age, might have chosen to have an abortion because they knew their chances of bearing a retarded child were high. This was particularly true for women who had previously given birth to an affected child. The procedure allays those fears when they turn out to be unfounded and offers the small percentage of women who will have abnormal children an opportunity to make their own decisions.

An ardent opponent of abortion, Dr. Watson Bowes, Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the University of Colorado Medical Center, nevertheless conducts many amnio tests. He believes that each woman has the right to know what special problems she will face with her future offspring.

The test also reveals the sex of the child and there is the danger that people will use the test to pre-select a boy or a girl. But Dr. Robinson claims that he and his colleagues will turn down requests for amniocentesis from people who want the analysis solely for the social reason of being able to choose a boy rather than a girl, or vice versa.

Now that the amnio test has been judged to be a safe procedure gynecologists who do not inform pregnant women of the risk of congenital defects and the availability of the test to predict such defects may be held accountable.

Dear Abby

A Golden Oldie

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR READERS: I am presently writing a book that will contain choice letters I've received in the last 20 years. In selecting the material, I came across a letter that gave me a chuckle. I hope it gives you one, too. It was published in my column in October, 1968:

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 44-year-old bachelor who digs women, but I'm not looking for any matrimonial involvements. I live alone in a modest bungalow and enjoy my privacy.

My problem is an aggressive divorcee who lives next door. She's not bad looking, but she comes on awfully strong. She's a rip-roarin' Republican and a Nixon booster from way back. If she sees a light in my place, she runs right over with a prepared meal and an armful of Nixon campaign literature. She's even offered to cook for me and do my ironing, but I'm not about to fall into that trap. When she's not trying to sell me on Nixon, she's talking about marriage.

Last week I had it, so I moved my refrigerator, stove and TV down to the basement so she won't know I'm home. So now she phones me! What should I do?

NOT INTERESTED

DEAR NOT: Tell her you're going to vote for Hubert and move back upstairs!

DEAR ABBY: PENNA. READER wrote: "I went to a nice supper club with my lady friend and another couple, when a male friend of the other couple approached me and asked if I minded if he danced with my date. I said 'Yes, I do mind,' and my date thought I was rude."

You said, "You were. You should have asked your date if SHE wanted to dance with the stranger."

Well, I think you were wrong. Why should a man who goes to a supper club (and probably left his wife or girlfriend at home) expect some other guy to provide him with a girl to dance with?

I say, nuts to him. If he likes to dance, let him bring his own date!

WYOMINGITE

DEAR WYOMINGITE: I led with my chin on that one. You're right!

DEAR ABBY: A school dance is coming up next month, and the girls are supposed to ask the boys.

I want to ask a certain boy I know, but my mom says I shouldn't ask a boy who hasn't ever asked me out, and this one hasn't.

Abby, I think it's only fair that this once I should be able to ask the boy I really want to ask. What do you think?

TO ASK OR NOT TO ASK

DEAR TO ASK: The purpose of a girl-ask-boy dance is to change the boy-ask-girl tradition with which girls have been stuck for so long. If girls ask only boys who have asked them out, where's the breakthrough?

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Where is Cholesterol Found?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please explain the difference between animal fat and cholesterol in the blood?

DEAR READER — This, or variations of it, is a constantly recurring question from my readers. Cholesterol is not a fat, it is a waxy-like substance produced principally by the liver in animals. It is found in meats (minimal to moderate amount), butterfat, cheese, egg yolks and certain organ meats. It is never found in plants or plant products.

Fat is not cholesterol whether it comes from animals or vegetables. It has a basic chemical difference. Animal fat tends to be made up of large amounts of saturated fat. This is a kind of fat that many heart specialists think is particularly apt to contribute to fatty-cholesterol deposits in the blood vessels. Animal fat also contains a large amount of unsaturated fat. However, very little of the animal fat, except in fish and chicken, is of the polyunsaturated variety that some heart specialists think is important in helping to prevent fatty cholesterol deposits.

Significant amounts of saturated fats are less often found in vegetable products. However, there are some notable exceptions, particularly coconut oil which is over 80 per cent saturated fat.

The fat that builds up in the blood combines with cholesterol and the combined particles may lodge in the walls of the arteries. Some of the fat may be cleaned out of the artery leaving a higher percentage of cholesterol stuck in the artery itself.

These fatty cholesterol deposits are the basis for the arterial disease associated with heart attacks, strokes and many other circulatory problems. For more information on cholesterol and blood fats send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 1-2, Cholesterol, Triglycerides, Blood Fats, Atherosclorosis. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband and I eat fish at least three times a week — turbot, which is oily. We are on a low cholesterol diet and wonder if that fish is suitable.

DEAR READER — Turbot belongs to the flat fish group of flounder, sole and sand dab. I don't have figures for turbot but you can use the figures for flounder. These fish are relatively low in fat. Only about 10 per cent of their total calories is fat, which means that out of a 100 grams (3 one-half ounces) less than one gram is fat.

I have eaten turbot many times myself and have not thought of it as oily, but rather as a low-fat fish. As a general rule you can estimate that about one-third of the fat in fish is saturated fat, one-third monounsaturated fat and one-third polyunsaturated fat. That means it is one of the best foods you can use to provide items low in saturated fat from the meat basic food group. That's why fish is often recommended for diets that are designed for low-fat, low-cholesterol eating. I think you are wise to use fish regularly in your diet and feel that turbot is an excellent choice of the group. It is also economical and if you prepare it properly without adding a lot of fat to it, it is relatively low in fat.

Civil War Buff Stubby Osborne

Seward 'Stubby' R. Osborne, Jr.

KINGSTON — A Civil War afficionado, he wears a uniform of that war whenever he lectures on its history. Inspired by genuine Mathew Brady photos — culled from the wet collodion glass plate process of a century ago — he is also equipped with musket, bayonet and sword.

He is Seward (Stubby) R. Osborne Jr. of Olivebridge, and his Civil War style is reminiscent of old time type photos. But, beyond the uniform, Osborne is more interested in the Civil War as a difficult historical period — and in the part that period played in Ulster County history. Much of his time away from his Kingston job is spent collecting Civil War material and artifacts that have been buried in attic trunks around the county for more than six decades.

Osborne is an authoritative historian on the war from Fort Sumter to Appomattox, but his special interest resides in the 20th New York State Militia — the "Ulster Guard (regiments of Ulster and surrounding counties. And interested, too, in the 120th New York Volunteers, who were known as the "Washington Guard."

Osborne spoke recently to students at Kingston's Harry L. Edson Elementary School in a lecture emphasizing the role Ulster County played in those momentous years of the Civil War. During two programs at the school, he discussed the daily camp life of typical soldiers, their uniforms, equipment and food. Through personal anecdotes of the men, women and children of 100 years ago, he made the period come alive again for his audiences.

Osborne also set the stage for the Ulster Guard's participation in the Battle of Gettysburg; noted that after the North initially sustained heavy losses, it was this area regiment that saved the city of Gettysburg from falling to the Confederate forces.

In addition to speaking at local schools, Stubby Osborne has also appeared on area radio broadcasts to create interest in his project to reactivate the 20th New York State Militia and to form a Civil War research group here. Osborne is also involved in writing a book on the "Ulster Guard" and has authored articles on Colonel George W. Pratt, founder of the Ulster County Historical Society and commander of the 20th New York State Militia. He is hopeful that area residents having Civil War artifacts will contact him at his Olivebridge home phone number.

Meanwhile, Edson School students are working on a Civil War exhibit to be featured at the upcoming Bicentennial Fair at Kingston Armory from April 6 to April 8. Their exhibit, they say, will be enhanced with help from Osborne's talks and classroom visits.

Viveca Lindfors at UCCC

STONE RIDGE — Viveca Lindfors, the stage and screen actress, will recreate scenes from her greatest triumphs via poems, songs, speeches and conversations centering on the theme of "Woman" at Ulster County Community College Tuesday, April 6.

The program scheduled for 8 p.m.in the Quimby Auditoriumin Vanderlyn Hall on the Stone Ridge campus, is open to the public without charge. It is being sponsored by the International Women's Year Committee at the College.

In the program, Ms. Lindfors will bring to life a cavalcade of 36 women from Shaw, Ibsen, Colette, Shakespeare, Sylvia Plath and Brocht. They will include a battery of women liberation journalists and women from many other sources.

Ms. Lindfors reports that Women's Liberation has had a great impact on her life and work. She belives her acting style has changed significantly in recent years because of the influence of Women's Liberation.

She claims she understands "the woman's psyche more today than 10 years ago," and added that today she would play a character such as Lady Macbeth with a completely new understanding of her dilemna as well as Macbeth's dilemna. The actress would be able to understand Lady Macbeth's desire for power and also be able to feel sorry for Macbeth who submits to his wife's "feminine charms."

Ms. Lindfors has appeared in more than 50 films and plays during her career and recently was signed by United Artiststo play in "Welcome to L.A." with Sally Kellerman.

She has also received awards from the New York Drama League and Berlin Film Festival.

Early in her career, the actress studied at the Royal Dramatic Theater and with Lee Strasberg. She now has her own studio called"An Actor Works."

Born in Sweden, Ms.Lindfors is now an American citizen. She became interested in the field of entertainment at the age of five while taking modern dance lessons.

Later she became a star of Swedish film and theatre and at the age of 25 came to the U.S.She worked in California for five years before moving to New York where she became a star on Broadway and off-Broadway.

Temple Emanuel Nursery School

KINGSTON — Temple Emanuel Nursery School will host an informative evening concerning state-mandated kindergarten screening. The event is set for Thursday, March 25. Betty Madonna, principal of Meagher School, will explain kindergarten screening and how it affects children. The public is invited. Refreshments will be served.

A business meeting of the parents steering committee will precede the program at 8 p.m.

The nursery school is now taking registrations for the 1976-77 school year, Interested parents and children and prospective parents are invited to visit the classroom by appointment with the teacher, Sharon Slotnick.

Talk of the Town

Whalebone is no bone at all. but a substance attached to the upper jaw of the whale which serves to strain the algae and similar sea life it consumes from the water taken in its mouth.

Alibi is Latin meaning "elsewhere," and has come to be the plea of having been somewhere else during a crime.

SUNYA Theater Audition Call

ALBANY — Auditions or one of the biggest summer theatre seasons ever at the State University of New York at Albany (SUNYA) will be held all day Saturday, April 10 and April 24 at the Performing Arts Center on campus. Dates for the auditions were announced by professor James M. Symons of the SUNYA Theatre Department. Symons heads the 1976 State University Theatre Company, applications for which can be obtained by writing to Summer Theatre, Performing Arts Center, The University at Albany, Albany, N.Y. 12222.

Applications for auditions are available from the same address.

Full company membership requires registration in the specially designed course, "Summer Theatre Production and Management," which carries either undergraduate or graduate credit; however, noncredit, associate company memberships are also available. All company members will be selected through audition. A limited number of tuition scholarships will be awarded in both acting and technical areas.

Symons said the 1976 summer theatre season at SUNYA would run from June 21 through Aug. 8 and would consist of three productions to be chosen from the following: Hay Fever, East Lynne, The Bat, Ghost Train, A Midsummer Night's Dream, Twelfth Night, Misalliance. Edward J. Golden will direct two of the plays and Symons will stage one. Set designer for the summer season will be Robert J. Donnelly, and Lynda L. Salsbury will design the costumes. Both are well known for their designs of previous SUNYA productions. Lighting designer will be Anthony Krivitski who currently serves as technical director for the SUNYA Theatre Department.

Anyone desiring further information may write or call the Department of Theatre on the Albany campus.

Vintage Flicks On Ancram Screen

ANCRAM — "Forgotten Gems of the 30's," the Musical Film Festival that has been running at the Johann Strauss Atheneum in historically restored Ancran, will feature a Warner Brothers box office success of 40 years ago this weekend.

On March 27 and 28, the Atheneum will present the 1935 Busby Berkeley production, "In Caliente," starring Pat O'Brien, Dolores Del Rio, Winifred Shaw, Edward Everett Horton, Glenda Farrell, Judy Canova and Leo Carillo. The story of the magazine editor who falls in love with a Mexican dancer, the musical features Berkeley's elaborately staged "Lady in Red" number.

The film will be screened at Ancram's Victorian Operetta Museum at 2, 4 and 8 p.m. on Saturday and at 2 and 4 p.m. on Sunday.

'76 PROJECT — Port Ewen School children under the supervision of Mrs. Barbara Farber, third grade teacher, and Ms. Ann VanBramer, art teacher, construct a three-dimension panorama related to their theme, "The War of Independence 1776 — The Burning of Kingston." This display will appear at the New York State Armory April 6-8 when the Kingston City Schools observe the Bicentennial.

The CSEA Suggestion

A recent recommendation of the Civil Service Employees Association and adopted by the Ulster County Legislature suggests that bonus points be awarded to employees that have temporarily filled a vacant post while awaiting the competitive exam. They suggest that the taxpayers' money has been used to train this worker and that training another would be wasteful.

On the surface, one can't fault the logic. Saving the taxpayers' money ranks right up there with Mom's apple pie. But it occurs to us that we may be opening a can of worms with such a practice. Right now, civil service employment seems to be free of political persuasion. If this procedure were adopted, we fear it would offer a temptation to our officials to rig the replacements as political favors.

We suggest that the procedure be changed to produce the same desired effect. Why can't the vacant post filled by the applicant who qualified second in the preceding testing, or better still, conduct an interim test?

Goodness knows our politicians are subjected to enough temptations.

A Spring Poem

Dear Editor:

The following is a poem by our grandson—thought you'd like to print it— he's 12 years, 2/7/76.

Spring

Spring is a meadow and flowers like lace;
Spring is the trees with quiet grace,
Spring is all around us like the vast empty space.
And even in the winter there's a little trace of Spring.

BRENT EDWARD FELDWEG

Two Names Omitted

Dear Editor:

Last week, I issued a release concerning the formation of a bi-partisan task force to study welfare reform, within Ulster County, as well as, on the federal and state levels.

When my release was published in the Freeman, I noted that two (2) members of the task force were not mentioned. Inasmuch, as the members of these task forces are undertaking a major work load with no remuneration whatever, I believe that their identities should be made known to the citizens of our county, who hopefully will benefit from their efforts. I therefore request that this letter be printed, under "Letters to the Editor",so as to insure due and proper credit for two most dedicated citizens of our county, William A. Jackson of Hurley and Richard H. Franklin of Marlborough.

Bill Jackson is well-known to most of us. He is the Chairman of the Ulster County Conservative Party, and in such capacity has been an outspoken advocate of welfare reform. Fortunately for Ulster County, Bill Jackson recognizes that spoken words alone will not suffice to produce reform. Despite his already burdensome schedule he has agreed to serve on this task force, and work toward the solution of some ever-present problems in the welfare structure of our government and his community, would, as County Chairman of the Conservative Party, volunteer his services to a task force, organized by a representative of the Democratic Party, which will undoubtedly invest much time and effort, without a promise of great reward, in search of a solution to steadily increasing problem, in our society.

A few weeks ago, Legislator James Canino of Highland, informed me that he recently was confronted by a constituent of his, Richard H. Franklin of Marlborough, regarding his concern for the future of Ulster County in light of the intolerable welfare burden, endured by our taxpayers on a yearly basis. Having been assured by Legislator Canino, that Mr. Franklin was a knowledgable advocate of welfare reform, I asked him to serve on our task force. Much of my delight, Mr. Franklin enthusiastically accepted my invitation, and agreed to lend his services to the task force.

I applaud the willingness of both Mr. Jackson and Mr. Franklin to undertake this most difficult and far-reaching responsibility. Their efforts will most assuredly add to the effectiveness of the task force, and the quality of its work product.

In conclusion, I want to thank the citizens of Ulster County in general, for their show of concern regarding the many problems our county government is facing, and their willingness to work towards a solution of these problems. When I first conceived the idea of appointing citizen task forces to seek out solutions to these ongoing problems, I had no idea that public acceptance would be so favorable or that the availability of willing participants would be so plentiful. To date, I have asked twenty-five (25) citizens of Ulster County to serve on these task forces. Each of these citizens, who represent various political persuasions, the various geographic areas of Ulster County, and divers ocupational interests, has graciously accepted the challenge which accompanies such service.

It is indeed a pleasure, for me to serve such dedicated, interested and well-motivated citizens, as an elected official: I shall always be grateful for their cooperation and support.

Respectfully yours,
Louis M. Klein
Minority Leader
Ulster County Legislature

Editor's Note: These "Gremlins", which sometimes play havoc on our readers, did so with Legislator Klein's release. It was unintentional on our part.

Defends Pizza Hut

Dear Editor:

I was so pleased to see the article by the Pizza Hut defending its product. My family has been going there regularly for some time. We realy enjoy their pizza and deliciously generous salad. We also like the pleasant atmosphere created by the decor and employes especially considering it has always been packed each time we've gone.

I felt that the newspaper used extremely poor taste when it allowed only one opinion per restaurant. Naturally people's tastes vary, and it was deplorable to allow one family to slander a restaurant without getting further opinions or comparison.

Thank heavens we make up our own minds about things instead of allowing others opinions to govern us.

Sincerely,
GAYLE T. SOMERVELL,
Kingston

Editor's note: Our consumer panel did a follow-up sampling of the Pizza Hut. We hope you read comments from the entire panel in our Sunday, March 14 Freeman.

A Happy Reader

Dear Editor:

For a period of six months or more The Daily Freeman provided but scant coverage of the major news of the Town of Marbletown. During this interval it was nigh on to impossible for citizens to keep abreast of developments often of considerable importance to them.

The paper must have altered its policy, because in the past few weeks it reported most of the major stories in the town. What a difference this makes! Now, the likelihood of something important escaping the attention of interested townspeople is largely eliminated. Three major issues reported by the paper recently ultimately were well aired at Town Board meetings. The exposure the paper provides was largely responsible for the citizen participation that followed.

On behalf of your sizeable readership in our town, I wish to thank the Freeman. Hopefully the coverage will continue. A free and conscientious press is the nation's greatest strength . . . bar none.

Gratefully,
Donald G. Ross,
Stone Ridge

Editor, The Freeman:

Dear Editor:

I believe that extra "lulu" payments, stipends or bonuses for legislators should be made unlawful and discontined this year. The salaries, expenses, travel pay, pension system and other fringe benefits are enough. If other areas of state government have to cut back, why not legislators?

Lawless Government

WASHINGTON—President Ford and Attorney General Levi are at work writing guidelines for crime, and at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue, Congress is busy at the task of learning how to oversee it. Finding a lawful way to supervise lawlessness is the most apt description for the attempts currently being made to contain the CIA and the FBI.

Success for this endeavor is inherently impossible. There can be no adequate guidelines or oversight for the myriad of scummy activities that are clustered under the name of "covert action." The worst of them, i.e. assassination, sabotage and incitement to revolution, are acts of war; and under our system, as it was originally contemplated, the power to declare war rests exclusively with Congress.

Nor can Congress constitutionally delegate the power to declare war to the President, the CIA or anybody else. But in fact the CIA does have that power, putting Congress in the ridiculous situation of trying to oversee the unlawful usurpation of its own functions.

Wholesale bribery, rigging other people's elections and the like aren't acts of war, but they are interference in other countries' domestic affairs. That also is unlawful, under our law, where we have signed and ratified treaties prohibiting it, as is the case with South America.

Ultimate Stakes

While our officialdom occupies itself debating how it is going to legitimate the illegitimate, the rest of us must come to understand that more is at stake than even CIA assassinations and FBI murders. These acts aren't the work of "rogue" agencies which must be "controlled." Nor can they be blamed on outstandingly immoral presidents like Kennedy and Nixon.

What has happened is that we now have two governments. We have the visible one that we pay taxes to and kvetch about and the dark government of the national security state. You may consider the first government awful, but it is more or less lawful, and it operates more or less as we learned in Sunday school it should.

The second is absolutely lawless and unlawful. It fails every test of legality. Although it spends billions of dollars, Congress itself doesn't even know when or how much money it's appropriating for it. There is no meaningful audit of funds, and the Pike Committee report, which CBS's Daniel Schorr made public for us, indicates massive theft and corruption in the CIA. Or are you silly enough to believe that when the CIA in one foreign city spends $41,000 for liquor in one year they're fighting communism? How does spending $175,000 to furnish an office keep the Reds off our back? Is anybody seriously going to maintain that, when the CIA uses taxpayer money to produce pornographic movies, they're defending the national security?

When this kind of evidence of graft and corruption piles up against the employes of the visible government, grand juries are impanelled, indictments are issued and citizens file taxpayer suits. None of that is possible with the various organs of the national security government. Even the rules they operate under, if there are any, are classified. Note that while prima facie cases of CIA and FBI crime against American citzens—forget foreigners—exist, all the perpetrators are beyond the reach of the laws of the visible government.

The Nazi & Soviet Models

The same dual government system obtains in the Soviet Union as it did in Nazi Germany, where the Gestapo seemed to have shared the same prurient interests as the CIA. Russia has a fine visible government with all kinds of laws and safeguards, but, as Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn has reminded us, they're not binding on the KGB. Dual government is the common characteristic of the modern totalitarian state.

Be warned and don't join the thoughtless mob of auto-hypnotic patriots who want to punish men like Daniel Schorr because he's giving our secrets away to the enemy. If he's given any secrets away, they are secrets we can't have because they are things we can't do and still call ourselves Americans. Hitler and Mussolini used criminal gangs for their political purposes, but there is no way we can stretch our system to include a similar use of the Mafia.

One of the reasons CIA-FBI cries have gotten so much publicity of late is that during the Nixon period some members of the country's ruling circles found themselves victims of the second govenment's lawlessness. They didn't mind when a job was done on foreigners or on a Martin Luther King. They don't want it done on themselves, and this debate over control and oversight is really grappling with an arrangement that will protect them but not the rest of us.

That can't be either. The German capitalists found that with Hitler. Either we're all protected or none of us will be. Nor can that protection be secured by circumscribing the area of lawlessness. There are some things a democracy can never, no not ever, do.

Political Payoffs

WASHINGTON—At least $8 million in illegal corporate payoffs have disappeared into the pockets of Washington politicians during the past decade.

While the spotlight has focused on corporate bribery overseas, we have investigated payoffs to politicians here at home. We have determined that political bigwigs collected the $8 million from four corporations alone: Ashland Oil, Gulf Oil, Northrop Aircraft and Phillips Petroleum.

The dimensions of the scandal indicate it may develop into a corporate Watergate.

Our reporters, Terry Repak and Marc Smolonsky, dug through Securities and Exchange Commission documents in an attempt to trace the money. They contacted 45 congressmen who were identified in the documents as recipients of illegal payments.

Our investigation even led to the White House itself. President Ford allegedly received an illegal $1,000 contribution from Phillips when he was the House Republican leader. A White House spokesman told us there was no way to verify the payment now. But he conceded the money was never returned.

When Richard Nixon occupied the White House, his campaign aides were caught accepting an illegal $100,000 contribution from Ashland in 1972. The money was returned with a big show of piety. We have now discovered that the Nixon campaign accepted an earlier $100,000 from the same oil company in 1968. But this money, since it was never publicized, wasn't given back.

Of the 45 members of Congress who are identified in SEC documents as receiving illegal money from corporate lobbyists, only six have returned the loot. They are Sen. Howard Baker, R.-Tenn., Carl Curtis, R.-Neb., Henry Jackson, D.-Wash., James McClure, R.-Ida., J.B. Johnston, D.-La., and Rep. Wilbur Mills, D.-Ark.

They paid back a total of $45,600 in illegal gifts. But Mills did not return another $50,000 Ashland contribution, strictly illegal, which was given to him to distrubute to Democratic colleagues.

Sen. James Eastland, D.-Miss., admitted receiving a $5,000 payment from Ashland but said he had no intention of returning it. House Democratic leader Tip O'Neill, D.-Mass., acknowledged he got $200 from Phillips. He also felt no obligation to return it. Both men explained that they didn't realize the contributions had come from corporate funds.

Most of the 45 legislators, whose names appear on the SEC lists of illegal recipients, refused to acknowledge that they got any illegal money from any corporation. Many have received letters from Gulf demanding restitution. They won't give back money, they said, that they don't recall receiving.

One Gulf letter, for example, went to Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D.-Minn. Through a spokesman, he denied receiving an illegal payment but acknowledged the gifts may have gone to his campaign committees. Our information indicates that Humphrey collected $30,500, all told, from Gulf and Ashland.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R.-Ore., according to the documents, received $11,000 from Phillips and Gulf. But a spokesman insisted that Hatfield never got any illegal payments.

Another $1,000 illegal donation from Phillips allegedly went to Sen. Strom Thurmond, R.-S.C. A spokesman said there's no record of the illegal payment but acknowledged it might have come in from a corporate bagman. The money, in any event, won't be returned.

There are reports that Speaker Carl Albert collected $3,000 from Phillips. A spokesman said the speaker vaguely remembers receiving contributions from Phillips but can't recall the exact amount. The money won't be returned.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., according to the records, accepted $3,000 from Ashland. An aide said the money won't be paid back. "It's between Ashland Oil and the man who made the contrubution," he said.

We found records at the SEC of illegal payments to members of Congress of $1.4 million from Gulf, $8,000,000 from Ashland and $500,000 from Phillips. We couldn't find how another 4 million from Gulf and $1.5 million from Northrop were distributed.

Only four corporations accounted for these staggering political payoffs. The SEC is investigating many other companies that were also slipping money to politicians. But no one is investigating the politicians who accepted the payments.

LAST LAUGH: In 1972, we told how Thai government leaders were helping to hustle heroin to U.S. markets. The Thais accused us of "slanderous accusations," and the State Dept., more delicately, backed them up.

Now we have found out who was slandering whom from some newly declassified State Dept. cables. They show our reports were so accurate that U.S. Ambassador to Thailland Leonard Unger thought they had been leaked from his classified cables to the State Dept.

Unger told the State Dept. in a "confidential" cable that our stories "appear to be unmistakably attributable to executive branch documents or conversations with executive-branch personnel privy to his and other missions reporting on events and conversations in Thailand.

"I realize," he went on, "that this should come as no surprise to me since apparently Jack Anderson has access to whatever he wants in Washington today.

A Degrading Obsession

Our fascination with the sex lives of our presidents is the ultimate degradation of the office of Chief Executive of the nation. As a people we are obsessed with the immorality of our leaders.

The current target is the all-time charmer, John F. Kennedy. A woman is trying to sell her intimate recollections of the President for $2 million. Others are eager to tell.

You cannot libel the dead. The ladies may lie to their heart's content, and no one can point an accusatory finger. We may some day read of exotic relationships which did not exist.

As an author, I spent five years researching the executive and personal life of Joh Kennedy. A first book, entitled "A Day in the Life of President Kennedy," flourished from time spent in the White House in October, 1963, with Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, the ushers, secretaries, aides, politicians and Secret Service agents around him.

A second, "The Day Kennedy Was Shot," amounted to over three years of research concerning one day in Dallas. I think that I have done my homework on Kennedy.

Not a Boudoir Acrobat

He was as sexually aggressive as his brothers—Joe, Bobby, Teddy. No more, no less. He was far from being a boudoir acrobat. In fact, Jack emerged as cheap and choosy.

When he was elected to Congress after World War II, he was known among the "eligible" girls of Georgetown as a rich kid who never carried money. At the movies, he fanned his pockets and murmured. "Guess I forgot my wallet, Can you lend me five until tomorrow?"

After his marriage to Jacqueline Bouvier, there was an intermittent tempest between them. The problem was not infidelity; it was money. Mrs. Kennedy spent; the President saved. Sometimes the arguments upstairs were loud.

Mrs. Kennedy and I had one thing in common: We despised each other. I saw her as a shallow snob. She saw me as a writer "of third-rate cliches." At a two-hour interview, we smiled at each other down the drain.

Nothing of the sexual side of the President's life appeared in either of the books because (1) none of it was unusual; (2) it was none of my business.

There are stories that Kennedy used the White House swimming pool for aquatic orgies with secretaries. I interviewed those secretaries. You couldn't get me to swim with them in a suit of armor.

Every president is offered sexual gifts. These come from young ladies who are impressed, not with the man, but his office. They yearn to touch more than a presidential sleeve. It happened to Lincoln, who was too depressed to have a relationship with Mrs. Lincoln, and it happened to Calvin Coolidge, who looked upon sex as a momentary weakness.

Lyndon Johnson was a flirt. He thought of himself as a homely Texas ol' boy and was flattered by the attentions of young women. I knew Richard Nixon pretty well in 1960-1961. He was so immersed in personal ambition that I connot conceive of him becoming amorous.

Warren Harding was married to a much older woman. He found time to hide a girl in White House closets, but he used women to buttress his feelings of inadequacy. Sometimes a bad woman can make a good man feel like a king.

Accountable to Spouse

America elects and pays a president to be an efficient public servant. If he has disputes with his wife, it is not our concern. If he is unfaithful—or she is—they are accountable to each other.

I would not list John F. Kennedy among the top five American presidents; he did not serve long enough to reach his potential. But I know that I will not read a book written by shoddy women who now propose to collect money for something they gave away long ago.

There is a word to describe women who sell their favors, whether they collect C.O.D. or on a time-payment plan. As readers, we must ask ourselves whether we will believe the stories such women relate about dead men.

I think about what Frank Sinatra told me at a party. "You read a lot of stories about my attachment to certain women," he said. "If one-tenth of one per cent of those stories were true, my organs would repose in a jar at Harvard Medical School right now." . . .

ABCs on First Opinion Poll . . . Part 2

I wrote recently about my role in originating the first Public Opinion poll based on weighted sampling — in the Fortune magazine of the 30's, of which I was then Managing Editor. I ended that little piece with the promise of documenting the skeptic of my own invention that the effort left me. Since then two generations have grown being confused, and often misled, by the popularity they achieved when taken up by other media than the Fortune of my day. This year of President-choosing, their accuracy is going to be more hotly debated than ever.

That a sampling process based on an honest attempt to choose those to be sampled in correct proportion to their numbers — in such easily identified categories as sex, age, income, race and religion (just to name a few) is a vast improvement on the random surveys of the 20's, there is no doubt whatever. But that that fact entitles them to be thought of as "scientific" is simply baloney.

The first thing we found out at Fortune was that the same questions differently phrased came back with quite different answers — and there was just no scientific method of deciding which were the soundest. So our final choice had to depend on our common sense. (You can, if you like, exempt simple requests as "who will you vote for? "— but you'll still have to guess whether you are getting honest answers and even if you are, whether the questioner won't change his or her mind 10 minutes later.)

But here only begins the sincere sampler's doubts. Doubt No. 2 may be even more shaking. It is whether the categories you've chosen can give you a meaningful cross section — i.e. do you know what you're talking about when you claim to be able to take the electorate apart accurately?

I remember that when Fortune's first serious survey turned out to be so red hot that was one of the first things that shook us up — and thereby hangs a tale.

I suspect it was Archie McLeish, who wrote the introduction to the first Fortune Survey, who was the first to suggest that we needed more than our own resources to counsel us on the next and I am sure that it was he who led us to Conant, then the President of Harvard University, to seek his advice.

I'll never forget that interview. As McLeish's friend as well as admirer, Conant asked us up to Cambridge for breakfast alone with him. When articulate Archie told him what we were up to, he reacted so strongly that he actually leapt up from the breakfast table in his excitement. "You don't know how important your coming to me is. This approach can alter the whole democratic process and only a collaboration between a University and a practically oriented organization like yours can realize its potential. It's how the steam engine came into existence. Watts, thinking in pragmatic terms, took his ideas to (I think it was) the University of London to work out the scientific principles he'd stumbled on."

Then on went the president of the great university, inventorying the specialists he'd assign to make a real science of public opinion sampling. We, at Fortune, would collaborate in transforming theory into practice. I recall that he even speculated on what Harvard's medical school could contribute: didn't glandular balance influence opinion?

At which juncture the great educator froze, mid-stride. "No! Harvard can have nothing whatever to do with it! This is a private, and privately financed institution and your survey will soon become deeply involved in public policy and politics. It would be disastrous."

And that was precisely when our dream of developing Public Opinion surveying into a sound science was shattered.

How right President Conant was! Public Opinion Surveying was indeed to become deeply involved in politics. So it has never had the serious concentration of the scientific establishment. This, to me, is a great pity — but that's another subject.

Meanwhile, read all the polls that appeal to you but don't let them con you into thinking of them as products of science.

Two May Settle for Influence

Ronald Reagan missed in Florida, as he did in New Hampshire, by getting just under 50 per cent of the Republican presidential primary vote. He has always repulsed third party advances, saying that he intends to keep fighting as a Republican. Of course, he'd have to say that anyway at this stage of the priiary game, just as George Wallace has to say he will continue to make his pitch not as an independent but as a registered Democrat. Credibility in primaries depends on an earnest show of party loyalty.

But there is more to it than that. No one has ever won on a third party bolt. To support his decision to remain a Republican, Reagan has the history of 1912, when Theodore Roosevelt's followers marched out of the Republican Chicago convention to form the Progressive party. Roosevelt did better than Taft in the November election, but the split enabled Woodrow Wilson, the Democrat, to win with under 42 per cent of the popular vote.

The Lincoln election of 1860 is often cited as a deviation from the rule that bolting dissidents never win, but there were four major candidates in the field in that convulsive year, not three. And, since the Whig party had already practically committed suicide, Lincoln was not exactly a bolting candidate.

Taking Stock

Since Florida apparently derailed both the Reagan and the Wallace campaigns, the two defeated men may decide, after putting up a struggle in further primaries, to settle for influence. Ford mght become convinced that he needs Reagan for his vice presidential running mate to make sure of getting a majority in November. And whoever the Democratic candidate may be (I still think it will be between Jackson and Humphrey), it would only be sensible to propitiate Wallace by offering him something of importance.

If this is the way things turn out, it will be a great disappointment to the conservatives who, with the record of the public opinion polls to justify them, are convinced that they are the new American majority.

Should the conservatives let the history of the unsuccessful 1912 Progressive party bolt deter them from trying to do something outside the Republican organization? If Reagan can consistently garner just under 50 per cent of the Republican primary vote, he would be almost in as an independent candidate if he could find some way of combining his loyal adherents with those of George Wallace. This is what makes the whole situation so tantalizing to the conservatives, who have to keep their mouths closed as long as Reagan and Wallace consider they still have a chance to pull something off by remaining on their traditional old party reservations.

Summer Summary

But the time will come next summer when there is no longer a need for silence. What Reagan and Wallace should keep in mind is that if there were two simultaneous bolts and a subsequent merging of the Republican and Democratic dissidents, it would be no 1912 Bull Moose situation. We would have something new under the sun. If Wallace can get 20 per cent of the Democratic primary vote in industrial states and between 30 and 55 per cent of delegates in the South, and if Regan can continue to hover in the 40 per cent bracket in his important primaries, there would seemingly be no stopping a combination of the dissidents in November.

It probably won't happen that way. The temptation to settle for influence in the old parties will probably be too strong for either Regan or Wallace, if not for both. But the merger could be pulled off if enough determined men were to rally to the cause.

What must be understood is that it would not be just a third party adventure. It would be a third and fourth party amalgamation promoted with the idea of becoming the first party out of an enthusiasm riding on sheer statistical momentum.

And who would be first on the ticket? Let the old party primary records decide that. We'll know a lot more by July.

Arms for Egypt . . . A Deep Dilemma

WASHINGTON — Confidential advice from Sen. Hubert Humphrey that the Ford administration bypass Congress by arranging a commercial sale of six military transport planes to Egypt contradicts Humphrey's public campaign to give Congress new, far-reaching control over all U.S. military sales abroad.

This private advice to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger — likely not to be heeded — can be explained in only one way: Humphrey and other leaders of the pro-Israel bloc know that this country must help Egypt in its spectacular turn away from Moscow at all costs; however they want to avoid a public vote on the matter.

Thus, the relatively insignificant sale of non-armed C-130 transports to Egypt for $40 million (compared to annual aid to Israel running nearly 40 times that amount) is posing a deep dilemma for politicians unwilling to face fundamental changes in the Mideast.

For Humphrey, an unannounced Democratic presidential prospect, the sale to Egypt is particularly distressing. Humphrey is author of a Senate-passed bill (now in a Senate-House conference committee) that would compel the President to give Congress a chance to veto any commercial arms sale of $25 million or more, just as Congress now can veto non-commercial sales between the U.S. and another government.

Yet, despite sponsoring this bill as part of his long battle to give Congress more control over world arms traffic, Humphrey quietly proposed that the administration handle the C-130 sale quickly as a routine commercial sale. Under existing law, that would bypass Congress — and get Humphrey off the nasty hook of having to vote the sale up or down.

The hook would be nasty for Humphrey because if he voted for the sale, as overwhelmingly dictated by Egypt's switch away from Soviet friendship to informal alliance with the U.S., he would be exposed to embarrassing contrast with Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a leading Democratic presidential candidate.

As Israel's foremost Senate champion, Jackson is under irresistible pressure to vote against the C-130's sale (publicly condemned by Israeli prime minister Yitzhak Rabin on March 4).

Humphrey's position is not unique. Republican Sens. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey and Jacob K. Javits of New York joined him in private talks with Kissinger agents strongly recommending the commercial sales route.

But other members of Congress who have tended to see only Israel's foreign policy interest — as opposed to Arab interests and perhaps even U.S. interests — appear to be changing. One major reason: the effect on U.S. relations with Egypt and the Arab world if, after expelling some 14,000 Soviet advisers in 1972 and now abrogating the Egyptian-Soviet friendship treaty, President Anwar Sadat is publicly humiliated by the U.S. and thrown back on the tender mercies of Moscow.

That might well be taken by the Arabs as a final verdict that the U.S., in the face of even so dramatic a turnabout as Egypt has just completed, is unable to take a decision in the Middle East publicly opposed by the Israeli government.

It is precisely for that reason that President Ford and Kissinger are now leaning strongly away from Humphrey's proposal to protect Congress from the C-130 hot potato.

Whereas Humphrey wants Congress relieved of any confrontation and vote, the administration now leans toward a direct collision on grounds that treating the C-130 sale as a "commercial" deal is flimflam — a way of gaining the short-term objective (sale of the C-130s) but losing the vital political point that deep changes in the Mideast demand deep changes by the U.S.

If the administation sticks to this position, a letter notifying Congress of the U.S.-Egyptian sale will be sent to the Senate and the House. Resolutions to veto the sale will be introduced, with the administration confident of victory (even if Humphrey should lead the veto fight.) The fact that such a direct collision with Congress is preferred to an undercover deal tells much about the administration's future arms plans with Egypt.

Thus, to keep Egypt from crawling back to Moscow for arms aid sometime in the future, the administration intends to open an arms supply-line with Egypt — but for only a fractional tidbit of the arms now flooding Israel — starting with the C-130s.

Mideast experts feel Congress will accept such a future commitment, however high the pressures from Israel to impose an American arms ban on Cairo. If that appraisal by the Ford administration is correct, it means that elected politicians may be taking a less stigmatic view of the Arabs, a change that holds more, not less, promise for the real future security of Israel and one that Humphrey might be advised to nurture instead of resist.

Population, Problems Grow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The world's growing population is intensifying problems ranging from inflation to the erosion of individual rights, the Worldwatch Institute said over the weekend.

The nonprofit, research institute said its study of 22 dimensions of the population problem showed "national and international leaders can no longer dodge the peril inherent in continuing rapid population growth.

"While slowing the growth in human numbers is not a panacea for all of humanity's problems," it said, the consequences of unchecked fertility should underline the urgent need to slow population growth.

The 80-page study said since the 18th century, when Malthus first made the connection between population and food supplies, there has been a "single-minded" focus on that aspect of the over-all problem. Worldwatch said others were at least as serious.

Among the other dimensions Worldwatch looked at were inflation, literacy, unemployment, hunger, housing, environmental illnesses and individual freedom.

In the 1970s, the study said, "a new source of long-term inflation has begun to emerge" — scarcity-induced inflation of such strategic items as petroleum, firewood, cereals and soybeans. Most of it is attributable to population growth.

"With 4 billion consumers already on the scene and 200,000 more being added each day, scarcity-induced inflationary pressures may become chronic," the study said.

"Indeed, inflation poses one of the most difficult challenges political leaders will face in the years ahead. What they must now realize is that, without a marked slowdown in population growth, inflation may simply not be manageable."

It said one of the "intractable consequences" of rising population growth may be chronic unemployment. Between 1970 and 2000, another 922 million jobs will be required in the developing countries as the working force doubles within the span of a generation.

Race-y Conversation?

Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter seeking the Democratic nomination for President, talks with a race fan in the Atlanta 500 pit area shortly before he started the race at the track in Hampton, Ga., with a drop of the green flag Sunday. (UPI)

Patty's Case Will Be Appealed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst, emotional and bitter over her bank robbery conviction, will go to Los Angeles this week for arraignment on kidnaping and assault charges, according to U.S. Attorney James Browning Jr.

Chief defense counsel F. Lee Bailey said the bank robbery case "definitely" will be appealed.

Browning said Sunday the 22-year-old newspaper heiress first would be interviewed by probation officers for a report to U.S. District Judge Oliver Carter on their recommendations for sentencing.

"We hope that can be accomplished early this week, and she can then be handed over to Los Angeles authorities," Browning said.

However, attorney Albert Johnson said the defense would fight the move until after Miss Hearst is sentenced April 19. She faces a term of up to 35 years for her conviction for armed bank robbery and using a firearm to commit a felony. As a minimum sentence she could be placed on probation.

The Los Angeles charges stem from May 16, 1974, a month after the bank robbery, when Miss Hearst fired two guns to cover the escape of Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris after a shoplifting incident at Mel's Sporting Goods store.

During the next 24 hours, it is charged, they stole four vehicles and kidnaped two of the owners.

Johnson said Miss Hearst was upset over the bank robbery verdict, crying and sobbing, unable to sleep the night after the verdict was returned and telling him repeatedly: "I never had a chance."

"Unless the jury had lived through it like I did, they never could have realized what it was like," Johnson quoted her as saying.

Miss Hearst was visited at San Mateo County Jail Sunday by her father, Randolph Hearst, and two of her sisters. As he left, Hearst said, "She's all right."

Several members of the jury of seven women and five men, who brought in the unexpectedly sudden verdict Saturday after deliberating for only a day and a half, said the panel decided as it did because of Miss Hearst's own actions.

They cited her refusal to talk about the "missing year" of her underground life, a jail conversation in which she expressed anger at being caught, and her actions at Mel's.

"We weren't happy to do it, but it was the only verdict we could pass," said juror Philip Crabbe, 35, a postal employe. He said the fact she took the 5th Amendment 42 times and refused to talk about her last year as a fugitive "probably was a factor" in reaching a decision against her.

Juror Norman Grim, 44, an airline employe, said that even after she broke with the Harrises she did not try to contact anyone for protection and help.

"I can't buy the fact that she was being coerced," Grim said. "We just couldn't buy Bailey's whole package — and the way it was presented, you had to buy the whole package."

Grim said the jury also did not believe her story that the Mel's shooting was a "reflex action" she did without thinking because of her training by the SLA.

"She picked up one gun and emptied it and then picked up the other one," he said. "That kinda made you believe she (had been) in the bank voluntarily."

He also said the taped jail conversation with a friend where she said she was "p—— d off" at being arrested "didn't jibe" with "her story that she was under thought control when she was arrested."

Israel to Sit Down

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — In an unprecedented diplomatic move, Israel has decided to sit down at a U.N. Security Council meeting later today in the presence of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The emergency session was requested by Libya and Pakistan to discuss Arab unrest in Old Jerusalem and in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of Jordan.

An Israeli spokesman in Jerusalem said Ambassador Chaim Herzog had been instructed "to participate and express Israel's position" in the debate.

Until today, Israel has steadfastly refused to meet with the PLO on the grounds the organization is bent on the destruction of the Jewish state. Most recently, it boycotted the Council's Middle East debate in January because the PLO was invited.

It was not immediately clear why Israel had decided on the apparent shift in policy.

On behalf of the 41-nation Islamic Group, Libya and Pakistan Friday demanded the Council "take prompt and effective measures which would halt the deterioration of the situation and put an end to Israeli defiance of existing decisions on Jerusalem."

Arab youths have demonstrated almost daily in recent weeks on the West Bank to protest an Israeli court ruling permitting Jews to pray near Al Aqsa Mosque, the third holiest shrine in Islam, on Jerusalem's Temple Mount.

The Israeli government was displeased by the court decision and has challenged it in the courts. Its position was strengthened Sunday by an Israeli Supreme Court ruling upholding the government's right to bar Jews from praying at the shrine.

Shriver to Clarify Position

By UPI

Sargent Shriver, who all but withdrew as an active candidate after getting trounced in the Illinois primary, called a news conference today to clarify his status.

In North Carolina, underdogs George Wallace, Democrat, and Ronald Reagan, Republican, continued to punch their principal opponents — Jimmy Carter and President Ford. But the latter two were so confident they stayed home for a Sunday of relaxation.

Reagan told reporters in Asheville, N.C., he would like to win Tuesday but would be satisfied with a close second-place finish. "Our strength lies somewhere down the road," he said.

A Wallace aide denied reports the Alabama governor privately conceded chances of winning. He said Wallace will outpoll Carter by 4 to 6 percentage points in North Carolina.

Carter, as is usual for him, spent most of Sunday at his Georgia farm but did emerge to drop the green flag to start the Atlanta 500 stock car race.

In an interview with editors of the Washington Post, published Sunday, he said he would not have authorized CIA covert action in Angola, would pull the 700 nuclear weapons out of South Korea, would withdraw U.S. troops stationed there over a four-or five-year period and would strengthen relations with Japan.

Henry Jackson, on a weekend swing through Wisconsin, claimed the backing of about 90 per cent of the state's organized labor and said it could give him an "upset victory" in the April 6 primary over his major opponents, Carter and Morris Udall.

Fred Harris and the newest Democratic entrant, Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, appeared on televised interview programs.

Harris called for a $10 billion individual income tax cut paid for by making the "superrich and giant corporations start paying their fair share." He also attacked Carter's position on tax policy.

Church said limiting the nuclear arms race would be a major goal if he is elected.

Udall, running in New York's primary as well as Wisconsin's on April 6, won the endorsement Sunday of New York's New Democratic Coalition — the first time the organization has officially backed a presidential candidate.

Political observers called the NDC vote a boost for Udall, who already has picked up many of former candidate Birch Bayh's supporters in the state.

Ford spent Saturday campaigning in North Carolina and Sunday at the White House.

On Saturday, Carter picked up eight of the 28 convention delegates selected in Oklahoma and Harris got five. Another 15 were uncommitted and nine others will be chosen next month.

Carey Freeze Could Cost $328 Million

ALBANY (UPI) — A major contractors association charges that Gov. Hugh L. Carey's freeze on hiring state employes could result in the loss of $328 million in federal funds — a major portion of a much-lauded $3 billion public works program intended to create 150,000 jobs.

Frederick Compagni, president of the State Federation of Utility Contractors Associations, issued a statement Sunday saying that delays in processing project applications could mean the failure to meet deadlines for receiving federal water and sewer funds.

Compagni attributed the delays to the failure to fill 20 sanitary engineer positions in the Environmental Conservation Department's Bureau of Construction Grants which were approved by the legislature last year.

"In effect," he said, "the state is saving $400,000 in salaries and risks the loss of $328 million in federal aid."

"Sewers cannot be built by news releases along," Compagni said. "Our industry is disappointed because 150,000 new construction jobs which would have been created through this program have not materialized at a time of high unemployment."

Last June 3, Carey's public relations office issued a statement announcing a plan to expedite approval of pure waters projects after the U.S. Supreme Court acted to "free up" several billions of dollars in federal funds impounded by Presidnet Nixon.

The plan projected $1.13 billion would be let for contract in 1975 and $1.6 billion in 1976.

EnCon Commissioner Ogden Reid, contacted by UPI at his New York City office, admitted that the program was running behind expectations — $960 million worth of projects had been readied for contracting to date.

Only $150 million worth of projects were approved the year before he became commissioner, Reid said.

He also said that there were 30 unfilled jobs in the bureau responsible for processing project applications, instead of the 22 Compagni reported.

However, he said he expected the hirng freeze, as it relates to that department function, would soon be eased and added that the Budget Division had given tentative approval for hiring another "40 plus" to expedite the program.

The program "obviously has had some constraints" due to the budgetary and money market problems experienced by the state in recent months, Reid said.

He criticized New York City officials for delays in making certain decisions that would complete application for the $270 million Red Hook project, which he said would bring the accelerated public works program nearly up to expectations in terms of jobs created.

"I want to make it absolutely clear," Reid said, "that both Governor Carey and I continue to hold this program a top priority, not only in terms of jobs, but environmentally as well."

Compagni said the state must make applications for $278 million in projects by July 1 "or lose this sum" in federal aid. An additional $1 billion must be obligated by Sept. 30, 1977, to qualify for the federal funds, which will otherwise be awarded to other states.

"From our analysis," Compagni said the department staff can now process only about $50 million worth of projects a month, "and we, therefore, believe that EnCon will only be able to obligate $200 million of the $278 million by July 1."

"In the remaining 15 month, it will fall short by at least an additional $250 million on the Sept. 30, 1977, target date," he said.

"The lack of action on this program is an outrage," Compagni said. "New York State is almost criminally negligent in this matter and ranks low in terms of processing local community water and sewer applications."

Mellow Faces Charges

NEW YORK (UPI) — Millionaire Pittsburgh banker Seward Prosser Mellon could be liable to a variety of charges in the abduction of his two daughters from their mother's Brooklyn hideaway, sources close to the investigation said today.

Police and officials from Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold's office called a meeting today to discuss possible charges against Mellon and the men who seized the two girls from the home of their mother, Karen Boyd Mellon.

Three men disarmed a bodyguard in a car outside Mrs. Mellon's home Friday and abducted Catherine Leigh Mellon, 7, and her 5-year-old sister, Constance Elizabeth.

The bodyguard, Lester Carew, told police the men claimed they were FBI agents and had their hands in their pockets as if they were carrying guns.

A spokesman for the district attorney's office said the men could be charged with first-degree robbery, applicable when someone "uses or threatens the use of a dangerous weapon."

A source close to the investigation said Mellon and the men also could be charged with kidnaping.

"We have not separated Mellon from the incident in Brooklyn," the source said. "He may have been the driver. No one has been identified."

Sit-in Over at New Paltz

NEW PALTZ—It appeared earlier today as if the occupation of three floors of the State University College at New Paltz administration building by students was over, after a full weekend of discussion and negotiation between students and administrative officials.

A resolution had been adopted Saturday night by the New Paltz branch of the ad hoc Statewide Alliance Against the Cutbacks (state budget) that would lead to release for the seventh, eighth, and ninth floor of the building after five-day sit in.

Conditions reportedly asked for (and ultimately met) in negotiations with President Stanley Coffman and other administrators included: a series of "worksohps" be held (they were held for six hours Sunday); an open campus meeting be held (it is scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight); Dr. Coffman speak with the chairman of he college board of trustees (reportedly accomplished); and that no arrests be made at any units of the state university system in conncetion with building occupations (Binghamton and Fredonia have emptied our protestors with amnesty).

There were several students still in the building earlier this morning when full staff returned to work in the administration building, according to presidential assistant Gail Gallerie. A "seleton crew" had been working during the occupation.

The students do not consider the occupation of strategic importance, according to statements made, and have tried to demonstrate solidarity with campus staffworkers and professionals by not allowing violent elements to gain control of their actions. One written statement on the student fight against education budget cutbacks concludes with the phrase, "Politicians are unable to deal with our problems. It must be a peoples' movement."

Excellent Investment

NEW YORK (UPI) — A rare Ming vase, bought by a Philadelphia couple for $150 in the 1940s, has been auctioned off for $260,000, believed to be the highest price paid in this country for a piece of Chinese art.

A spokesman for the Sotheby Parke Bernet gallery, 980 Madison Ave., said the 16th Century five-color porcelain jar owned by Mr. and Mrs. A. Douglas Oliver was sold Saturday to Eskenazi dealers of London.

The spokesman said the $260,000 price tag was "a record price in America at auction for Chinese art."

The Olivers bought the vase "for 150 bucks in an antique shop in the late '40s in Philadelphia," the spokesman said. "A local museum appraised it for $450 and told them, 'You got a nice bargain.'"

Jim Lally, head of Chinese art at Sotheby's said, "The estimate was probably correct in the '40s. Chinese art didn't start to take off until 1965."

Lally had appraised the vase at $75,000 to $100,000.

Special Moment for Senior

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kentucky, which has won four national championships, calmly added a second National Invitation Tournament title to its glorious basketball history.

The 71-67 victory Sunday over UNC-Charlotte touched off no wild celebrations or emotional displays on the part of the Wildcats.

But it was a special moment for senior guard Reggie Warford.

Warford scored 14 points for the Wildcats and played a vital role in their victory over UNC-Charlotte.

Only two weeks ago, Warford started the first game of his Kentucky career in the Wildcats' upset of Alabama, a victory celebrated with more exuberance than the NIT title.

A rib cage muscle tear threatened to keep Warford on the bench against UNC-Charlotte, but he talked coach Joe Hall into letting him start his last game and the low-scoring guard came through with 14 crucial points.

With Mike Phillips and Jack Givens on the bench for 10 minutes of the second half with four fouls each, it was left for Warford, who had only a 6.6 average, and backcourt mate Larry Johnson to do the scoring. Johnson finished with 16, which tied Phillips for Kentucky's high-scoring honors.

Kentucky coach asked Warford before the game if he was able to play and the 6-foot guard replied, "What difference does it make? I don't have to worry about it later."

After the game, Warford told reporters: "If I had missed my first shot, I would have asked coach to take me out of the game. I'd rather sit on the bench and watch the team win than hurt it by playing.

"I'm just going back to the playgrounds. It's the same, only there aren't 13,000 people watching. You just turn around and give each skin on a good shot. I'll shoot a lot."

The Kentucky victory deprived UNC-Charlotte's NIT adventure of a fairy tale ending, but the 49ers Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell walked over with the tournament's Most Valuable Player award after scoring 24 points.

Maxwell totalled 109 points in four games and set an NIT record by sinking 47 of 53 free throws. The old record was 38 successful free throws by St. John's Alan Seiden in 1959.

North Carolina State won the NIT's third-place trophy with a 74-69 victory over Providence as Kenny Carr scored 15 points and Phil Spence 14 to lead the Wolfpack.

Home Win For Solomon

By UPI

Harold Solomon didn't disappoint the home fans.

Solomon, who grew up in the Washington suburb of Silver Spring, Md., defeated New Zealander Onny Parun, 6-3, 6-1, in the finals of the $60,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament in the nation's capital Sunday. Solomon has now won two of his three latest tournaments in Washington and was runnerup in the third.

After collecting the $17,000 winner's check, Solomon said the friendly home atmosphere as a factor in his victory over the unseeded Parun.

"I prepare a little harder because I'm playing before my family and friends," he said. "I wish I could play all of my tournaments here."

The fourth-seeded Solomon split another $4,000 with Eddie Dibbs for their 6-4, 7-5 win over Mark Cox and Cliff Drysdale in the doubles final.

In other matches, Evonne Goolagong, playing almost flawlessly, dispatched ailing Martina Navratilova, 6-1, 6-1, Sunday to win the $75,000 Virginia Slims of Dallas tennis tournament.

Goolagong surged through the tournament without losing a set. She lost only 19 games in five matches and collected $15,000. It was her third win on the Slims circuit this year and hiked her prize money total to $63,125.

Navratilova said following her loss that she will take three weeks off in order to allow her ailing wrist to heal. The Czechoslovakian-born star is suffering from tendonitis and was well off her game against Goolagong.

Arthur Ashe handed Sweden's Bjorn Borg his first defeat in the $10,000, winner-take-all WCT Challenge Cup in Keauhou-Kona, Hawaii. There were controversial line calls throughout and they hampered Borg's play as he fell, 6-4, 7-6, 6-3.

Top-seeded Ken Rosewall relied on his powerful backhand to beat Raul Ramirez, 6-3,,6-3 and win the Tennis South Inivitation at Jackson, Miss., for the second straight year. Rosewall won $17,000.

Marty Riessen and Roscoe Tanner beat Sandy Mayer and Peter Fleming, 7-6, 7-6, in Independent Players Association doubles play at Carlsbad, Calif. Riessen and Tanner pocketed $3,000 each.

Unbeatens Battling Tradition

By UPI

For the first time, two unbeaten teams have advanced to the semifinals of the NCAA basketball championships. But before either Indiana or Rutgers can claim the national championship, they'll have to contend with the most awesome tradition in collegiate history.

Indiana, proudly bearing a 30-0 record and the nation's No. 1 ranking, gets first crack at the mystique of UCLA on Saturday. In the other semifinal at Philadelphia, 31-0 Rutgers meets another upstart team in Michigan.

The two survivors will play Monday night for the championship.

UCLA, although a loser of four games this season and ranked only fifth, cannot be discounted this far along in the playoffs simply because of its history—10 NCAA crowns in the last 12 years. Indiana, meantime, lost to the Bruins a few years ago in the semifinals and last year, after turning in another perfect regular season, lost to Kentucky in the Mideast regional final.

The difference between last year and this, though, is that Scott May is healthy this time. Against Kentucky last year, he had a broken arm and was ineffective trying to play with the arm in a cast. Also, the Hoosiers creamed UCLA, 84-64, back on Nov. 29 in a game played at St. Louis.

Indiana reached its current plateau the hard way, beating second-ranked Marquette, 65-56, in the Mideast regional final at Baton Rouge, La., Saturday. In the other regional finals, UCLA beat Arizona, 82-66, at Los Angeles, third-ranked Rutgers routed VMI, 91-75, at Greensboro, N.C., and Michigan overcame Missouri, 95-88, at Louisville, Ky.

Johnny Wooden, the retired "Wizard of Westwood" who led UCLA to its long string of successes, is one person confident that his successor, Gene Bartow, can lead the Bruins to another championship.

"When we've had to do it, we've done it," Wooden said. "I'm not making any predictions, but I was glad to see Indiana beat Marquette in the Mideast Regionals.

"That's not to say Indiana is not a great team. It is. But I think we can play Indiana better than Marquette because of the styles. It is simply a matter of matchups."

"I just hope," Wooden added, "history repeats itself. We beat North Carolina State during the regular season two years ago and then we lost to them in the NCAA semifinals. The same thing could happen at Philadelphia."

Bartow, who has been under severe pressure all season, said, "Well, we're where we're supposed to be at this time of the year. At least, that's what they told me when I came here."

Rutgers, after barely squeezing by Princeton, 54-53, in the opening round of the regionals, has come back strong and Coach Tom Young said, "I think right now we're playing as well as we have all year long. Our bench is doing a good job for us...and we're in great shape to go to Philadelphia."

He declined to comment on what strategy he is planning for Michigan, but he added, "It will a relief to be considered an underdog. We have been the favorite for so long, but we won't be underdog by much."

Claudine Longet and Spider Sabich

Book Claudine Longet In Sabich Shooting

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI) — Valdimir "Spider" Sabich, former world professional ski champion, was shot fatally Sunday and French-born singer and actress Claudine Longet was booked on an "investigation of homicide" charge.

Authorities today attempted to determine if his death was intentional or accidental.

French-born singer and actress Claudine Longet was advised of her rights today after being booked on the investigation charge. Authorities said if there are other charges, they will not be filed for several days.

Sabich, 31, was shot once in the stomach Sunday at his $250,000 home in Starwood, an exclusive Aspen subdivision. An autopsy was ordered.

"The investigation is centering on whether the shooting was accidental or intentional," said Pitkin County District Attorney Frank Tucker. "I have no idea what the cause was for the shooting.

"She'll be advised, not charged, today," he said. "The investigation is continuing."

Miss Longet, 35, the former wife of entertainer Andy Williams, has lived with Sabich for the past two years. Tucker said she reported the shooting late Sunday afternoon.

Aspen City Manager Phillip Mahoney said Miss Longet gave sheriff's deputies a statement before being taken to an undisclosed location. He said no cause for the shooting was known, although early reports indicated it was an accident.

"It came down to me that it wasn't a passion thing, but that the two of them were just clowning around," said Mahoney.

Miss Longet spent the night with friends after posting a $5,000 personal recognizance bond.

Williams, who was divorced from Miss Longet last spring, flew to Aspen early today to join his three children and his former wife, according to a family friend in Los Angeles.

"I understand there is some evidence it (the shooting) could have been an accident," the family friend said. "She is not in jail."

Sabich, a graduate of Colorado University and a member of its ski team, finished fifth at the 1968 Winter Olympics in Grenoble, won the World Pro Skiing crown in 1970, his first year on the pro tour, and the following year.

He had been semiactive since suffering a serious back injury in the final race of the 1973 season.

Miss Longet, who recently finished an album for Williams' record company, filed for divorce from the entertainer in January, 1975. Williams was often seen with Ethel Kennedy, widow of assassinated Sen. Robert Kennedy, following the couples' separation.

The Williams' youngest child was named after Kennedy.

"I am a fortunate woman, "Miss Longet said in an UPI interview two months before she filed for divorce. "I have a husband, I have my children and I also have my man. There's no reason two people can't live like Andy and I do."

Miss Longet also announced during the interview her plans to retire as an actress.

"Acting is tiresome," she said. "I don't like sitting around a set wasting time when I could be out skiing or enjoying myself by going out of town with my man. No, I won't tell anyone his name."

Pearson Survives Tough Race

HAMPTON, Ga. (UPI) — "I'm give out" David Pearson said after winning nearly $17,000 at the Atlanta 500 Sunday afternoon, and he thrust out his hands to show two large blisters as proof.

"This is the hardest race I've ever run and I've got these blisters to prove it," he said.

Remarking about a blown tire that put him one lap down early in the race, Pearson said "I never thought I would ever catch up."

The Spartanburg, S.C., native was not to be denied, however, as he saw many of racing's top competitors fall by the wayside.

Pole-sitter Dave Marcis, who set a track qualifying record of 160.709 miles an hour in the trials, dropped out with a blown engine on lap 109. Richard Petty, the only man to ever win six Winston Cup Grand National Championships, succummed to similar problems and dropped from competition on lap 194.

Buddy Baker, another victim of engine failure, went out with less than 150 miles to run.

That left Pearson to duel Benny Parsons for the checkered flag.

"David's corner speed was just too much for me," said Parsons. "When he dropped off the pace before that last caution flag (flag No. 8) I began to think I might have a chance to win."

But Parsons said Pearson "came back stronger than ever and I knew I could forget about Victory Lane unless David's car developed trouble. It's tough to sit there and know you can't win even though you're so close."

Pearson said he felt a vibration when Parsons went around him.

"I thought it was my engine, and I backed off," he said. "But since there were only a few laps left and nothing happened when I kept driving, I figured it must be a tire."

Cale Yarborough, who had been plagued by mechanical problems for the past year and is the only four-time Atlanta 500 winner, said he was disappointed at his third-place finish.

"But I'm pleased that we're back to being competitive. Every race has a boss," Yarborough said, "and we were the boss out there today. It's just that the boss lost this time."

Pearson agreed.

"Cale had the fastest car, and if there had been one more caution flag he would probably have won it," Pearson said. "He was flying."

Yarborough took a commanding lead early in the race, but was forced into a 2:26 pit stop under green to repair a broken distributor. He was never able to make up his lost time.

The race was accident-free despite the eight caution flags falling for 46 laps. The closest call came on pit road when then-leaders Yarborough, Pearson and Marcis rushed to return to the track.

A crash was narrowly avoided as Yarborough scooted past with only inches to spare.

Pearson was asked if 1976 will be better for him than 1973, when he had 10 superspeedway wins in one season.

"Well," Pearson replied with a grin, "I've won three of the four races I've entered this year, and it sure looks like a helluva good start."

Bieler Scores Cup Upset

MONT STE. ANNE, Que. (UPI) — Italian Franco Bieler upset World Cup champion Ingemar Stenmark of Sweden Sunday in a dual slalom race, the last on the World Cup circuit this year.

The 25-year-old Italian easily won the first heat by 1.256 seconds before the 20-year-old Stenmark took the second run by 0.962 seconds to finish just 0.294 behind Bieler for the two runs.

Canadian Jim Hunter of Calgary, was third and another Italian, Fausto Radici, fourth.

The win for Bieler was his first on the World Cup circuit, although the dual slalom here— the only parallel race of the season—didn't count for individual World Cup points.

The race did count toward the Nations' Cup, however, but had no bearing on those final standings, which Austria wrapped up on Friday.

Despite rain and above freezing temperatures, the racers said they had good conditions for their runs through the 24 gates on the 290-meter (1,157 foot) course with a verticle drop of 90 meters (359 feet).

In getting to the finals, Bieler took a bye into the second round and then defeated American Steve Mahre, of White Pass, Wash., and two fellow Italians—Gustavo Thoeni and Radici—to set up the finals against Stenmark in the elimination event.

Stenmark's road to the finals saw wins over Canadian Dave Murray of Abbotsford, B.C., Austrian Anton Steiner, Peter Luescher of Switzerland and Hunter.

Finishing behind Radici, in order, were: Walter Tresch of Switzerland, Thoeni, West German Christian Neureuther and Luescher.

The race was only the second pro-type dual slalom in World Cup history. Last year, Thoeni took the event in Val Gardina, Italy.

On Saturday, the women ran the same course with Switzerland's Bernadette Zurdriggen, defeating Irene Epple of West Germany.

Green's Record Speaks for Itself

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Hubert Green is frequently overlooked when people talk about "super stars" on the pro golf tour.

But his record speaks pretty loudly for itself.

Green, a 29-year-old Birmingham, Ala., native has been on the tour only five and a half years, but has won 10 tournaments and more than $616,000.

He picked up his second tournament victory in two weeks Sunday by beating Miller Barber by two strokes in the Greater Jacksonville Open. True, he didn't have "super star" Jack Nicklaus to contend with here — but Hubert beat the "Golden Bear" by six strokes the Sunday before in the Doral Open.

"Nicklaus wins more than anyone else percentage-wise, I guess," said Green, who raised his earnings the past two weeks to more than $89,000 to move past Nicklaus and Johnny Miller into fourth place on this year's money list.

"But, he doesn't win everything."

Green, who has yet to win a "major" championship (Nicklaus has won 15), hopes his current hot streak will carry through the Masters, three weeks from now.

"But, I won't feel good about the Masters 'til April, when I get there."

Green was eighth in last year's Masters, nine strokes behind champion Nicklaus.

His win here Sunday was his third in six months since he won the Southern Open last September for his only 1975 triumph after winning three tournaments and more than $200,000 in 1974.

Green says he's more interested in the victories than the money they bring.

"I'm out on the tour trying to win titles, not money!" he said.

Green threw away an early three-stroke lead Sunday when he took a double-bogey five at the third hole, throwing his putter on the ground in disgust when he missed the second of three putts he needed after driving into a sand trap.

"I hit a four-iron into the bunker, then lost my concentration," he explained.

Green quickly regained his compusure with a birdie at the next hole and reopened a three-stroke lead at No. 11 when he birdied and Barber bogeyes.

But the tournament wasn't over.

When Barber birdied 16 and Green bogeyed 17, Green went into the final hole protecting a one-stroke lead and promptly hit "a very stupid tee shot that ran through the trees into a bunker on the left."

Green took a nine-iron out of his bag and placed the ball just 18 inches from the cup to set up a birdie to double his lead.

That gave Green, who had shot 67s in both the second and third rounds, a 70-276 to tie the total he shot when he won this tournament two years ago.

"It was a fine round for Hubert," said Barber, who finished 71-278. "He used great shots and sure worked with the elements, especially the wind."

Southern Idaho Defense Was Difference

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI) — Early in last weekend's championship games at the National Junior College Basketball Tournament, Southern Idaho coach Boyd Grant was praying his team's defense would hold up.

"From the way the game started, I was wondering if we'd ever get a basket," said Grant. "I felt defense would be the difference."

The way the game started was with top-ranked Southern Idaho going without a field goald for more than five minutes. It ended with Southern Idaho winning its first junior college championship, 62-50, over Mercer (N.J). and allowing Mercer to hit only 41 per cent of its shots.

"There was no question, our man-to man defense was not giving up many shots," said Grant, whose team was runnerup in the junior college tournament last year. "We just didn't make any mistakes on defense. Without a doubt it was a defensive win."

Southern Idaho took control of the game midway through the second half when guard Andre Wakefield sparked it to 11 unanswered points, scoring seven of the points himself, and moving the Eagles from a 41-39 advantage to a 52-39 edge.

"When we got eight or so points ahead, they had to come after us." said Grant. "The teams had been here all week and were pretty weary by this time. That made it awful hard. It seemed like the last couple of days, the team that broke out early in the second half won."

Wakefield finished with 17 points while Kenny Davis, who was named the tournament's outstanding player, had 16 points and 11 rebounds.

In other Saturday games, DeKalb South (Ga.) beat Columbia (Tenn.) 76-70 for third place; Allegheny (Pa.) beat Westchester (N.Y.) 54-45 for fourth place; Burlington (Iowa) beat Anderson (S.C.) 84-74 for fifth place and Lake Land (Ill.) beat Casper (Wyo.) 68-60 for sixth.

For Davis and Wakefield the win had a special meaning. They were the only returning starters for the Southern team which was beaten in the finals by Western Texas last year. And in the game, Davis picked up three fouls in the first five minutes of play and his fourth in the opening minutes of the second half.

"Last year we didn't have the intensity and we weren't ready," said Wakefield. "This year, we knew what it was about. We were ready for what had to be done."

But Davis felt the championship was clinched early in the season.

"They ranked us number one real early," he said. "It just seemed logical that the number one team would win the title."

Nolan Ryan Passes First Training Test

By UPI

The tall, slender righthander unleashed a fast ball and the rest of the California camp listened in pained silence for the reaction. The one word they didn't want to hear was "ouch."

But instead of yelling out in pain, the pitcher methodically waited for the return throw from his catcher and continued his workout. For both Nolan Ryan and his Angel teammates, spring training was a happy time.

"Amazing," catcher Andy Etchebarren said of Ryan's 15-minute session of batting practice at Holtville, Calif., Sunday. And Ryan offered, "You'd never know I had an operation."

Ryan, the all-time major league strikeout king when he claimed 383 victims in 1974, slipped to a 14-12 record last year and then underwent surgery last Sept. 23 to have a bone chip removed from his right elbow. On Sunday he threw a variety of fast balls and curves.

"He threw just excellent," claimed the Angels' chipper manager, Dick Williams. "He's further along than we anticipated."

The Angels also helped cheer another West Coast team on the first weekend of the delayed spring training season when they sold eight-year veteran catcher Ellie Rodriguez to the Los Angeles Dodgers for an undisclosed amount of cash and outfielder Orlando Alvarez.

"We always like to have an experienced catcher around if you need him," Los Angeles Manager Walter Alston explained.

However, there was speculation the Dodgers are planning another trade since they also have Steve Yeager, Joe Ferguson and infielder Ted Sizemore available to duty behind the plate. Rodriguez, who previously played with the New York Yankees, Kansas City Royals and Milwaukee Brewers, batted .235 at California last year.

Another pitcher who received good news Sunday was Jerry Koosman of the New York Mets, and the word he heard was that he wasn't being designated for the bullpen.

"I'm opening the season with Koosman in my starting rotation," Rookie Manager Joe Frazier said from the Mets' camp at St. Petersburg, Fla. "In fact, he is pitching our fourth game in Chicago."

Koosman was a 14-game winner last year, when he was asked to make two relief appearances. He has been named to open the exhibition season against the Yankees at Fort Lauderdale Wednesday night.

In other training camps: Nate Colbert reported to the Montreal Expos three days late because of illness in his family and claimed that former Manager Gene Mauch treated him unfairly last year, saying, "He deliberately overlooked me. I don't know why, I never did anything to him."...righthanders Harry Rasmussen and Lynn McGlothen will pitch for the St. Louis Cardinals in their first exhibition game against Detroit Wednesday...All-Star outfielder Bobby Murcer was one of only three players missing from the San Francisco camp.

Also: Recently acquired outfielder Oscar Gamble came to the Yankee camp proudly showing off a 10-inch Afro, and was escorted to a barber shop for a haircut...Dave Parker of the Pirates, on his fourth swing of the spring, drove a pitch some 400 feet well over the right-center field wall of the part at Bradenton, Fla., and said his goals for 1976 were to increase by 10 on his performance of last year when he batted .308, hit 25 homers and drove in 101 runs.

At Miami, Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said he would skip intrasquad games due to the late start of spring training...George Scott continued to impress with the bat, but said "under no circumstances" would he play in Milwaukee's first exhibition game Wednesday...Hector Torres hit a two-run double in the 11th inning to drive home the winning runs in a San Diego intrasquad game...and Kevin Bell singled home the winning run in the ninth inning of a White Sox intrasquad game.

A Lost Weekend For Philly's Sixers

By UPI

While the Boston Celtics were finding themselves again with the return of John Havlicek, the Philadelphia 76ers were having a "lost weekend."

Boston, which couldn't break 100 points while Havlicek was out six games resting a sore knee and has surpassed 100 points in the three games he's played since his return, kayoed Philadelphia Saturday night and Sunday.

But the biggest loss for the 76ers was that of high-scoring George McGinnis, who tore cartilage in his left knee following a collision with Boston's Paul Silas Saturday.

Without McGinnis, Philadelphia, now eight games behind the Celtics, was just unable to compete under the boards Sunday in a 108-100 loss. McGinnis is a forward but his presence often is felt elsewhere. Four 76er centers, who might've received some help from the brawny 6-foot 8, 225-pounder, combined for five points and 15 rebounds while Boston's Dave Cowens broke loose for 33 points and 27 rebounds.

"We were dominated in the center—that's as simply as I can put it," said 76er Coach Gene Shue. "At all the other positions, we probably outplayed all their players but they dominated at center. It was not even close."

Cowens, who had 28 points and 22 rebounds Saturday night in a 103-96 overtime win at Philadelphia, was often all alone under the boards. He had 18 points and 10 rebounds in the final period.

"We just kept going to Dave in the fourth quarter—he's our insurance," said Havlicek. "I was calling so many 'sixes' (in which the ball goes to Cowens near the basket) that I changed to something else one time just to give the play a blow (rest). But Tommy (Coach Heinsohn) told me to call the play right back."

"The ball was moving in my direction and they didn't front me," said Cowens. "Harvey (Catchings) would go after the ball and leave me alone inside. It's easier for me without McGinnis in there. He's one more guy to deal with and their leading scorer and rebounder. He's an integral part; he really helps their effort."

Doug Collins had 28 points, Lloyd Free 24 and Steve Mix 22 for the 76ers. Havlicek had 20 points for Boston.

In other NBA games, Kansas City beat Chicago 112-101, Seattle topped Houston 17-107, Cleveland edged Washington 95-92, Detroit stopped Buffalo 118-112 and Milwaukee ripped Los Angeles 130-111.

In the ABA, Denver whipped St. Louis 131-115, Kentucky beat Virginia 138-129 and Indiana defeated San Antonio 114-109.

Kings 112, Bulls 101

Nate Archibald scored 25 points and Jimmy Walker added 20 to keep Kansas City's playoff hopes alive. The contest was enlivened in the fourth period when, after a technical foul on Chicago's Jack Marin, referee Jim Capers ejected Bulls assistant Ed Badger. Badger threw a chair at a fan seated behind the Chicago bench and the fan, in turn, threw the chair at Head Coach Dick Motta, who had to be restrained by his players as fans and police converged on the bench area.

Sonics 117, Rockets 107

Slick Watts poured in 10 points in a third-quarter surge and came up with five steals to tie Rick Barry's single-season steal record of 229 as Seattle beat Houston.

Cavs 95, Bullets 92

Bobby Smith tossed in 27 points, including a key jumper with two minutes left, to spark Cleveland past Washington before the Cavs' second-largest home crowd ever, 20,784. The Cavs moved to within 1½ games of the Bullets in the Central Division and cut their magic playoff number to five.

Pistons 118, Braves 112

Bob Lanier (34 points and 18 rebounds) and Curtis Rowe (22 points and 16 rebounds) provided the scoring and rebounding punch as Detroit beat Buffalo to snap a four-game losing streak.

Bucks 130, Lakers 111

Bob Dandridge had 27 points and Brian Winters 26 to lead Milwaukee past Los Angeles. The victory was Coach Larry Costello's 400th win in his eight-year career with the Bucks.

Nuggets 131, Spirits 115

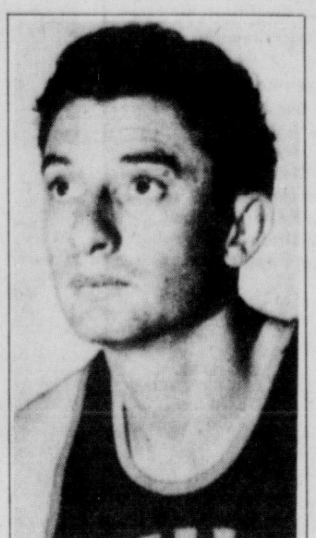
Dan Issel scored 25 points and grabbed 15 rebounds to help Denver tie its own ABA record of 27 straight home victories with a win over St. Louis.

Colonels 138, Squires 129)

Kentucky's Artis Gilmore scored seven of his 31 points in the second overtime to hand Virginia its 13th straight loss.

Pacers 114, Spurs 109

Billy Knight hit 26 points and Don Buse and Travis Grant each added 23 to spark Indiana past San Antonio.



Joe Fulks

Joe Fulks Is Murdered

EDDYVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Joe Fulks, a member of the Basketball Hall of Fame, who was credited with introducing the jump shot in pro ball, was shot to death Sunday and another man was charged with murder.

Fulks, 54, held the single-game scoring record for several years in the National Basketball Association — 63 points for the Philadelphia Warriors in 1949.

Fulks, who played eight seasons for the Warriors before retiring in 1954, was named to the All-Time Great pro basketball team. In his first season in Philadelphia, after playing college ball at Murray (Ky.) State, the 6-foot-5 native of Kuttaway, Ky., led the league in scoring.

Lyon County Coroner Eugene Denney said Fulks died of a gunshot wound in the neck.

Singer Dominates 'I' Gymnastics

SCARSDALE—Juliette Singer of host Scarsdale High School dominated the Section One gymnastics meet Saturday with first places in all four events and a total score of 30.65 for the All Around championship.

There were 23 schools participating in the meet which will send its top three individuals in category to the state competition in Rochester this week. A dozen girls from DCSL schools were in the field including Kingston's Sue Osborn.

The top Dutchess finisher was John Jay's Dottie Mareska who was second in floor exercise. Arlington got a third place from Marissa Whitson in vaulting and a sixth place from Claire Tankard on the balance beam. Lynn Geis of John Jay was fifth on the uneven bars.

Barbara Amusa of Fox Lane and JoAnn Pipia of Mamaroneck were second and third respectively in the All Around competition with 25.70 and 25.50 points.

State qualifiers:

Vaulting—Juliette Singer (Scarsdale), 8.6; Barbara Amusa (Fox Lane), 8.0; Marissa Whiston (Arlington), 7.7.

Pierce Tops East Field

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) — Roxanne Pierce of Temple University won two individual titles Saturday night in the Womens Eastern Regional Gymnastics Championships at Cornell University.

Pierce, a freshman who competed in the 1972 Olympics, took first place on the balance beam and in floor exercise. She also placed second on the parallel bars and fourth in vaulting.

Other individual winners were Karen Brezack of Clarion, (Pa.) State in vaulting and Connie Jo Israel, also of Clarion State, on the uneven parallel bars.

Brezack and Israel led Clarion State to the team title Friday night.

Karen Shuckman of Penn State, last year's national champion, finished second in vaulting, third on the parallel bars, third in floor exercise, and fourth on the balance beam.

Refs Favoring Home Team?

By UPI

Frank Udvari, supervisor of National Hockey League officials, intimated Sunday night that some officials have been making close calls on goals in favor of home teams.

Udvari made the comment after watching the Buffalo Sabres notch their fourth straight victory with a 3-1 triumph over the Kansas City Scouts, winless now in their last 20 games.

The Sabres' insurance goal was a disputed one on a slap shot by Brian Spencer. The shot late in the second period hit the post and was ruled good by the goal judge.

"I felt helpless," said Udvari, watching from the press box. "I didn't need the replay to know it wasn't in. What burns me up the most is this has happened six times in the last three weeks in different cities and the decision has always gone for the home team."

Udvari, however, doesn't favor the use of instant replays, although acknowledging it would have helped Sunday.

"I've always been against replays. I'm still not in favor of them because what you're doing is second-guessing the referee. Tonight it would have worked but other times two people could see a replay and still not agree."

Flyers 4, Leafs 2

Terry Crisp, a 32-year-old veteran who had only four goals this season, got two to help Philadelphia beat Toronto and clinch the Clarence Campbell Conference and Patrick Division titles. The victory earned the Stanley Cup Champions a first-round bye for the playoffs.

Red Wings 6, Blackhawks 0

Michel Bergeron scored twice against Chicago and Ed Giacomin recorded his 50th NHL shutout and first for the Red Wings. It was Detroit's third straight win.

Blues 5, Canucks 2

North Stars 4, Kings 4

Tim Young scored with less than two minutes left to give Minnesota the tie and drop Los Angeles to third behind Pittsburgh in the Norris Division.

Penguins 4, Rangers 2

Jean Pronovost scored his 49th goal and Vic Hadfield his 30th to help Pittsburgh virtually eliminate the Rangers from the playoffs.

WHA

Andre Hinse stole the puck and scored unassisted at 14:22 of the final period as Houston beat Phoenix and clinched first place in the WHA West ... Vaclav Nedomansky's 50th and 51st goals lifted Toronto over Winnipeg ... Richie Leduc had two goals to give Cleveland its win over Cincinnati ... Rejean Houle's two goals sparked Quebec over Edmonton.

Scrimmage Nips DeMicco In YMCA Overtime Battle

KINGSTON — Ray Lindhorst's tap in at the buzzer gave Scrimmage Products a hair-raising, 105-103 victory over DeMicco Motors in a double overtime battle in the YMCA A League.

Scrimmage Products also hit the century mark against Joyous Lake, posting a 111-103 win earlier in the week. In B League results, Artie's Bar held off Sonny's Tigers, 90-87, and Berinato's topped Doc Smith's, 68-45.

The Motormen had to outscore Scrimmage by ten points in the fourth quarter to achieve an 88-88 tie in regulation and force the extra periods. Each team had eight points in the first OT, and it was seven-seven in the second overtime until Lindhorst beat the buzzer with his game-winner.

Lindhorst had 34 points altogether to lead the winners, but plenty of help came from Dan Heppner with 32 and Ron Thomas with 31. Ed Priest of DeMicco's took game honors with 40 points, and teammate Mike Palladino had 14 points and 18 rebounds.

Steve Peruso scored 38 to lead Scrimmage over the Lakers. Rod Chando's 41 was the best individual performance of the contest.

Artie's built a 13 point halftime lead and managed to make that stand up for a win. Jay Foust led the Tigers' second half rush with 41 points.

Ed McDevitt scored 23, and John Acker had 22 as Berinato's pulled steadily away from Doc Smith's.

Zeehs Cop Crown

KINGSTON—About the best tennis competition Pete Zeeh can find in Ulster County is his brother, Bill. When they get together for a doubles match, the search for a challenge gets harder.

Saturday, night the Zeeh's took the Kingston City Indoor Tennis Championship away from defending champs Dick Smith and Ron Woods in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2 at the Municipal Auditorium.

Smith and Woods didn't give away much, but the Zeeh's made their own openings. A service break put the losers in a hole in the first set, then Bill held his serve to end it.Smith and Woods tried to scramble back in the second set, but Pete wheeled out his crushing overheads to snap Woods' service.

Saturday morning both teams eliminated semi final opponents.The Zeeh's defeated Gordon Krajna and Dave Cooper, 7-5,6-3 while Smith and Woods coasted past Ron Schoonmaker and Charlie Farley, 6-1,6-1.

'Foul Finish' to Marlboro Cage Season

MIDDLETOWN—Marlboro High suffered a foul finish to its basketball season Saturday at Orange County Community College against Pleasantville in a intersectional battle of Class B champions.

Foul because three Duke starters drew five personals each and weren't around for the final buzzer. And foul because Pleasantville made good on 25 of 32 attempts from the free throw line. Those were major factors in the Section One school's 83-77 victory.

Marlboro coach Joe Ciampi wasn't happy about the way the calls were going especially when his all star center, Anthony Monroe, picked up his fifth personal in the first minute of the second half. Monroe is the Dukes' main ingredient, and his only bucket in the second half cut a Pleasantville lead that was once 16 points down to 41-39. Without him in the lineup, the losers couldn't keep the charge going.

Paul Bohlander, a 30 point scorer, and Ken Burfiend, who hit ten shots from the foul line and dumped in 18 points, kept Pleasantville on top the rest of the way. Marlboro did get as close as 74-73 late in the fourth quarter, but five straight Pleasantville points, which included three by Bohlander, opened up the gap the winners needed to coast home.

John DeMarco scored 23 and Rich Mills had 20 to keep the Section Nine champs in the contest. Marlboro ended its campaign with a record of 18-4.

YMCA Superstars Set

KINGSTON — The Kingston-Ulster County YMCA Superstars competition has been scheduled for the first two weekends in June. Fourteen different events are scheduled. Entries are available at the YMCA.

Paddleball, basketball, track, bowling, bike racing, weightlifting and golf are among the events to be held. The competitions are set for the "Y", Forsythe Park, Dietz Stadium and Mid-City Lanes.

A banquet at the Villa Roma restaurant will follow the competition.

Rhinebeck Sweeps Field

MAMARONECK — The Rhinebeck Country School swept the field at the second New York State Special Olympics Basketball Tournament last week, besting teams from nine other counties in both team and individual events.

The boys' team and the girls' team each brought a state championship back to Dutchess County. In a run, dribble and shoot competition, the top three places all went to Rhinebeck players.

Richard Belanger, Norman Burg and Andre Sanchez took honors in the boys' division, and Carol Rose, Cindy Murphy and Debbie Jones led the girls' field.

Pointer Chosen at MR Show

MONTICELLO — The Monticello Kennel Club's first sanctioned "A & OA" Match Show, held indoors at Monticello Raceway last week, drew 325 entries with 285 dogs of 64 AKC breeds represented in breed and obedience.

Judge Jerry Weiss chose the pointer, Bukany's Asylum, owned by Arthur Sanfillippo, as his Sporting Group I. Cora Miller put up the Saluki, Srinagar Aziz of Sultan (Gilbert Katz) in the Hound Group.

Fred Smith awarded Working Group I to the Great Dane, Dinro Bengal, owned by Beth Algie. The Cairn Terrier of Barney and Jean Hlavaty, Lochveggards' Little Minch, was judge Michael Gately's choice in the Terrier Group. Toy Group winner was Papillion, Josandre's Katydid Cadenza (Jacquelin Werb), under judge Ruth Terry.

In the Non-Sporting Group, judge Dr. Sam Draper's choice was the Lhasa Apso, Anbara's Abra-Ka-Dabra, owned by Barbara Wood. In the final round, Dona Hausman concurred with Draper's pick, awarding Best in Match to the Lhasa.

The highest scoring dog in trial was Elaine Hamilton's Shetland Sheepdog, Brown Jason, with a score of 196 in the Open A Class.

Rondout Tops OCS Gymnasts

BOICEVILLE—Rondout Valley High, taking three of four places in each event, pinned a 49.60-43.60 defeat on host Onteora Thursday behind individual first places by Pam Atkins and Donna Newell.

Half Million

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The Long Beach Grand Prix Association announced Sunday it has paid out nearly half a million dollars towards the cost of prize money and transportation expenses to bring Formula One cars from Europe to Long Beach for next Sunday's race.

The association said of the $499,500 total, $265,000 was transferred to the Sports Car Club of America to be held for the account of the Formula One Constructor's Association for prize money.

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI) — Dorothy Hamill, world figure skating champion and Olympic gold medalist, is waiting today for the right offer.

"Right now, I'm just sort of taking it easy. I won't continue to skate as an amateur any more. But I'm deciding really what I'm going to do," she said Sunday. "I'll continue to skate of course. Whether it will be with an ice show, I don't know."

She said she would also consider making a movie in which she could both skate and act.

She said she was surprised by the turnout of 15,000 enthusiastic onlookers Sunday, when this normally sedate town welcomed her home.

"It wasn't really until today I knew how big this would be," said Hamill, 19, after riding down the main street in a beige convertible.

She won the gold medal in figure skating in February and the world figure skating title in Sweden last week. In New York Saturday, she received the Outstanding Young American Award from the National Republican Women's Club.

Dressed in navy, velvet slacks and a white blouse, she had a white orchid pinned to her light blue blazer as she waved to her neighbors and friends.

"I've never seen people this excited in six years here," one observer said.

One man watching the parade said, "This girl has so much charm, she's the only one I would turn out for like this."

On the steps of Town Hall, Hamill was given the gold key to this wealthy town of 50,000.

Rain, which might have lowered the crowd size, began only after she was inside Greenwich High School for ceremonies featuring Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., and Rep. Stewart McKinney, R-Conn.

The two politicians read letters from President Ford, praising Hamill's accomplishments and inviting her to the White House.

Hamill, who never graduated from high school, appeared moved when she was given an honorary diploma.

Earlier in the day, the $500,000, Byram Skating Rink was renamed Hamill Skating Rink in ceremonies attended by 1,500 people. In a separate ceremony, a bronze plaque was attached to a huge rock at Binney Park Pond, where Hamill first learned to skate.

Ryan, Gallo Top Scorers On Coleman JV Team

KINGSTON — The final statistics of Coleman High's junior varsity basketball team showed Tim Ryan and T.R. Gallo to be the top point producers for a 10-8 season. Ryan scored 201, and Gallo netted 214 as the pair accounted for nearly half of the little Statesmen's 833 point total.

Gallo carried the best average, 12.6, and Ryan was the leading rebounder with 182 caroms. Ryan was also the most accurate shooter, hitting 48 per cent of his field goal attempts.

Other team leaders were Gary Dougherty who shot 87½ per cent from the foul line and racked up 50 assists, and Ed LaTourette who totalled 28 steals.

Coleman had an offensive average of 46.3 and a defensive yield of 47.1. The Statesmen shot 39 per cent from the floor during the season.

Most Inspirational

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Steve Garvey and Nolan Ryan have been named the most inspirational members of the Los Angeles Dodgers and California Angels, respectively, for the 1975 season, the Baseball Writers' Association announced.

Garvey, the National League's MVP in 1974 who batted .319 last season, won the Charles DiGovanni Award "to the player who most typifies the Dodger tradition." Ryan, who will try to make a comeback this season after suffering through 1975 with an arm injury, was voted the Fred Haney Award "to the most inspirational Angel."

The Los Angeles-Anaheim Chapter of the Baseball writers will make the presentations at the its annual banquet April 1.

Belcastro Leads YMCA

CORTLAND—The Kingston YMCA Boys swim team produced a pair of second place finishesin last week's New York State YMCA Boys Championships at SUNY Cortland.

Kevin Belcastro was the top individual finisher for Kingston, clocking 2:08.4 for a runnerup finish in the 200 yard individual medley. The other second came from the 14 and under medley relay team of Kirk Jacob, Brian Wilson, Tom Rancich and Kyle McCormick who posted a time of 1:53.2 in their event.

Belcastro and Jacob also nailed down third places. Belcastro got his in the 100 breaststroke with a 1:04.5 time, and Jacob scored in the 100 backstroke in 1:02.4.

The places came against a field of 1,197 competitors from 46 teams.

Seven other Kingston efforts resulted in a top ten finish. Chuck Mason got a fourth place in the 50 breaststroke (39.816) in addition to a 13th place in the 50 butterfly; Kenny Acquaviva had a fifth place performance in the 100 fly (58.831); Rex Herman took sixth in the 100 individual medley (1:18.13) as well as 14th in the 50 backstroke; and Jacob was tenth in the 200 freestyle (2:02.3).

In the relays, McCormick, Bob Turnbull, Rancich and Jacob were seventh in the 14 and under 200 freestyle; Mim Turnbull, Larry Jordan, Kyle McCormick and Bob Darling were ninth in the 12 and under 200 freestyle; and Scott Sauer, Mason, Herman and Nolfo were ninth in the ten and under medley relay.

Other top Kingston efforts came from Steve Olsen, 12th in the 50 free, Kevin McCormick, 13th in the 50 free, and Brian Wilson, 15th in the 100 breaststroke. The 18 and under 400 freestyle relay squad of Olson, John Hutton, Evan Matthews and Acquiviva took 11th.

Moose Wins

KINGSTON—Joe Consorti and Brian Timbrouck split 32 points between them and led the fastbreaking Kingston Moose All Stars to their fourth win in a row, a 58-49 decision over Marlboro.

John Parker helped the cause with 23 rebounds as the Moose shook off a sluggish first period to win going away. Next on the agenda for Kingston is the state championships in Auburn, April 2-4.

Met Opener

NEW YORK — The New York Mets open their season April 9 at Shea Stadium aginst the Montreal Expos. The Mets and Expos will play a three game series, then the New Yorkers are off on a two week road trip, returning to Shea April 26 to meet Atlanta.

CH Takes Title

KINGSTON—Down 14 points at halftime, Williams Lumber staged a second half run against the Children's Home in a game for the championship of the Over 30 basketball league Sunday.

The Lumberjacks almost pulled it out, but a foul shot by Bill Widholm with seven seconds left on the clock lifted the Home to a 61-60 victory.

Deaver Wins

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Dick Deaver of the Los Angeles Yacht Club emerged the winner Sunday following a four-way sailoff in the 12th running of the Congressional Cup Yacht Race.

The match racing series brought together 10 of the top international sailors who competed on a three-mile ocean course off here for four days. Winds of from five to 30 knots and rough seas running to a six-foot windwave caused considerable equipment failure aboard the yachts, but no injuries.

At the end of the normal nine races, four of the sailors had identical scores of 6-3 and qualified for the sailoff. They were Deaver; Tony Parker, Annapolis Yacht Club., Md.; Graham Hall, Naval Academy Sailing Squadron, Md., and Ted Turner, of the Atlanta Yacht Club.

Williams' began chipping away at that lead in the second period and continued to gain ground in the second half, but the deficit was too big to overcome.

Gary McDonald led the Lumberjacks with 19, and Howie Mann added 13.

Vietnamese Orphans Rioted for 'Father'

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UPI) — Sixty young Vietnamese orphans denied permission to live with a man they consider their father went on a weekend rampage, demolishing their schoolhouse, battling police and threatening to kill three female teachers.

Welfare officials separated the children and sent them to different orphanages following the two-hour riot Sunday. The refugees broke almost every piece of furniture in the Skovholm Gaard School, smashed windows and heavily damaged three automobiles with hatchets.

It was the second major incident involving the children in three days.

The orphans, ranging in age from 5 to 19, became enraged when authorities refused their demands to be reunited with Henning Becker, the man they considered their father.

Becker, a 40-year-old journalist, brought the youngsters to Denmark when the Saigon government collapsed last year.

Two weeks ago, government authorities ruled that Becker was not caring for the children properly and they were placed in the government-run school. Twenty-eight of the children, thinking they would be sent back to Vietnam, fled to Becker's home in the country.

When police raided the cottage Friday, they were confronted by screaming children, some brandishing red-hot pokers.

After a 15-minute fight, police subdued the youngsters and took them back to the school. But Sunday, all 60 went on a two-hour rampage because they were refused permission to go back to Becker.

The children, some armed with knives, threatened to kill three female teachers who had locked themselves in a room.

"Although the door was locked, they kept sticking knives through it and shouted 'We will kill you'," said district police chief Joergen Nielsen. "Luckily they were not hurt."

They children were finally calmed when Becker was brought to the school north of Copenhagen.

Welfare officials said some of the orphans will be locked up in security wings of youth institutions, but refused to say how many orphans would be affected by the measure.

Social Affairs Minister Eva Gredal announced the government will decide today whether to expel Becker, who holds German citizenship.

A Nose Job On Bombing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A German shepherd dog sniffed out one of the few clues in the tangled wreckage of the terrorist bomb blast at LaGuardia Airport last December.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, in a report released Sunday, said the dog, named Brandy, was one of the first two dogs it trained to seek bombs in an experimental $12,000 program that began in 1971.

Brandy found a battery fragment at LaGuardia. She earlier had discovered a bomb on a TWA jet in 1972 some 12 minutes before it was timed to explode. Since then, the training program has been expanded to $400,000 to train dogs at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

"It was really amazing," said Lt. Kenneth O'Neil, commander of the New York City bomb squad. "With all the sophisticated devices on the market here's 'man's best friend' doing as good or better job."

The LEAA said dogs trained to smell bombs now patrol 18 major airports. Six more airports are to get them soon, the LEAA said.

Other achievements the LEAA cited:

— In Los Angeles dogs located 37 explosive devices and a number of weapons during six months in which they made searches in response to 450 alerts.

— In Oakland, Calif., a team found a bomb hidden in the acoustical ceiling of a federal building.

— A dog identified a letter bomb addressed to former Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty.

The LEAA said dog teams are now operating at airports serving Albuquerque, N.M.; Baltimore; Buffalo, N.Y.; Cleveland; Dallas; Denver; Houston, Tex.; Kansas City; Los Angeles; Memphis, Tenn.; Miami; Minneapolis, Minn.; Nashville, Tenn.; New Orleans; Pittsburgh; Salt Lake City, Utah; San Francisco, and Tucson, Ariz.

Dog teams will begin operating by June in Boston; Bismarck, N.D.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Oakland, Calif.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; and Seattle, the LEAA said.

Ex-Imperial Wizard Benefited From Jail

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — Samuel Bowers, 51, former imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, has put his six years behind bars to practical use — by earning a degree in religion and becoming a writer.

Bowers will have an opportunity to put those accomplishments to use on the outside. He was to be released today from McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary.

He was one of seven men convicted of conspiracy in the slayings of three civil rights workers in 1964. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals described the murders of Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James E. Chaney as cold blooded and merciless.

In prison, Bowers earned his degree from Pacific Lutheran University and won a reputation among his teachers as an excellent writer.

Dr. Ken Christopherson, chairman of the college's department of religion, described Bowers as the most interesting writer he has run across in 18 years of teaching.

Christopherson lowered Bowers' mark on one exam because Bowers had not answered head-on — but the writing was so good he reduced the grade only to an A-minus.

Bowers sent this note in reply:

"I suspect, my dear professor, that your sympathy for, and enjoyment of, the well-turned phrase may, on occasion, lead you out of the narrow path which represents the highest tradition of mechanical academic rigor.

"If this be a fault (and I would contend that it is not) then I promise to guard the secret of your lapse with diligence for, as you may have sensed, I am something less than diffident with respect to the crown jewels of the academy."

Reminder On Dog Licenses

KINGSTON — City Clerk Louis F. DeCicco reminds city residents who either own or harbor dogs that licenses for the animals have been due since Feb. 11. DeCicco indicated summonses would be issued in the near future.

"Get your dog's license now, before a summons is issued. Once a summons is issued, you may be liable for a fine of up to $10, cost of $2, plus you must obtain a license anyway," said DeCicco.

The cost of the license is $2.35 for a male or spayed female, $5.35 for a female dog.

Application may be made, by city of Kingston residents only, at the City Clerk's Office in City Hall or by mail. When mailing include name, address, phone; dogs name, sex, breed, age and color. Include a self addressed stamped envelope and check made payable to: "City Clerk of Kingston, N.Y."

"If you have any questions, you may call the city clerk's office anytime during regular business hours," DeCicco said

Clearing Backlog

BALBOA HEIGHTS, Canal Zone (UPI) — Operations at the Panama Canal returned to normal today and authorities began working to clear up the huge backlog of 175 ships stranded by a wildcat strike that closed the canal for five days.

About 700 American workers walked off the job last Monday to protest proposed wage cuts, but returned to their jobs Saturday after receiving assurances there would be no reduction in wages.

Canal authorities said 42 ships were expected to pass through the 51-mile waterway by this morning, easing the biggest lineup of ships in the Canal's 62-year history. Fifteen vessels ships cleared the canal Saturday night, shortly after the dispute was settled.

Under normal conditions, between 35 and 40 vessels each day sail through the waterway linking the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans.

Harold R. Parfitt, governor of the Canal Zone, said Saturday it would take about a month to clear the backlog completely.

Gen. Omar Torrijos, Panama's chief of state, assured the American workers their rights would be respected in the new treaty being negotiated between the United States and his government.

Torrijos' statement apparently was aimed at easing the U.S. employes' concern over job security in the event the canal operation was turned over to the Panamanian government.

The government also agreed to the setting up of a commission, formed by workers and Zone authorities, to study working conditions.

The walkout was described by one canal spokesman as "the biggest crisis in the canal's history."

A canal zone spokesman said despite the return to the normal 24-hour operations schedule Sunday, any boat that arrived in the next few days would have to wait four or five days before transit through the waterway.

Panamanian shipping agents estimated that each day lost would cost ship owners $5,000.

The canal employs some 11,000 Panamanians and 3,600 Americans. But only about 700 Americans took part in the job action.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

MONDAY, MARCH 22

Your birthday today: Career-building occupies most of this year's time and energy. Your natural aggressiveness is dramatized by pressure or inspiration from little crises. Relationships are susceptible to occasional failures in communications or cooperation; think about every move, however trivial. Avoid expensive commitments. Today's natives have a knack for finances and related subjects, as well as a theatrical flair.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Be satisfied with minimum business progress. Take the day off if feasible. You can't do much about the comments of associates. Remain unruffled.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: So-called silent partners become querulous. Abandon schemes involving casual travel. Charity begins at home: protect your own welfare.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: An intense and inspiring pace is followed by much success in personal and public enterprises. Quit while you're ahead and avoid excess.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Reject efforts to embroil you in disputes. Concentrate on the job. Loved ones don't realize what you're going through; be easy on them.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Present and future resources ride on trivial decisions. Buy only what you need. Let others display temper, but you maintain your poise.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Use sales resistance as a shield where group funds are concerned. Paying careful attention brings useful information. Be selective in business deals.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Discipline your response to older folk, avoiding harsh action. Listen to the whole story of family incident. Travel with sensible precaution.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Work of any significant quality is all uphill. You must cope with people who won't accept things as they are. Stay out of legal procedures.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Ancient chickens come home to a new roost. Learn from the experience without recrimination. Follow a low-key course; don't even think of speculation.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Ask no favors, although many are asked of you. See to neglected maintenance work. Whether to buy new or repair the old is a difficult decision today.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Your theories are under fire from all sides. Little is gained by an immediate defense. Renewed resolution comes later. Consider how to improve your health.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: It's no time to get involved in anybody's gamble or expedition. Consider each situation and your natural reaction in context. Children create problems.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Phd.

EMBARRASSED: (Q.) Chip and I have been going together for a little more than five months. We really love each other and aren't afraid to say so. When he takes me places I have a great time, but it seems like he'll wait for people to look at us, then he'll kiss me.

Things that aren't supposed to be done in public he'll do. I'm not talking about sex because we both think we're too young for that without being married. (I'm 15 and he's 16.) I'm talking mostly about kissing — also hugging and stuff like that.

I just think he shouldn't do this in public almost ALL the time. What can I do? — Uncomfortable in New York

(A.) Tell Chip very clearly that it embarrasses you to be kissed in public and that it embarrasses other people who may see the two of you kissing. Tell him to stop it. But don't be just negative.

Arrange a set of personal signals. When he wants to kiss you or hug you and there are other people around, he can touch you a certain way, or say a certain code word. Then you and he can enjoy that kiss or hug later in private.

HUGGER: (Q.) I like this boy Charles. He is funny, and nice to me. But every time I look back at the back of the bus he hugs this other girl for meanness. What should I do? He hurts me and makes me mad. He knows I like him. — Up in Front and Unhappy in North Carolina

(A.) First of all, don't look back. Also, don't assume something that may not be true. Charles may be hugging the girl because he likes her — not because he wants to tease you.

(Write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received Dr. Adams cannot send personal replies.)

Jim: "We haven't discussed the bridge proverbs such as 'second hand low' for some time."

Oswald: "Most of these go way back to whist. The reason second hand usually plays low is that his higher cards can usually be effective later on in the play. Thus, he only plays high second hand when he has some really good reason to make the play.

Jim: "In today's hand South should play dummy's queen of hearts immediately. It won't have any value at all later on, but may just win that first trick."

Oswald: "This time it does and South is on easy street. If he takes a diamond finesse against East, he is sure of eleven tricks. If he tries it the other way, he will only score ten."

Jim: "If East produces the king of hearts, South can run five clubs and then go after diamonds. This time a wrong guess will cost him his contract."

Police Seek Shotgun Wielding Robber

By Matt Spireng

LAKE KATRINE—State police are seeking a shotgun wielding robber who fled with some $150 from a Lake Katrine store Sunday night after firing a shot that reportedly narrowly missed hitting the woman store manager.

Police said the robber entered the Convenient Food Mart on Leggs Mills Road at about 11 p.m. and without warning fired a blast from what was believed to be a sawed-off shotgun. Authorities said the woman manager on duty at the time, who was not identified, told them she felt the breeze as the shot flew past her leg and became embedded in a wall.

The masked robber then proceeded to demand money from the cash register, which he got, and fled on foot. Two male clerks were reportedly in a rear room of the store at the time of the holdup and did not enter the business area until after the holdup man fled.

Authorities said the robber was a white male, about 20, 5-feet, 10 or 5-feet, 11, of slim build and with a full dark mustache. He was wearing a stocking mask, a pull-over hat, blue dungarees and a light blue windbreaker at the time of the robbery.

State police asked anyone with possible information regarding the robbery to call 338-1702.

Woman Killed

A Dover Plains woman who was to have celebrated her 59th birthday Sunday was killed when a blaze swept through her residence during the early morning hours.

State police identified the dead woman as Gertrude Struwe of Old Route 22, Dover Plains.

Police said he 6:40 a.m. fire was apparently started by a cigarette. The blaze started in the bedroom of the dead woman and destroyed her house. She was found in a adjoining room near a window, and had been apparently attempting to escape when she was overcome by smoke, authorities said. Investigation is continuing.

Two Are Jailed

Two young Newburgh men were jailed on multiple charges Saturday night after one of them allegedly attacked a New Paltz patrolman who had placed his companion under arrest.

Police said Patrolman George Miro stopped to check a car in a ditch on Libertyville Road and found that the driver was allegedly drunk. As he attempted to place the driver, Archie Thoby, 19, of Newburgh under arrest for driving while intoxicated, a passenger, John Hall, 26, of Newburgh, allegedly attacked him and a scuffle ensued. Hall was eventually charged with second degree assault, resisting arrest, obstructing governmental administration, and fourth degree criminal possession of a weapon—a knife. Thoby was additionally charged with driving while his license was suspended and fourth degree possession of a weapon—a billy club. Miro was not reported seriously injured.

Hall was jailed in lieu of $6,000 bail. Thoby was jailed in lieu of $1,100 bail.

Conducting Purchase Poll

HURLEY—The Town of Hurley is conducting a straw-poll among its residents concerning a proposal to buy a 45-acre tract of the Oehler Mountain Lodge on Schildtknecht Road for a town recreation center.

In a letter asking town residents for their feelings on the matter, the town recreation commission notes that the tract consists of a swimming pool approximately 50 by 80 feet, bathhouses and a pavilion, a pond approximately 40 by 160 feet, a 225 by 375 foot athletic field with lights and anannouncer's booth and a parking lot with a capacity of 100 cars.

Ballots must be postmarked not later than Wednesday, March 24, and will be tallied Saturday, March 27.

The purchase price is $63,125. The current budget appropriation for recreation is $10,000 and the annual cost for the new program plus the existing program is estimated at $25,000 which would translate into approximately $2.20 per thousand of assessed valution for town taxpayers.

"At the present time we contract most of our recreation programs outside the town," the commission noted in a letter to taxpayers. "With this acquisition, we could centralize within the town as well as expand our offerings."

One of the major difficulties in finding a site was the need for a central location. The town is literally cut in two sections by the Ashokan Reservoir and Hurley and West Hurley have shared little but a tax rate in the past, officials noted.

Eastern shore residents have accessto Hurley Recreation at a cost of $60 a year but those on the reservoir's eastern shore, although they comprise half the town's population, have no facilities at all.

Upkeep of the park is estimated at $20,000 about $8.55 for a taxpayer with a $4,000 assessment on his property.

The facilities and grounds are reportedly in excellent shape and well-maintained. Bridal paths and tow roads offer opportunities for snowmobiling, horseback riding, and other sports. Other suggested uses for the gently rolling 45-acre site include tennis courts,' a basketball court, and town office buildings.

The commission discovered an abandoned road that joins Eagle Nest Road which, if it would be put into use again, would make the recreation area closer to old Hurley than to West Hurley.

Votes will be tabulated at 10 a.m. Saturday March 27, beginning at 10 a.m., in the Town Hall in Hurley.

Explains School Position

KINGSTON—Frederick G. Hofbauer, a member of the Board of Education of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated, has released the text of a letter written in reply to the Lake Katrine PTO, the Edson PTO, and the M. Clifford Miller Junior High School TACT regarding his position on the problems caused by alleged overcrowding at Kingston High School.

Hofbauer said: "These are the things I am sure of at the present time:"

• Implementation of the School Safety Review by the State Education Department has been started by the board and should be completed without delay.

• Since elementary enrollment is declining, there must be a closing of some elementary schools. The statere commended phasing out four by 1980. Class size average is 22.75 and declining. The teachers' contract is for 29 and 30 per class except for special education.

• Junior high enrollment will peak at about 2,735 in 1976-77. The district now has a junior high capacity for 2.750 students. Enrollment will continue to decline for the next 10 years. Some rooms in junior high schools are not used during the entire day. After the bulge next year, with full utilization and some changes at Bailey and Miller, the district should not need the Myron J. Michael building for a junior high school.

Hofbauer said he recently visited the high school and saw no overcrowding of classrooms, hallways or cafeteria. "In fact, there were five to 10 empty seats in all classes I observed.I even found some rooms which were not being used part of the day."

Hofbauer said that split sessions beginning in September should yield even more space.

"The answer to a new high school in Lake Katrine at this time must be 'no'," Hofbauer said. "At a time when our operating budget is almost at its limit, where do we get the money to operate it? By closing some other school? Two high schools cannot be operated as cheaply as one."

Offering "a few thoughts on the Lake Katrine proposal," Hofbauer said:

• "Did you know that the school was designed for 1,600 students but with support systems for 2,000? In the future it could be enlarged and there then would be no need for a high school on Broadway.

• "Did you know that it has been designed without study halls? Where will students go during free periods? Will it be an open campus or will students be given short schedules?

• "Did you knowt hat a stadium and other athletic fields would be built, in addition to a swimming pool?

• "Did you know that the school district owned Deitz Stadium and gave it to the City of Kingston?

• "Did you realize that over 80 per cent of the students assigned to Lake Katrine would have to be bused?

• "Did you know that curriculum offerings at KHS and Lake Katrine would be different?"

Hofbauer predicted that if a new high school is built in Lake Katrine, Kingston High School and MJM are doomed for closing in the near future.

Citing limitations on money available to the district, Hofbauer said: "What we need is one high school on Broadway which would include the MJM building, and two junior high schools, Miller and Bailey. Then we can have our programs for students and not have a lot of empty schools for lack of students to fill them or the money to operate them. We are going to have empty rooms and empty schools. Any new construction now will only add to the list of empty rooms or schools of the future.

"May I add that the direction this board will take will depend on the platform of the candidates elected in May."

Concert, Not Court

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — British Rock star Davie Bowie will not appear in City Court today for arraignment on marijuana possession charges, according to the performer's attorney.

Bowie, who was booked as David Robert Jones of London, and three companions were arrested on charges of fifth degree marijuana possession early Sunday in a three-room suite at the Americana Rochester Hotel by vice squad members and a state police investigator. About eight ounces of marijuana were recovered, authorities said. The Class C felony charge carries a 15-year maximum sentence.

They were later released on $2,000 bond each and ordered to return to court today.

However, Thomas Presutti, Bowie's attorney, said his client left the city Sunday for a concert in Massachusetts.

Presutti said he will "request the court's indulgence" today, since there are heavy penalties for breaking concert engagements.

Bowie was expected back in Rochester on Wednesday, Presutti added.

Arrested with Bowie were a Rochester woman, Chiwah Soo, 20, and two members of Bowie's entourage, James Osterberg Jr., 28, of Ypsilanti, Mich., and Dwain Vaughns, 22, of Brooklyn.

Bowie appeared at downtown concert earlier in the evening.

Presutti said none of the four had previous arrest records.

Wind Storm Slashes Southern Ulster

By Jon Powers

ACCORD—Parts of southern Ulster County resembled a battlefield today after devastating winds cut a path of destruction from Samsonville to Clintondale Sunday afternoon.

Unofficial reports have placed the damage in excess of $100,000. The hardest hit area of the county was the Town of Rochester, where at least six mobile homes and four barns were demolished.

The storm hit shortly after 2 p.m., and arrived with a suddeness that caught numerous homeowners and motorists by surprise. Minutes later the skies had cleared and the winds had calmed; the only evidence of nature's fury were scattered piles of rubble that shortly before had been homes and buildings.

Despite the devastation, only three minor injuries were reported. One woman suffered rib injuries when she was buried in the debris of her mobile home along Route 209 in Accord; a man at the same location suffered an electric shock when he tried to crawl back inside his demolished house trailer.

Although there were several reports that "funnel clouds" had been sighted in the Accord area, the storm has not officially been classified as a tornado.

According to Accord Fire Chief Lowell Baker, Sunday's storm carved a narrow path of destruction from one end of the town to the other. Three mobile homes on Samsonville Road were damaged by fire when falling tree limbs severed power lines; three house trailers at the Herma George mobile home park in Accord wer demolished; a barn in Alligerville wa leveled.

Rochester Supervisor Vincent Dunn who conducted an aerial survey of th town today, supplemented that list: th roof covering the Herman Dunn home o Boice Mill Road was blown away; barn a the Roy Lattimer farm was lifted off it foundation and dashed to pieces, but th machinery inside was left untouched; on mobile home was flipped into the air anc landed on its roof.

"I've lived in this town all my life, 4 years," said Baker, "and I've never seen anything like this. You read about this kind of thing in the papers, but you never think it could happen here. When it does, you just don't know what to do."

Although the National Weather Service had not confirmed that it was a tornado that struck the area Sunday, the storm had all the markings of a typical midwest twister. In one section of Rochester Sunday, a small barn disintegrated in the high winds, but two buildings on either side escaped untouched.

Rochester officials said today that more than 100 buildings were damaged in the storm, most by flying debris and falling tree limbs.

Central Hudson officials today confirmed that the Rondout Valley area was the hardest hit in Ulster County Sunday, but problems certainly weren't restricted to that area. A utility spokesman said some 3,500 customers were left without power Sunday afternoon in the Kingston area. In Newburgh, service to 9,000 customers was disrupted by Sunday's storm.

The wind storm, traveling west to east, passed quickly through Rochester and then headed southeast through New Paltz, Gardiner and Plattekill. Scattered damage was reported in Rosendale, Gardiner, Modena and Clintondale.

In New Paltz, village police said today that at least 12 roads were blocked by fallen trees Sunday afternoon, including Main Street and Routes 32, 208 and 44-55. In Modena, several mobile homes were blown off their foundations and dozens of structures were damaged.

In Kingston, the storm was preceded by blackened skies, rain squalls and heavy winds. Thirty minutes later, patches of blue sky could be seen.

Wind gusts of 75 miles per hour were reported at the Dutchess County Airport in Poughkeepsie; two planes were damaged and several buildings were destroyed.

The Ulster County Civil Defense Office is compiling damage records and is expected to apply for state disaster aid

A Program To Lessen Shortfall

By Lynn Mulvaney

KINGSTON—Faced with a $1.7 million deficit in the 1976 budget, Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago, R-Dist. 8, put forward today a five-point emergency program which he is hopeful will enable the county to close the financial gap!

Savago will propose to the legislature at a special meeting Tuesday night that:

- Promotions of all current county employes and the hiring of new personnel for vacant county positions be frozen.
- All department equipment accounts be frozen.
- Contractual expense accounts for all departments be frozen.
- Resolutions authorizing or directing the expenditure of county funds include a financial impact statement.
- Expenditures of all encumbered funds be prohibited without prior approval of the legislature.

At a press conference earlier today Savago revealed that he also issued a four-point directive to all department heads as part of what he called Phase One of the emergency procedure.

He is asking department heads to submit a current year-to-date report of all revenues and expenditures with the first report due March 29 for the period Jan. 1 through Feb. 29. The department heads will also be required to submit additional reports on a monthly basis as part of ongoing financial scrutiny.

Department heads will also be required to report all state and federal mandates which affect either county expenditures or state and federal funding. The reports are to be an estimate of financial impact and are due no later than April 1 They will continue to be made on a monthly basis.

All department heads are to meet with their respective legislative committees withing 30 days to determine if further budget savings can be made. They are to also jointly review with their legislative committees all budgeted revenues and expenses, on a monthly basis, and report on their operational efficiency.

Savago said he worked out the program during three-days of consultation with Legislator William R. West, R-Dist. 2, chairman of the Treasurer's Committee; budget officer, William Darwak and staff, Social Services Committee Chairman Ernest J. Gardner, R-Dist 5, and County Attorney Abram Molyneaux, among others.

He predicted that the county administration garage which was scheduled for construction this year will not be built and he said he will not be surprised if Social Services Commissioner Bernhardt S. Kramer is forced to come back to the county board later this year asking for more funds to meet the increased welfare load.

Savago blamed most of the county's financial plight on state and federal welfare mandates and urged welfare reform.

The shortfall became public last week after County treasurer Fred H. DuBois filed a report with the legislature in which it was apparent that the estimated surplus of $4.6 million in the 1976 budget would have a shortfall of about $1.7 million

Savago attributed the shortfall to seven areas including uncollected taxes exceeding estimated allowances by nearly $750,000. Also adverse certiorari judgments on real property taxes which caused the loss of nearly $223,000 in the City of Kingston and the State Office of Drug Abuse Services reneging on assurances it would reimburse the county $83,000 for the Drug Abuse Outreach Program.

Savago pointed to 1975 welfare expenditures mandated by the state and federal government which exceeded 1974 by nearly 46 per cent and the fact that department heads exceeded spending estimates in December which were used to prepare the 1976 budget.

'Hooked on Sex'

NEW YORK — Marilyn Monroe reportedly once told an interviewer she was "hooked on sex" the way an alcholic is hooked on liquor, but blamed the public for making her a bigger-than-life sex symbol.

"My body turned all these people on like turning on an electric light and there was rarely anything human in it. Marilyn Monroe became a burden, a what do you call it? — an albatross. People expected so much of me I sometimes hated them."

The late movie star's remarks were quoted in prepublication excerpts released Sunday of a new book in the April issue of the Ladies Home Journal.

PORTLAND, Ore. — "D.B. Cooper," wherever you are? You're in trouble with the tax people.

The Internal Revenue Service disclosed that the parachuting skyjacker who disappeared between Reno, Nev., and Seattle in 1971 owes the government $295,906 in taxes and penalties because of the $200,000 he extorted from Northwest Orient Airlines

But "D B Cooper" can take some comfort in knowing that the statute of limitation for his Thanksgiving eve caper runs out in November

Copter Crashes Kill 10

BLAIRSVILLE, Ga. — Ten Army crewmen were killed during the weekend when two UH-1H (Huey) helicopters crashed in separate incidents.

Seven crewmen were killed about noon Saturday when one of the copters crashed into Aiken Mountain in the Chattahoochee National Forest near Blairsville, Ga. Two other crewmen survived.

Three crewmen were killed Saturday night when the second helicopter crashed during a thunderstorm while participating in a field training exercise.

'Hurricane' Heading South

PATERSON, N.J. — Former boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter, under court orders not to discuss his release from prison where he served nine years for a triple murder, plans to vacation in Florida while awaiting a new trial.

His co-defendant in the case, John Artis, will spend his time working on his personnel management courses at Glassboro State College. He hopes to graduate in the fall

Their release on bail Saturday came three days after the New Jersey Supreme Court granted the two a new trial on charges of murdering three patrons of a Paterson tavern in 1966.

Argentine Coup Rumored

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — A week-long rampage of terrorism that killed at least 37 persons has touched off new rumors that a military coup to oust President Isabel Peron may be only days away.

A memorial ceremony today in honor of the general who led the 1955 military revolt that ousted President Juan D. Peron reinforced speculation that a coup was imminent.

A delegation of high-ranking army officers planned to attend a graveside ceremony to pay homage to Gen. Eduardo Lonardi, leader of the successful revolt against Peron Sept. 19, 1955, and provisional president for 50 days following the coup.

Labor Anti-Anti-Nuke

WASHINGTON — The nation's largest labor organization is moving to combat a growing anti-nuclear power movement in some states.

The AFL-CIO's industrial union department is distributing pro-nuclear articles, fact sheets from the atomic power industry, printed statements from scientists and exhortations from top union leaders, concerned that jobs may be lost if the anti-nuclear movement manages to slow or stop the spread of atomic power plants.

The immediate focus is on California, where the June 8 ballot includes a voter initiative measure known as "Proposition 15" that may impose the nation's first nuclear moratorium.

Set Royal Wedding Date

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Sweden's King Carl Gustaf will marry Silvia Sommerlath, daughter of a West German businessman, on June 19 in Stockholm, the Royal Court announced today.

Carl Gustaf, 29, and Miss Sommerlath, 32, were engaged March 12 and the King said they would marry before midsummer, but refused at the time to give a date.

They will be married at Stockholm's Storkyrkan (Large Church) by Swedish Archbishop Olof Sundby in a glittering ceremony attended by royalty and government personalities from throughout the world.

Funeral Notices

Memoriam

In tender and loving memory of my wife Mary Amato, who passed away one year ago today, March 22, 1975

There was no cross too hard to bear
While you were at my side
52 years of wedded bliss
No one could part us God
When the Lord himself came to meet you
All your pain and grief was ended
This temporary parting is lonely
I miss you sincerely, my darling
For you were my only love
Husband,
SANTO AMATO

Memoriam

In memory of our Mother, Mary Amato, who passed away one year ago today March 22, 1975

MAMA you left us one year ago today
Sadness, lonliness and sorrow we cannot say
We often wonder why you couldn't stay
But who are we to judge, when God wants things his way
DAUGHTERS

Memoriam

In memory of my Grandmother, Mary Amato, who passed away one year ago today March 22, 1975

But, O, for the touch of a vanins'd hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still!
Grandson,
Jay Hogan

Rocky in Rochambeau

U.S. Vice President Nelson D. Rockefeller (r) shakes hands with French villagers in Rochambeau who escorted him in his visit to the grave of General Rochambeau Sunday in the tiny cemetery of Rochambeau near Vendome. The American Vice President, who arrived earlier in the day in France from Tunisia will visit today the tomb of another French hero of the American War of Independance, LaFayette, whose grave is in Paris.(UPI)

Career Goes Up In Smoke

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two years ago Lawrence Nestler and M Allen Mason were law students waiting to take the bar examination in North Carolina

Today, Nestler works in a wood shop, Mason in a restaurant

Both 27 year olds have been blackballed by state bar examiners who held that they lacked moral character to become lawyers

Their crime? On Dec 6th, 1974, Nestler and Mason had pleaded guilty to possessing less than one ounce of marijuana, a misdemeanor, and were placed on probation for one year after paying $16 in court costs

Both are fighting the bar examiners' ruling in North Carolina and U S district courts on the ground that no moral turpitude was involved Both denied dealing in the drug

The Drug Abuse Council, which estimates that 29 million Americans have tried marijuana, has no firm figures on the number who have acquired court records but said it must be in the thousands The Council says about 12 million use marijuana regularly

"The only difference between me and half the law school population is that I got caught," says Nestler

Six states — California Oregon, Alaska, Ohio, Colorado and Maine — have passed laws decriminalizing convictions based on smoking marijuana Eight Democratic presidential candidates say they support marijuana law reform

But until the reforms are brought about, in some states legal careers apparently can be denied to students who smoke pot

The North Carolina examiners tried to prevent Nestler and Mason from taking the bar examination and were upheld in state courts But a federal judge issued an order permitting the two to take the bar examination while the constitutional issues were resolved

That could take years, unless the bar examiners relent

It took four years for former Beatle, John Lennon to upset a Board of Immigration ruling denying him residence in the United States because of a marijuana possession conviction in London in 1968 A federal appeals court ruled last December that no moral turpitude was involved in the misdemeanor

Another who had a close call was Bob Korn city attorney for Telluride Colo who was arrested on charges of possession and distribution He had given some marijuana to a friend who was a deputy sheriff

The arrest came 12 days before the state's decriminalization law went into effect Under the old law, Korn could have been sent to jail for 14 years with revocation of his attorney's license

After a hassel, Korn was allowed to plead guilty to the new law and subjected to a $100 fine, much like paying a traffic ticket

The Way She Was

Barbara Streisand performs "The Way We Were" during concert staged over the weekend at Arizona State University's Sun Devil Stadium. Concert was filmed for the movie "A Star Is Born," which will feature Miss Streisand and Kris Kristofferson. More than 45,000 jammed the football stadium for the concert (UPI)

Wolf Hunt

SPIEGELAU, West Germany (UPI) — Government authorities, prompted by an attack on a four-year old boy, today gave hunters the go ahead to shoot wolves that broke out of the Bavarian National Park seven weeks ago

Police said Sunday two wolves separated from the pack and bit the boy who was playing with friends in a meadow in the Weiter Forstwald forest

Hospital authorities said the bites were not serious and did not require stitches

The attack prompted the Bavarian Ministry of the Interior to lift the ban on wolf hunting that was instituted after animal experts, including Nobel Prize winner Konrad Lorenz and wolf specialist Eric Zimen, insisted that they were not dangerous

The escape of the wolves unleashed a "wolf psychosis and wolves were reported in the outskirts of Munich and in small villages, where they apparently roamed the streets, playing with children and rummaging in garbage cans

Orange Strike In Court

GOSHEN (UPI) — Both sides in a strike against Orange County were to return to court today for a hearing on an injunction against the walkout by the Civil Service Employes Association

Meanwhile union leaders told their members at a rally in Middletown Sunday night that they had offered the county legislature a package calling for full salary increments a 2 per cent raise retroactive to January and a 2 per cent hike in July

The union struck last Wednesday after the legislature had rejected a state fact finder's recommendation for a 4 per cent raise and ordered a cut in increments scheduled in the current three year contract

Talks between the two sides broke off Saturday night after both sides aided by a state mediator met for 9½ hours but reached no settlement

The legislature agreed Saturday afternoon to pay the increments but not to go along with the raise Officials said the increments alone would cost the county $373 000

Despite the order to shoot the wolves, Hans Bibelnether, manager of the national park, said the wolf did not intend to kill the boy, but only to play with him

Neil Sedaka's Back and Big as Life

Neil Sedaka . . . getting his second wind.

By Marian Christy

NEW YORK — Millionaire Neil Sedaka, who calls his current comeback at age 36 his "second coming" is perched on an aubergine velvet sofa in a sprawling uppercrust Fifth Avenue apartment. He's talking about himself.

"I know it sounds awful but I equate success with money — and vice-versa," says Sedaka, the songwriter-performer of the early '60s whose fade-out is a thing of the past. "For a long time, I'd would meet friends who'd say: 'Hi, what are you doing now?' " says Sedaka. Since he wrote three recent No. 1 Singles — "Love Will Keep Us Together," "Bad Blood" and "Laughter in the Rain" — he tells them.

"Yup," says Sedaka, who has written 80 hits, "I'm buying another duplex cooperative, I just got my wife a new sable coat and I took my family to London for the weekend because there was nothing else to do."

Brooklyn-born Sedaka, a Turkish Jew whose father drove a taxi and whose mother worked as a salesperson to help him through Juilliard School, says he's also rich in independence. "Now that I've made it big again," he says, "no one tells me what to sing or how to sing. When you're Somebody, you're at Nobody's mercy."

Sedaka, who grew up in a lower-middleclass neighborhood that also produced Neil Diamond, is not the prototype rock star. He thinks writing music while under the influence of two or more vodkas is "tar out." Booking agents furtively refer to him as "Mr. Unlikely" because he stubbornly bypasses "heavy" drugs and absurd clothes.

"The world is getting more civilized," Sedaka insists. "It's not necessary to look or act like a freaky degenerate or so beautiful that you become untouchable. Ordinary people want to relate to other ordinary people. The fact that I am who I am — a simple middle-of-the-roader — is part of my rebirth.

Apparently Sedaka harbored an inferiority complex as a child. Besides being short, pudgy, a wearer of braces and glasses, he was the kid who played piano instead of ball. It didn't exactly endear him to his classmates who weren't above taunts.

Today he admits he grappled with deep feelings of "isolation." His doting mother, aware he had a problem maintaining self-esteem tried to strike a chord of confidence.

"Mama insisted everything I did was perfect." says Sedaka who, for a long time, didn't believe the maternal assurances. "I wasn't really popular so I tried to compensate with my music."

The plan worked. By the time Sedaka was 16, he hit two extremes with equal aplomb. Pianist Arthur Rubinstein predicted he could develop into an outstanding classic pianist. Meanwhile he had written Connie Francis's first hit, "Stupid Cupid."

"All I knew," says Sedaka, "is that I wanted to walk into a big room anywhere and be recognized. This music scene is one very necessary ego trip," he admits

Sedaka, now getting bald on top, is married to Leba Strasberg, the mother of his two children — Dara, 12 and Marc 9. It was Leba's mother who hired Sedaka's teen-age band to liven things up at Esther Manor, her Catskills motel.

When Sedaka arrived, Leba, age 16, was the desk clerk

"Honest to God," smiles Sedaka, about his love-at-first-sight reaction, "my heart went tipsy. Right then I told the drummer that this is the girl I'd marry."

The on-again, off-again dating game lasted for five years. When Leba turned 21, she became Mrs. Neil Sedaka. "She's the answer to my prayers," glows Sedaka. "I'm never sure of anything except my music. She's the one who deals with agents, booking managers, lawyers and accountants Besides, when I need to unravel the knots of my life — she's there. Leba knows that I'm just a child at heart. We sort of take it from there."

Sedaka's spiraling career is not without disenchantment.

"I'm simply amassing my riches," he says. "Why else would I agree to accept bookings in far-flung places? Why should I accept being away from home for months at a time? The music business is a fickle business. One day you're in. The next day you're out."

Political Forum

NEW YORK — Governors of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut lead a distinguished list of public figures who will host a town meeting for presidential candidates on March 29 at the Waldorf Astoria.

The meeting is the third in a series of five such forums sponsored by the League of Women Voters Education Fund. The Mid-Atlantic Forum to be held in New York will be broadcast over WNET, Channel 13, at 8:30 p.m. on March 29 and made available to the 264 affiliates of the Public Broadcasting Service.

The composition of the Host Committee reflects the broad concern in the Mid-Atlantic region over the subject of the New York Forum: Who Is Responsible for the Cities?

Among the hosts are representatives of industry and finance, labor and the public sector, and of various political and ethnic interests Consistent with the voter service tradition established by the League of Women Voters at candidates meetings, Richard M. Rosenbaum and Patrick J. Cunningham, heads of the Republican and Democratic State Committees, will co-chair the Host Committee along with Natacha Dykman, State League president.

Serving on the committee with Governors Hugh L. Carey, Brendan T. Byrne and Ella Grasso are Senators James Buckley and Jacob Javits, Mayor Abraham Beame, and Representatives Millicent Fenwick and Helen S. Meyner.

Other members are: Robert Bernstein, Maria Bonilla, Sol Chaikin, James R. Dumpson, Sara Gotbaum, Edward Jesser, Jr , Vernon Jordan, Dr. Herbert Kayden, Donald McNaughton, Eleanor Holmes Norton, Carl M. Pforzheimer, Jr., Dr. Gabrielle Reem, Howard Samuels, Martha Wallace, Dr Jacqueline Wexler, Theodore H. White, and David Yunich.

All candidates who have qualified for Federal funds and who remain in the presidential race have been invited to the Forum. This includes Jimmy Carter, Frank Church, Gerald Ford, Fred Harris, Henry Jackson, Ellen McCormack, Ronald Reagan, R. Sargent Shriver, Morris Udall, and George C. Wallace. Elie Abel, Dean of the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism, will be moderator.

The forum provides an unusual opportunity for voters in the audience to put their questions directly to the presidential candidates.

Mr. Fit Program

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS — It may be 1980 before the results of an experiment aimed at saving lives and now being conducted in a special center in this New Jersey community are known. But, in the meantime, everyone interested in a program that concerns itself with the heart, can take a cue from the basic idea.

The program is called MR FIT, the initials standing for Multiple Risk Factor Intervention Trial It was a new program when it was set up two years ago under the auspices of the National Heart and Lung Institute of the National Institute of Health

The idea was simple. About 80 per cent of heart attacks seem to occur in men having one or more of the following three risk factors. heavy cigarette smoking, high blood pressure and elevated blood cholesterol. If a research team could find some of these men and intervene —change their habits -- perhaps the men could avoid such a high rate of heart attacks.

Although it took more time than expected to find the number of volunteers required for the study (one reason was that so many middle-aged men have given up smoking), the ranks are now filled and the research is underway at 20 centers in the States.

The men are attending stop-smoking clinics and are being counseled on how to bring down blood pressure and cholesterol A principle technique here is a change in diet away from saturated fats and toward lower total fat, with a greater emphasis on the polyunsaturated variety (like Mazola corn oil) Weight control is important, so the men are being taught to avoid extra calories, too

If total results may still be several years in the making, some basic information has already emerged from the 20 centers The suggestions for all of us:

See your physician. Have him determine your blood pressure, do a lipid count on your blood (this gives you not only a cholesterol count but measures triglycerides and other fatty substances as well), and evaluate your weight.

When the results are in, work together with your doctor to put yourself in a better risk-factor position Do stop smoking Do exercise more, according to your capabilities

Make appropriate changes in your diet If you correct obesity, you have everything to gain and nothing to lose, but excess weight. As you cut down on foods high in saturated fat, you can be exploring new ways of cooking. You also may find exciting new taste rewards along with improved nutrition

For more information about a diet lower insaturated fat, send for the booklet "A Diet for Today," available free from Dept. DTGN, Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238.

SHS Reunion Planned

SAUGERTIES — A committee has been formed to plan the 20th reunion of the Saugerties High School class of 1956.

The following classmates have not been located: Pete Hedly, Elizabeth Atwell, Iris Bogart, David Hymes, Marie VanTassell Klemke. Anyone knowing the addresses of these people is asked to notify committee members, Mary Woerthman Fellows or Bill Thornton, both of Saugerties.

The reunion will take place at Flamingo Restaurant on Saturday, June 12. Advance reservations are required.

Award Presented

STONE RIDGE— Gary Hilton Thorn of Clintondale, an engineering student at Ulster County Community College, has been awarded a medal from RPI for academic excellence at the Stone Ridge campus.

The award was presented by Dr Joseph Smith of RPI, Troy, one of the nation's leading engineering schools.

The son of Mr and Mrs. Hilton Thorn and a graduate of Highland High School, Thorn has maintained a 3.85 academic average at UCCC where he is in the Engineering Science program. The highest average is a perfect 4.0.

"Gary Thorn is an outstanding student at UCCC," said Walter Hopkins, chairman of the Department of Engineering Technologies, "and I am pleased to see him recognized for his academic excellence by RPI."

Also commending the Ulster student on his achievement was Robert T. Brown, college president.

Nurses Alumni Donates Check

KINGSTON — Lighting up the lives of patients in one section of Kingston Hospital was a project felt to be important by members of the Kingston Hospital Nurses Alumni. To make life a little brighter for those who will be admitted in the future to rooms on the fourth floor east of the hospital, the Nurses Alumni recently presented a check in the amount of $805 to be used for individual bed lights.

Philharmonic to Tour U.S. and Canada With Eglevsky

POUGHKEEPSIE — Five years of musical and artistic cooperation has paid off handsomely forthe Hudson Valley Philharmonic. Already known for its excellence in many parts of New York State, our regional philharmonic musicians will be attracting new converts in the South, Midwest, Northeast and Canada in the next month.

"It's a very exciting thing for the orchestra," said Ken Fricker, the HVP's manager. "We're looking forward to it very much."

And, with ample reason and very little warning, it might be added.

"Very much a last minute thing," continued Fricker, of the surprise news that the orchestra would be appearing with Valery and Galina Panov, famed Russian ballet stars, and the Eglevsky Ballet Company in a four-week, 15-city tour beginning March 23 in St. Petersburg, Fla.

"The Eglevsky's decision to use us for their tour is the result of five years of cooperation between our two organizations," noted Fricker, "and it's a clear demonstration of what regionalism can mean for performing groups."

The full orchestra will not go on tour, since concerts already scheduled in this area will continue through the traveling period. Twenty-five musicians from the philharmonic will accompany the Panovs and the Eglevsky troupe through the first half of the tour for three weeks. They will appear in performances in Miami and Jacksonville, Fla., Charlotte, N.C., Birmingham, Oklahoma City, Kansas City, Tulsa, St. Louis, Nashville and Atlanta.

Fifteen orchestra members will return home after three weeks, but ten others will go on for the remainder of the tour which includes a one-night stop in Montreal and extended engagements in Boston, Toronto and Chicago where the tour ends with a three-day engagement April 23-25. The HVP will be under the baton of Allen Lewis, assistant conductor of the Joffrey Ballet Company.

The Panovs, who became a cause celebre internationally when the Soviet Union denied them permission to emigrate to Israel, will dance "The Lady and the Hooligan," apiece which is known as their signature work; "Gorianka," "Albinoni," the pas de deux from "Le Corsaire" and the grand pas de deux from the ballet "Don Quixote," excerpts of which will be performed by the Eglevsky troupe. The famed Russian stars will also dance "Harlequinade" and Galina Panov will perform the legendary "Dying Swan" from Tchaikovsky's "Swan Lake."

The company's repertoire include "Concerto Barocco," "Allegro Brilliante," and the world premiere of "Rituals for an Impatient Age."

The Hudson Valley Philharmonic has appeared frequently with the Long Island-based Eglevsky troupe over the past five years, including several times in Kingston. And the musicians chosen for the tour represent an excellent cross section of the orchestra. Panovis considered one of the world's finest character dancers. Along with his wife, he was a leading member of the Soviet Union's famed Kirov Ballet. After being jailed and denied permission to either dance or practice, the couple left Russia by permission in 1974; has since danced in Israel and the United States.

Test Urged for Late Pregnancies

One of the country's leading authorities in the field of genetic counseling advises any pregnant woman over 35 to undergo a test called amniocentesis which reveals the presence of abnormalities in the fetus related to mental retardation.

Dr. Arthur Robinson, who is professor of Biophysics and Genetics at the University of Colorado Medical Center, notes that the risk of incurable chromosomal abnormalities, as Downs syndrome which is a primary cause of mental retardation, rises steadily after a woman reaches the age of 35. According to Dr. Robinson, the chance of chromosomal abnormalities is approximately one per cent at age 35, two per cent at 38, three per cent at age 40, and at age 45 the chances of being a mongoloid child or one with chromosomal abnormalities is as high as one in 10.

Even those opposed to interrupting a pregnancy for any reason will sometimes choose to undergo amniocentesis as a means of preparing themselves to deal with the special problems an affected child and his family would face. (The test also reveals such conditions as spina bifida and certain metabolic disorders.)

The actual "tap," or extraction of a small amount of amniotic fluid, should be conducted by a physician experienced in this procedure. "Ultrasound" is often used to chart the exact position of the fetus and the placenta. The fetal cells contained in the fluid must be analyzed by a team trained in genetics. The results constitute an accurate picture of the chromosomal make-up of the fetus. The intensive session of genetic counseling which should precede the tap, the extraction of the fluid and the laboratory analysis costs approximately $300.

Most parents who learn that the fetus will be a mongoloid or otherwise affected will consider an abortion. Since amniocentesis cannot be conducted until the 14th or 15th week of gestation when there is a sufficient volume of amniotic fluid, and since the analysis of the fetal cells requires two or three weeks, a decision to abort the fetus cannot be made until the second trimester.

Despite this fact, Dr. Robinson regards amniocentesis as a lifesaving procedure, citing that only two-and-a-half per cent of the tests run by his Denver team revealed babies who were not normal. In his opinion, this means that the normal babies — the 97.5 per cent — were saved from possible abortion.

Before amniocentesis test was available, many women who were at an increased risk age, might have chosen to have an abortion because they knew their chances of bearing a retarded child were high. This was particularly true for women who had previously given birth to an affected child. The procedure allays those fears when they turn out to be unfounded and offers the small percentage of women who will have abnormal children an opportunity to make their own decisions.

An ardent opponent of abortion, Dr. Watson Bowes, Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the University of Colorado Medical Center, nevertheless conducts many amnio tests. He believes that each woman has the right to know what special problems she will face with her future offspring.

The test also reveals the sex of the child and there is the danger that people will use the test to pre-select a boy or a girl. But Dr. Robinson claims that he and his colleagues will turn down requests for amniocentesis from people who want the analysis solely for the social reason of being able to choose a boy rather than a girl, or vice versa.

Now that the amnio test has been judged to be a safe procedure gynecologists who do not inform pregnant women of the risk of congenital defects and the availability of the test to predict such defects may be held accountable

Dear Abby

A Golden Oldie

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR READERS: I am presently writing a book that will contain choice letters I've received in the last 20 years. In selecting the material, I came across a letter that gave me a chuckle. I hope it gives you one, too. It was published in my column in October, 1968:

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 44-year-old bachelor who digs women, but I'm not looking for any matrimonial involvements. I live alone in a modest bungalow and enjoy my privacy.

My problem is an aggressive divorcee who lives next door. She's not had looking, but she comes on awfully strong. She's a rip-roarin' Republican and a Nixon booster from way back. If she sees a light in my place, she runs right over with a prepared meal and an armful of Nixon campaign literature. She's even offered to cook for me and do my ironing, but I'm not about to fall into that trap. When she's not trying to sell me on Nixon, she's talking about marriage.

Last week I had it, so I moved my refrigerator, stove and TV down to the basement so she won't know I'm home. So now she phones me! What should I do?

NOT INTERESTED

DEAR NOT: Tell her you're going to vote for Hubert and move back upstairs!

DEAR ABBY: PENNA. READER wrote: "I went to a nice supper club with my lady friend and another couple, when a male friend of the other couple approached me and asked if I minded if he danced with my date. I said 'Yes, I do mind,' and my date thought I was rude."

You said, "You were. You should have asked your date if SHE wanted to dance with the stranger."

Well, I think you were wrong. Why should a man who goes to a supper club (and probably left his wife or girlfriend at home) expect some other guy to provide him with a girl to dance with?

I say, nuts to him. If he likes to dance, let him bring his own date!

WYOMINGITE

DEAR WYOMINGITE: I led with my chin on that one. You're right!

DEAR ABBY: A school dance is coming up next month, and the girls are supposed to ask the boys.

I want to ask a certain boy I know, but my mom says I shouldn't ask a boy who hasn't ever asked me out, and this one hasn't.

Abby, I think it's only fair that this once I should be able to ask the boy I really want to ask. What do you think?

TO ASK OR NOT TO ASK

DEAR TO ASK: The purpose of a girl-ask-boy dance is to change the boy-ask-girl tradition with which girls have been stuck for so long. If girls ask only boys who have asked them out, where's the breakthrough?

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Where is Cholesterol Found?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please explain the difference between animal fat and cholesterol in the blood?

DEAR READER — This, or variations of it, is a constantly recurring question from my readers. Cholesterol is not a fat, it is a waxy-like substance produced principally by the liver in animals. It is found in meats (minimal to moderate amount), butterfat, cheese, egg yolks and certain organ meats. It is never found in plants or plant products.

Fat is not cholesterol whether it comes from animals or vegetables. It has a basic chemical difference. Animal fat tends to be made up of large amounts of saturated fat. This is a kind of fat that many heart specialists think is particularly apt to contribute to fatty-cholesterol deposits in the blood vessels. Animal fat also contains a large amount of unsaturated fat. However, very little of the animal fat, except in fish and chicken, is of the polyunsaturated variety that some heart specialists think is important in helping to prevent fatty cholesterol deposits.

Significant amounts of saturated fats are less often found in vegetable products. However, there are some notable exceptions, particularly coconut oil which is over 80 per cent saturated fat.

The fat that builds up in the blood combines with cholesterol and the combined particles may lodge in the walls of the arteries. Some of the fat may be cleaned out of the artery leaving a higher percentage of cholesterol stuck in the artery itself.

These fatty cholesterol deposits are the basis for the arterial disease associated with heart attacks, strokes and many other circulatory problems. For more information on cholesterol and blood fats send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 1-2, Cholesterol, Triglycerides, Blood Fats, Atherosclerosis. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband and I eat fish at least three times a week — turbot, which is oily. We are on a low cholesterol diet and wonder if that fish is suitable.

DEAR READER — Turbot belongs to the flat fish group of flounder, sole and sand dab. I don't have figures for turbot but you can use the figures for flounder. These fish are relatively low in fat. Only about 10 per cent of their total calories is fat, which means that out of a 100 grams (3 one-half ounces) less than one gram is fat.

I have eaten turbot many times myself and have not thought of it as oily, but rather as a low-fat fish. As a general rule you can estimate that about one-third of the fat in fish is saturated fat, one-third monounsaturated fat and one-third polyunsaturated fat. That means it is one of the best foods you can use to provide items low in saturated fat from the meat basic food group. That's why fish is often recommended for diets that are designed for low-fat, low-cholesterol eating. I think you are wise to use fish regularly in your diet and feel that turbot is an excellent choice of the group. It is also economical and if you prepare it properly without adding a lot of fat to it, it is relatively low in fat.

Civil War Buff Stubby Osborne

Seward 'Stubby' R. Osborne, Jr.

KINGSTON — A Civil War afficionado, he wears a uniform of that war whenever he lectures on its history. Inspired by genuine Mathew Brady photos — culled from the wet collodion glass plate process of a century ago — he is also equipped with musket, bayonet and sword.

He is Seward (Stubby) R. Osborne Jr. of Olivebridge, and his Civil War style is reminiscent of old time type photos. But, beyond the uniform, Osborne is more interested in the Civil War as a difficult historical period — and in the part that period played in Ulster County history. Much of his time away from his Kingston job is spent collecting Civil War material and artifacts that have been buried in attic trunks around the county for more than six decades.

Osborne is an authoritative historian on the war from Fort Sumter to Appomattox, but his special interest resides in the 20th New York State Militia — the "Ulster Guard (regiments of Ulster and surrounding counties. And interested, too, in the 120th New York Volunteers, who were known as the "Washington Guard."

Osborne spoke recently to students at Kingston's Harry L. Edson Elementary School in a lecture emphasizing the role Ulster County played in those momentous years of the Civil War. During two programs at the school, he discussed the daily camp life of typical soldiers, their uniforms, equipment and food. Through personal anecdotes of the men, women and children of 100 years ago, he made the period come alive again for his audiences.

Osborne also set the stage for the Ulster Guard's participation in the Battle of Gettysburg; noted that after the North initially sustained heavy losses, it was this area regiment that saved the city of Gettysburg from falling to the Confederate forces.

In addition to speaking at local schools, Stubby Osborne has also appeared on area radio broadcasts to create interest in his project to reactivate the 20th New York State Militia and to form a Civil War research group here. Osborne is also involved in writing a book on the "Ulster Guard" and has authored articles on Colonel George W. Pratt, founder of the Ulster County Historical Society and commander of the 20th New York State Militia. He is hopeful that area residents having Civil War artifacts will contact him at his Olivebridge home phone number.

Meanwhile, Edson School students are working on a Civil War exhibit to be featured at the upcoming Bicentennial Fair at Kingston Armory from April 6 to April 8. Their exhibit, they say, will be enhanced with help from Osborne's talks and classroom visits.

Viveca Lindfors at UCCC

STONE RIDGE — Viveca Lindfors, the stage and screen actress, will recreate scenes from her greatest triumphs via poems, songs, speeches and conversations centering on the theme of "Woman" at Ulster County Community College Tuesday, April 6.

The program scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Quimby Auditoriumin Vanderlyn Hall on the Stone Ridge campus, is open to the public without charge. It is being sponsored by the International Women's Year Committee at the College.

In the program, Ms. Lindfors will bring to life a cavalcade of 36 women from Shaw, Ibsen, Colette, Shakespeare, Sylvia Plath and Brecht. They will include a battery of women liberation journalists and women from many other sources.

Ms. Lindfors reports that Women's Liberation has had a great impact on her life and work. She belives her acting style has changed significantly in recent years because of the influence of Women's Liberation.

She claims she understands "the woman's psyche more today than 10 years ago," and added that today she would play a character such as Lady Macbeth with a completely new understanding of her dilemna as well as Macbeth's dilemna. The actress would be able to understand Lady Macbeth's desire for power and also be able to feel sorry for Macbeth who submits to his wife's "feminine charms."

Ms. Lindfors has appeared in more than 50 films and plays during her career and recently was signed by United Artiststo play in "Welcome to L.A." with Sally Kellerman. She has also received awards from the New York Drama League and Berlin Film Festival.

Early in her career, the actress studied at the Royal Dramatic Theater and with Lee Strasberg. She now has her own studio called"An Actor Works."

Born in Sweden, Ms.Lindfors is now an American citizen She became interested in the field of entertainment at the age of five while taking modern dance lessons

Later she became a star of Swedish film and theatre and at the age of 25 came to the U S She worked in California for five years before moving to New York where she became a star on Broadway and off-Broadway

SUNYA Theater Audition Call

ALBANY — Auditions or one of the biggest summer theatre seasons ever at the State University of New York at Albany (SUNYA) will be held all day Saturday, April 10 and April 24 at the Performing Arts Center on campus. Dates for the auditions were announced by professor James M. Symons of the SUNYA Theatre Department. Symons heads the 1976 State University Theatre Company, applications for which can be obtained by writing to Summer Theatre, Performing Arts Center, The University at Albany, Albany, N Y. 12222

Applications for auditions are available from the same address.

Full company membership requires registration in the specially designed course, "Summer Theatre Production and Management," which carries either undergraduate or graduate credit; however, noncredit, associate company memberships are also available. All company members will be selected through audition. A limited number of tuition scholarships will be awarded in both acting and technical areas.

Symons said the 1976 summer theatre season at SUNYA would run from June 21 through Aug. 8 and would consist of three productions to be chosen from the following: Hay Fever, East Lynne, The Bat, Ghost Train, A Midsummer Night's Dream, Twelfth Night, Misalliance. Edward J. Golden will direct two of the plays and Symons will stage one. Set designer for the summer season will be Robert J. Donnelly, and Lynda L. Salsbury will design the costumes. Both are well known for their designs of previous SUNYA productions. Lighting designer will be Anthony Krivitski who currently serves as technical director for the SUNYA Theatre Department.

Anyone desiring further information may write or call the Department of Theatre on the Albany campus.

Vintage Flicks On Ancram Screen

ANCRAM — "Forgotten Gems of the 30's," the Musical Film Festival that has been running at the Johann Strauss Atheneum in historically restored Ancran, will feature a Warner Brothers' box office success of 40 years ago this weekend.

On March 27 and 28, the Atheneum will present the 1935 Busby Berkeley production, "In Caliente," starring Pat O'Brien, Dolores Del Rio, Winifred Shaw, Edward Everett Horton, Glenda Farrell, Judy Canova and Leo Carillo. The story of the magazine editor who falls in love with a Mexican dancer, the musical features Berkeley's elaborately staged "Lady in Red" number.

The film will be screened at Ancram's Victorian Operetta Museum at 2, 4 and 8 p.m. on Saturday and at 2 and 4 p.m. on Sunday.

The CSEA Suggestion

A recent recommendation of the Civil Service Employees Association and adopted by the Ulster County Legislature suggests that bonus points be awarded to employees that have temporarily filled a vacant post while awaiting the competitive exam. They suggest that the taxpayers' money has been used to train this worker and that training another would be wasteful.

On the surface, one can't fault the logic. Saving the taxpayers' money ranks right up there with Mom's apple pie. But it occurs to us that we may be opening a can of worms with such a practice. Right now, civil service employment seems to be free of political persuasion. If this procedure were adopted, we fear it would offer a temptation to our officials to rig the replacements as political favors.

We suggest that the procedure be changed to produce the same desired effect. Why can't the vacant post filled by the applicant who qualified second in the preceding testing, or better still, conduct an interim test?

Goodness knows our politicians are subjected to enough temptations.

A Spring Poem

Dear Editor:

The following is a poem by our grandson—thought you'd like to print it— he's 12 years, 2/7/76.

Spring

Spring is a meadow and flowers like lace;
Spring is the trees with quiet grace,
Spring is all around us like the vast empty space.
And even in the winter there's a little trace of Spring.

Two Names Omitted

Dear Editor:

Last week, I issued a release concerning the formation of a bi-partisan task force to study welfare reform, within Ulster County, as well as, on the federal and state levels.

When my release was published in the Freeman, I noted that two (2) members of the task force were not mentioned. Inasmuch, as the members of these task forces are undertaking a major work load with no remuneration whatever, I believe that their identities should be made known to the citizens of our county, who hopefully will benefit from their efforts. I therefore request that this letter be printed, under "Letters to the Editor",so as to insure due and proper credit for two most dedicated citizens of our county, William A. Jackson of Hurley and Richard H. Franklin of Marlborough.

Bill Jackson is well-known to most of us. He is the Chairman of the Ulster County Conservative Party, and in such capacity has been an outspoken advocate of welfare reform. Fortunately for Ulster County, Bill Jackson recognizes that spoken words alone will not suffice to produce reform. Despite his already burdensome schedule he has agreed to serve on this task force, and work toward the solution of some ever-present problems in the welfare structure of our government and his community, would, as County Chairman of the Conservative Party, volunteer his services to a task force, organized by a representative of the Democratic Party, which will undoubtedly invest much time and effort, without a promise of great reward, in search of a solution to steadily increasing problem, in our society.

A few weeks ago, Legislator James Canino of Highland, informed me that he recently was confronted by a constituent of his, Richard H. Franklin of Marlborough, regarding his concern for the future of Ulster County in light of the intolerable welfare burden, endured by our taxpayers on a yearly basis. Having been assured by Legislator Canino, that Mr. Franklin was a knowledgable advocate of welfare reform, I asked him to serve on our task force. Much of my delight, Mr. Franklin enthusiastically accepted my invitation, and agreed to lend his services to the task force.

I applaud the willingness of both Mr. Jackson and Mr. Franklin to undertake this most difficult and far-reaching responsibility. Their efforts will most assuredly add to the effectiveness of the task force, and the quality of its work product.

In conclusion, I want to thank the citizens of Ulster County in general, for their show of concern regarding the many problems our county government is facing, and their willingness to work towards a solution of these problems. When I first conceived the idea of appointing citizen task forces to seek out solutions to these ongoing problems, I had no idea that public acceptance would be so favorable or that the availability of willing participants would be so plentiful. To date, I have asked twenty-five (25) citizens of Ulster County to serve on these task forces. Each of these citizens, who represent various political persuasions, the various geographic areas of Ulster County, and divers ocupational interests, has graciously accepted the challenge which accompanies such service.

It is indeed a pleasure, for me to serve such dedicated, interested and well-motivated citizens, as an elected official: I shall always be grateful for their cooperation and support.

Respectfully yours,
Louis M. Klein
Minority Leader
Ulster County Legislature

Editor's Note: These "Gremlins", which sometimes play havoc on our readers, did so with Legislator Klein's release. It was unintentional on our part.

Defends Pizza Hut

Dear Editor:

I was so pleased to see the article by the Pizza Hut defending its product. My family has been going there regularly for some time. We realy enjoy their pizza and deliciously generous salad. We also like the pleasant atmosphere created by the decor and employes especially considering it has always been packed each time we've gone.

I felt that the newspaper used extremely poor taste when it allowed only one opinion per restaurant. Naturally people's tastes vary, and it was deplorable to allow one family to slander a restaurant without getting further opinions or comparison.

Thank heavens we make up our own minds about things instead of allowing others opinions to govern us.

Sincerely,
GAYLE T. SOMERVELL,
Kingston

Editor's note: Our consumer panel did a follow-up sampling of the Pizza Hut. We hope you read comments from the entire panel in our Sunday, March 14 Freeman.

A Happy Reader

Dear Editor:

For a period of six months or more The Daily Freeman provided but scant coverage of the major news of the Town of Marbletown. During this interval it was nigh on to impossible for citizens to keep abreast of developments often of considerable importance to them.

The paper must have altered its policy, because in the past few weeks it reported most of the major stories in the town. What a difference this makes! Now, the likelihood of something important escaping the attention of interested townspeople is largely eliminated. Three major issues reported by the paper recently ultimately were well aired at Town Board meetings. The exposure the paper provides was largely responsible for the citizen participation that followed.

On behalf of your sizeable readership in our town, I wish to thank the Freeman. Hopefully the coverage will continue. A free and conscientious press is the nation's greatest strength . . . bar none.

Gratefully,
Donald G. Ross,
Stone Ridge

Editor, The Freeman:

Dear Editor:

I believe that extra "lulu" payments, stipends or bonuses for legislators should be made unlawful and discontined this year. The salaries, expenses, travel pay, pension system and other fringe benefits are enough. If other areas of state government have to cut back, why not legislators?

Signed.....

Hit and Run

Nicholas Von Hoffman

Lawless Government

WASHINGTON—President Ford and Attorney General Levi are at work writing guidelines for crime, and at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue, Congress is busy at the task of learning how to oversee it. Finding a lawful way to supervise lawlessness is the most apt description for the attempts currently being made to contain the CIA and the FBI.

Success for this endeavor is inherently impossible. There can be no adequate guidelines or oversight for the myriad of scummy activities that are clustered under the name of "covert action." The worst of them, i.e. assassination, sabotage and incitement to revolution, are acts of war; and under our system, as it was originally contemplated, the power to declare war rests exclusively with Congress.

Nor can Congress constitutionally delegate the power to declare war to the President, the CIA or anybody else. But in fact the CIA does have that power, putting Congress in the ridiculous situation of trying to oversee the unlawful usurpation of its own functions.

Wholesale bribery, rigging other people's elections and the like aren't acts of war, but they are interference in other countries' domestic affairs. That also is unlawful, under our law, where we have signed and ratified treaties prohibiting it, as is the case with South America.

Ultimate Stakes

While our officialdom occupies itself debating how it is going to legitimate the illegitimate, the rest of us must come to understand that more is at stake than even CIA assassinations and FBI murders. These acts aren't the work of "rogue" agencies which must be "controlled." Nor can they be blamed on outstandingly immoral presidents like Kennedy and Nixon.

What has happened is that we now have two governments. We have the visible one that we pay taxes to and kvetch about and the dark government of the national security state. You may consider the first government awful, but it is more or less lawful, and it operates more or less as we learned in Sunday school it should.

The second is absolutely lawless and unlawful. It fails every test of legality. Although it spends billions of dollars, Congress itself doesn't even know when or how much money it's appropriating for it. There is no meaningful audit of funds, and the Pike Committee report, which CBS's Daniel Schorr made public for us, indicates massive theft and corruption in the CIA. Or are you silly enough to believe that when the CIA in one foreign city spends $41,000 for liquor in one year they're fighting communism? How does spending $175,000 to furnish an office keep the Reds off our back? Is anybody seriously going to maintain that, when the CIA uses taxpayer money to produce pornographic movies, they're defending the national security?

When this kind of evidence of graft and corruption piles up against the employes of the visible government, grand juries are impanelled, indictments are issued and citizens file taxpayer suits. None of that is possible with the various organs of the national security government. Even the rules they operate under, if there are any, are classified. Note that while prima facie cases of CIA and FBI crime against American citzens—forget foreigners—exist, all the perpetrators are beyond the reach of the laws of the visible government.

The Nazi & Soviet Models

The same dual government system obtains in the Soviet Union as it did in Nazi Germany, where the Gestapo seemed to have shared the same prurient interests as the CIA. Russia has a fine visible government with all kinds of laws and safeguards, but, as Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn has reminded us, they're not binding on the KGB. Dual government is the common characteristic of the modern totalitarian state.

Be warned and don't join the thoughtless mob of auto-hypnotic patriots who want to punish men like Daniel Schorr because he's giving our secrets away to the enemy. If he's given any secrets away, they are secrets we can't have because they are things we can't do and still call ourselves Americans. Hitler and Mussolini used criminal gangs for their political purposes, but there is no way we can stretch our system to include a similar use of the Mafia.

One of the reasons CIA-FBI cries have gotten so much publicity of late is that during the Nixon period some members of the country's ruling circles found themselves victims of the second govenment's lawlessness. They didn't mind when a job was done on foreigners or on a Martin Luther King. They don't want it done on themselves, and this debate over control and oversight is really grappling with an arrangement that will protect them but not the rest of us.

That can't be either. The German capitalists found that with Hitler. Either we're all protected or none of us will be. Nor can that protection be secured by circumscribing the area of lawlessness. There are some things a democracy can never, no not ever, do.

Jack Anderson

Political Payoffs

WASHINGTON—At least $8 million in illegal corporate payoffs have disappeared into the pockets of Washington politicians during the past decade.

While the spotlight has focused on corporate bribery overseas, we have investigated payoffs to politicians here at home. We have determined that political bigwigs collected the $8 million from four corporations alone: Ashland Oil, Gulf Oil, Northrop Aircraft and Phillips Petroleum.

The dimensions of the scandal indicate it may develop into a corporate Watergate.

Our reporters, Terry Repak and Marc Smolonsky, dug through Securities and Exchange Commission documents in an attempt to trace the money. They contacted 45 congressmen who were identified in the documents as recipients of illegal payments.

Our investigation even led to the White House itself. President Ford allegedly received an illegal $1,000 contribution from Phillips when he was the House Republican leader. A White House spokesman told us there was no way to verify the payment now. But he conceded the money was never returned.

When Richard Nixon occupied the White House, his campaign aides were caught accepting an illegal $100,000 contribution from Ashland in 1972. The money was returned with a big show of piety. We have now discovered that the Nixon campaign accepted an earlier $100,000 from the same oil company in 1968. But this money, since it was never publicized, wasn't given back.

Of the 45 members of Congress who are identified in SEC documents as receiving illegal money from corporate lobbyists, only six have returned the loot. They are Sen. Howard Baker, R.-Tenn., Carl Curtis, R.-Neb., Henry Jackson, D.-Wash., James McClure, R.-Ida., J.B. Johnston, D.-La., and Rep. Wilbur Mills, D.-Ark.

They paid back a total of $45,600 in illegal gifts. But Mills did not return another $50,000 Ashland contribution, strictly illegal, which was given to him to distrubute to Democratic colleagues.

Sen. James Eastland, D.-Miss., admitted receiving a $5,000 payment from Ashland but said he had no intention of returning it. House Democratic leader Tip O'Neill, D.-Mass., acknowledged he got $200 from Phillips. He also felt no obligation to return it. Both men explained that they didn't realize the contributions had come from corporate funds.

Most of the 45 legislators, whose names appear on the SEC lists of illegal recipients, refused to acknowledge that they got any illegal money from any corporation. Many have received letters from Gulf demanding restitution. They won't give back money, they said, that they don't recall receiving.

One Gulf letter, for example, went to Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D.-Minn. Through a spokesman, he denied receiving an illegal payment but acknowledged the gifts may have gone to his campaign committees. Our information indicates that Humphrey collected $30,500, all told, from Gulf and Ashland.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R.-Ore., according to the documents, received $11,000 from Phillips and Gulf. But a spokesman insisted that Hatfield never got any illegal payments.

Another $1,000 illegal donation from Phillips allegedly went to Sen. Strom Thurmond, R.-S.C. A spokesman said there's no record of the illegal payment but acknowledged it might have come in from a corporate bagman. The money, in any event, won't be returned.

There are reports that Speaker Carl Albert collected $3,000 from Phillips. A spokesman said the speaker vaguely remembers receiving contributions from Phillips but can't recall the exact amount. The money won't be returned.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., according to the records, accepted $3,000 from Ashland. An aide said the money won't be paid back. "It's between Ashland Oil and the man who made the contrubution," he said.

We found records at the SEC of illegal payments to members of Congress of $1.4 million from Gulf, $8,000,000 from Ashland and $500,000 from Phillips. We couldn't find how another 4 million from Gulf and $1.5 million from Northrop were distributed.

Only four corporations accounted for these staggering political payoffs. The SEC is investigating many other companies that were also slipping money to politicians. But no one is investigating the politicians who accepted the payments.

LAST LAUGH: In 1972, we told how Thai government leaders were helping to hustle heroin to U.S. markets. The Thais accused us of "slanderous accusations," and the State Dept., more delicately, backed them up.

Now we have found out who was slandering whom from some newly-declassified State Dept. cables. They show our reports were so accurate that U.S. Ambassador to Thailand Leonard Unger thought they had been leaked from his classified cables to the State Dept.

Unger told the State Dept. in a "confidential" cable that our stories "appear to be unmistakably attributable to executive branch documents or conversations with executive-branch personnel privy to his and other missions reporting on events and conversations in Thailand.

"I realize," he went on, "that this should come as no surprise to me since apparently Jack Anderson has access to whatever he wants in Washington today."

A Degrading Obsession

Our fascination with the sex lives of our presidents is the ultimate degradation of the office of Chief Executive of the nation. As a people we are obsessed with the immorality of our leaders.

The current target is the all-time charmer, John F. Kennedy. A woman is trying to sell her intimate recollections of the President for $2 million. Others are eager to tell.

You cannot libel the dead. The ladies may lie to their heart's content, and no one can point an accusatory finger. We may some day read of exotic relationships which did not exist.

As an author, I spent five years researching the executive and personal life of Joh Kennedy. A first book, entitled "A Day in the Life of President Kennedy," flourished from time spent in the White House in October, 1963, with Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, the ushers, secretaries, aides, politicians and Secret Service agents around him.

A second, "The Day Kennedy Was Shot," amounted to over three years of research concerning one day in Dallas. I think that I have done my homework on Kennedy.

Not a Boudoir Acrobat

He was as sexually aggressive as his brothers—Joe, Bobby, Teddy. No more, no less. He was far from being a boudoir acrobat. In fact, Jack emerged as cheap and choosy.

When he was elected to Congress after World War II, he was known among the "eligible" girls of Georgetown as a rich kid who never carried money. At the movies, he fanned his pockets and murmured. "Guess I forgot my wallet, Can you lend me five until tomorrow?"

After his marriage to Jacqueline Bouvier, there was an intermittent tempest between them. The problem was not infidelity; it was money. Mrs. Kennedy spent; the President saved. Sometimes the arguments upstairs were loud.

Mrs. Kennedy and I had one thing in common: We despised each other. I saw her as a shallow snob. She saw me as a writer "of third-rate cliches." At a two-hour interview, we smiled at each other down the drain.

Nothing of the sexual side of the President's life appeared in either of the books because (1) none of it was unusual; (2) it was none of my business.

There are stories that Kennedy used the White House swimming pool for aquatic orgies with secretaries. I interviewed those secretaries. You couldn't get me to swim with them in a suit of armor.

Every president is offered sexual gifts. These come from young ladies who are impressed, not with the man, but his office. They yearn to touch more than a presidential sleeve. It happened to Lincoln, who was too depressed to have a relationship with Mrs. Lincoln, and it happened to Calvin Coolidge, who looked upon sex as a momentary weakness.

Lyndon Johnson was a flirt. He thought of himself as a homely Texas ol' boy and was flattered by the attentions of young women. I knew Richard Nixon pretty well in 1960-1961. He was so immersed in personal ambition that I cannot conceive of him becoming amorous.

Warren Harding was married to a much older woman. He found time to hide a girl in White House closets, but he used women to buttress his feelings of inadequacy. Sometimes a bad woman can make a good man feel like a king.

Accountable to Spouse

America elects and pays a president to be an efficient public servant. If he has disputes with his wife, it is not our concern. If he is unfaithful—or she is—they are accountable to each other.

I would not list John F. Kennedy among the top five American presidents; he did not serve long enough to reach his potential. But I know that I will not read any book written by shoddy women who now propose to collect money for something they gave away long ago.

There is a word to describe women who sell their favors, whether they collect C.O.D. or on a time-payment plan. As readers, we must ask ourselves whether we will believe the stories such women relate about dead men.

I think about what Frank Sinatra told me at a party. "You read a lot of stories about my attachment to certain women," he said. "If one-tenth of one per cent of those stories were true, my organs would repose in a jar at Harvard Medical School right now." . . .

ABCs on First Opinion Poll . . . Part 2

I wrote recently about my role in originating the first Public Opinion poll based on weighted sampling — in the Fortune magazine of the 30's, of which I was then Managing Editor. I ended that little piece with the promise of documenting the skeptic of my own invention that the effort left me. Since then two generations have grown being confused, and often misled, by the popularity they achieved when taken up by other media than the Fortune of my day. This year of President-choosing, their accuracy is going to be more hotly debated than ever.

That a sampling process based on an honest attempt to choose those to be sampled in correct proportion to their numbers — in such easily identified categories as sex, age, income, race and religion (just to name a few) is a vast improvement on the random surveys of the 20's, there is no doubt whatever. But that that fact entitles them to be thought of as "scientific" is simply baloney.

The first thing we found out at Fortune was that the same questions differently phrased came back with quite different answers — and there was just no scientific method of deciding which were the soundest. So our final choice had to depend on our common sense. (You can, if you like, exempt simple requests as "who will you vote for? "— but you'll still have to guess whether you are getting honest answers and even if you are, whether the questioner won't change his or her mind 10 minutes later.)

But here only begins the sincere sampler's doubts. Doubt No. 2 may be even more shaking. It is whether the categories you've chosen can give you a meaningful cross section — i.e. do you know what you're talking about when you claim to be able to take the electorate apart accurately?

I remember that when Fortune's first serious survey turned out to be so red hot that was one of the first things that shook us up — and thereby hangs a tale.

I suspect it was Archie McLeish, who wrote the introduction to the first Fortune Survey, who was the first to suggest that we needed more than our own resources to counsel us on the next and I am sure that it was he who led us to Conant, then the President of Harvard University, to seek his advice.

I'll never forget that interview. As McLeish's friend as well as admirer, Conant asked us up to Cambridge for breakfast alone with him. When articulate Archie told him what we were up to, he reacted so strongly that he actually leapt up from the breakfast table in his excitement. "You don't know how important your coming to me is. This approach can alter the whole democratic process and only a collaboration between a University and a practically oriented organization like yours can realize its potential. It's how the steam engine came into existence. Watts, thinking in pragmatic terms, took his ideas to (I think it was) the University of London to work out the scientific principles he'd stumbled on."

Then on went the president of the great university, inventorying the specialists he'd assign to make a real science of public opinion sampling. We, at Fortune, would collaborate in transforming theory into practice. I recall that he even speculated on what Harvard's medical school could contribute: didn't glandular balance influence opinion?

At which juncture the great educator froze, mid-stride. "No! Harvard can have nothing whatever to do with it! This is a private, and privately financed institution and your survey will soon become deeply involved in public policy and politics. It would be disastrous."

And that was precisely when our dream of developing Public Opinion surveying into a sound science was shattered.

How right President Conant was! Public Opinion Surveying was indeed to become deeply involved in politics. So it has never had the serious concentration of the scientific establishment. This, to me, is a great pity — but that's another subject.

Meanwhile, read all the polls that appeal to you but don't let them con you into thinking of them as products of science.

Two May Settle for Influence

Ronald Reagan missed in Florida, as he did in New Hampshire, by getting just under 50 per cent of the Republican presidential primary vote. He has always repulsed third party advances, saying that he intends to keep fighting as a Republican. Of course, he'd have to say that anyway at this stage of the priiary game, just as George Wallace has to say he will continue to make his pitch not as an independent but as a registered Democrat. Credibility in primaries depends on an earnest show of party loyalty.

But there is more to it than that. No one has ever won on a third party bolt. To support his decision to remain a Republican, Reagan has the history of 1912, when Theodore Roosevelt's followers marched out of the Republican Chicago convention to form the Progressive party. Roosevelt did better than Taft in the November election, but the split enabled Woodrow Wilson, the Democrat, to win with under 42 per cent of the popular vote.

The Lincoln election of 1860 is often cited as a deviation from the rule that bolting dissidents never win, but there were four major candidates in the field in that convulsive year, not three. And, since the Whig party had already practically committed suicide, Lincoln was not exactly a bolting candidate.

Taking Stock

Since Florida apparently derailed both the Reagan and the Wallace campaigns, the two defeated men may decide, after putting up a struggle in further primaries, to settle for influence. Ford mght become convinced that he needs Reagan for his vice presidential running mate to make sure of getting a majority in November. And whoever the Democratic candidate may be (I still think it will be between Jackson and Humphrey), it would only be sensible to propitiate Wallace by offering him something of importance.

If this is the way things turn out, it will be a great disappointment to the conservatives who, with the record of the public opinion polls to justify them, are convinced that they are the new American majority.

Should the conservatives let the history of the unsuccessful 1912 Progressive party bolt deter them from trying to do something outside the Republican organization? If Reagan can consistently garner just under 50 per cent of the Republican primary vote, he would be almost in as an independent candidate if he could find some way of combining his loyal adherents with those of George Wallace. This is what makes the whole situation so tantalizing to the conservatives, who have to keep their mouths closed as long as Reagan and Wallace consider they still have a chance to pull something off by remaining on their traditional old party reservations.

Summer Summary

But the time will come next summer when there is no longer a need for silence. What Reagan and Wallace should keep in mind is that if there were two simultaneous bolts and a subsequent merging of the Republican and Democratic dissidents, it would be no 1912 Bull Moose situation. We would have something new under the sun. If Wallace can get 20 per cent of the Democratic primary vote in industrial states and between 30 and 55 per cent of delegates in the South, and if Regan can continue to hover in the 40 per cent bracket in his important primaries, there would seemingly be no stopping a combination of the dissidents in November.

It probably won't happen that way. The temptation to settle for influence in the old parties will probably be too strong for either Regan or Wallace, if not for both. But the merger could be pulled off if enough determined men were to rally to the cause.

What must be understood is that it would not be just a third party adventure. It would be a third and fourth party amalgamation promoted with the idea of becoming the first party out of an enthusiasm riding on sheer statistical momentum.

And who would be first on the ticket? Let the old party primary records decide that. We'll know a lot more by July.

Arms for Egypt . . . A Deep Dilemma

WASHINGTON — Confidential advice from Sen. Hubert Humphrey that the Ford administration bypass Congress by arranging a commercial sale of six military transport planes to Egypt contradicts Humphrey's public campaign to give Congress new, far-reaching control over all U.S. military sales abroad.

This private advice to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger — likely not to be heeded — can be explained in only one way: Humphrey and other leaders of the pro-Israel bloc know that this country must help Egypt in its spectacular turn away from Moscow at all costs; however they want to avoid a public vote on the matter.

Thus, the relatively insignificant sale of non-armed C-130 transports to Egypt for $40 million (compared to annual aid to Israel running nearly 40 times that amount) is posing a deep dilemma for politicians unwilling to face fundamental changes in the Mideast.

For Humphrey, an unannounced Democratic presidential prospect, the sale to Egypt is particularly distressing. Humphrey is author of a Senate-passed bill (now in a Senate-House conference committee) that would compel the President to give Congress a chance to veto any commercial arms sale of $25 million or more, just as Congress now can veto non-commercial sales between the U.S. and another government.

Yet, despite sponsoring this bill as part of his long battle to give Congress more control over world arms traffic, Humphrey quietly proposed that the administration handle the C-130 sale quickly as a routine commercial sale. Under existing law, that would bypass Congress — and get Humphrey off the nasty hook of having to vote the sale up or down.

The hook would be nasty for Humphrey because if he voted for the sale, as overwhelmingly dictated by Egypt's switch away from Soviet friendship to informal alliance with the U.S., he would be exposed to embarrassing contrast with Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a leading Democratic presidential candidate.

As Israel's foremost Senate champion, Jackson is under irresistible pressure to vote against the C-130's sale (publicly condemned by Israeli prime minister Yitzhak Rabin on March 4).

Humphrey's position is not unique. Republican Sens. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey and Jacob K. Javits of New York joined him in private talks with Kissinger agents strongly recommending the commercial sales route.

But other members of Congress who have tended to see only Israel's foreign policy interest — as opposed to Arab interests and perhaps even U.S. interests — appear to be changing. One major reason: the effect on U.S. relations with Egypt and the Arab world if, after expelling some 14,000 Soviet advisers in 1972 and now abrogating the Egyptian-Soviet friendship treaty, President Anwar Sadat is publicly humiliated by the U.S. and thrown back on the tender mercies of Moscow.

That might well be taken by the Arabs as a final verdict that the U.S., in the face of even so dramatic a turnabout as Egypt has just completed, is unable to take a decision in the Middle East publicly opposed by the Israeli government.

It is precisely for that reason that President Ford and Kissinger are now leaning strongly away from Humphrey's proposal to protect Congress from the C-130 hot potato.

Whereas Humphrey wants Congress relieved of any confrontation and vote, the administration now leans toward a direct collision on grounds that treating the C-130 sale as a "commercial" deal is flimflam — a way of gaining the short-term objective (sale of the C-130s) but losing the vital political point that deep changes in the Mideast demand deep changes by the U.S.

If the administation sticks to this position, a letter notifying Congress of the U.S.-Egyptian sale will be sent to the Senate and the House. Resolutions to veto the sale will be introduced, with the administration confident of victory (even if Humphrey should lead the veto fight.) The fact that such a direct collision with Congress is preferred to an undercover deal tells much about the administration's future arms plans with Egypt.

Thus, to keep Egypt from crawling back to Moscow for arms aid sometime in the future, the administration intends to open an arms supply-line with Egypt — but for only a fractional tidbit of the arms now flooding Israel — starting with the C-130s.

Mideast experts feel Congress will accept such a future commitment, however high the pressures from Israel to impose an American arms ban on Cairo. If that appraisal by the Ford administration is correct, it means that elected politicians may be taking a less stigmatic view of the Arabs, a change that holds more, not less, promise for the real future security of Israel and one that Humphrey might be advised to nurture instead of resist.

Population, Problems Grow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The world's growing population is intensifying problems ranging from inflation to the erosion of individual rights, the Worldwatch Institute said over the weekend.

The nonprofit, research institute said its study of 22 dimensions of the population problem showed "national and international leaders can no longer dodge the peril inherent in continuing rapid population growth.

"While slowing the growth in human numbers is not a panacea for all of humanity's problems," it said, the consequences of unchecked fertility should underline the urgent need to slow population growth.

The 80-page study said since the 18th century, when Malthus first made the connection between population and food supplies, there has been a "single-minded" focus on that aspect of the over-all problem. Worldwatch said others were at least as serious.

Among the other dimensions Worldwatch looked at were inflation, literacy, unemployment, hunger, housing, environmental illnesses and individual freedom.

In the 1970s, the study said, "a new source of long-term inflation has begun to emerge" — scarcity-induced inflation of such strategic items as petroleum, firewood, cereals and soybeans. Most of it is attributable to population growth.

"With 4 billion consumers already on the scene and 200,000 more being added each day, scarcity-induced inflationary pressures may become chronic," the study said.

"Indeed, inflation poses one of the most difficult challenges political leaders will face in the years ahead. What they must now realize is that, without a marked slowdown in population growth, inflation may simply not be manageable."

It said one of the "intractable consequences" of rising population growth may be chronic unemployment. Between 1970 and 2000, another 922 million jobs will be required in the developing countries as the working force doubles within the span of a generation.

Patty's Case Will Be Appealed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst, emotional and bitter over her bank robbery conviction, will go to Los Angeles this week for arraignment on kidnaping and assault charges, according to U S Attorney James Browning Jr

Chief defense counsel F Lee Bailey said the bank robbery case "definitely" will be appealed

Browning said Sunday the 22 year old newspaper heiress first would be interviewed by probation officers for a report to U S District Judge Oliver Carter on their recommendations for sentencing

'We hope that can be accomplished early this week, and she can then be handed over to Los Angeles authorities Browning said

However, attorney Albert Johnson said the defense would fight the move until after Miss Hearst is sentenced April 19 She faces a term of up to 35 years for her conviction for armed bank robbery and using a firearm to commit a felony As a minimum sentence she could be placed on probation

The Los Angeles charges stem from May 16, 1974, a month after the bank robbery, when Miss Hearst fired two guns to cover the escape of Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris after a shoplifting incident at Mel's Sporting Goods store

During the next 24 hours, it is charged they stole four vehicles and kidnaped two of the owners

Johnson said Miss Hearst was upset over the bank robbery verdict, crying and sobbing, unable to sleep the night after the verdict was returned and telling him repeatedly "I never had a chance"

"Unless the jury had lived through it like I did, they never could have realized what it was like," Johnson quoted her as saying

Miss Hearst was visited at San Mateo County Jail Sunday by her father, Randolph Hearst, and two of her sisters As he left, Hearst said, "She's all right"

Several members of the jury of seven women and five men, who brought in the unexpectedly sudden verdict Saturday after deliberating for only a day and a half, said the panel decided as it did because of Miss Hearst s own actions

They cited her refusal to talk about the missing year' of her underground life a jail conversation in which she expressed anger at being caught and her actions at Mel s

"We weren't happy to do it, but it was the only verdict we could pass," said juror Philip Crabbe, 35 a postal employe He said the fact she took the 5th Amendment 42 times and refused to talk about her last year as a fugitive "probably was a factor' in reaching a decision against her

Juror Norman Grim, 44, an airline employe, said that even after she broke with the Harrises she did not try to contact anyone for protection and help

"I can't buy the fact that she was being coerced," Grim said "We just couldn't buy Bailey's whole package — and the way it was presented, you had to buy the whole package"

Grim said the jury also did not believe her story that the Mel's shooting was a "reflex action' she did without thinking because of her training by the SLA

"She picked up one gun and emptied it and then picked up the other one," he said 'That kinda made you believe she (had been) in the bank voluntarily'

He also said the taped jail conversation with a friend where she said she was p—— d off' at being arrested 'didn t jibe with her story that she was under thought control when she was arrested

Race-y Conversation?

Israel to Sit Down

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — In an unprecedented diplomatic move, Israel has decided to sit down at a U N Security Council meeting later today in the presence of the Palestine Liberation Organization

The emergency session was requested by Libya and Pakistan to discuss Arab unrest in Old Jerusalem and in the Israeli occupied West Bank of Jordan

An Israeli spokesman in Jerusalem said Ambassador Chaim Herzog had been instructed "to participate and express Israel s position" in the debate

Until today Israel has steadfastly refused to meet with the PLO on the grounds the organization is bent on the destruction of the Jewish state Most recently, it boycotted the Council s Middle East debate in January because the PLO was invited

It was not immediately clear why Israel had decided on the apparent shift in policy

On behalf of the 41 nation Islamic Group Libya and Pakistan Friday demanded the Council take prompt and effective measures which would halt the deterioration of the situation and put an end to Israeli defiance of existing decisions on Jerusalem

Arab youths have demonstrated almost daily in recent weeks on the West Bank to protest an Israeli court ruling permitting Jews to pray near Al Aqsa Mosque the third holiest shrine in Islam on Jerusalem s Temple Mount

The Israeli government was displeased by the court decision and has challenged it in the courts Its position was strengthened Sunday by an Israeli Supreme Court ruling upholding the government s right to bar Jews from praying at the shrine

Shriver to Clarify Position

By UPI

Sargent Shriver who all but withdrew as an active candidate after getting trounced in the Illinois primary, called a news conference today to clarify his status

In North Carolina underdogs George Wallace Democrat and Ronald Reagan Republican continued to punch their principal opponents — Jimmy Carter and President Ford But the latter two were so confident they stayed home for a Sunday of relaxation

Reagan told reporters in Asheville N C he would like to win Tuesday but would be satisfied with a close second place finish Our strength lies somewhere down the road he said

A Wallace aide denied reports the Alabama governor privately conceded chances of winning He said Wallace will outpoll Carter by 4 to 6 percentage points in North Carolina

Carter as is usual for him, spent most of Sunday at his Georgia farm but did emerge to drop the green flag to start the Atlanta 500 stock car race

In an interview with editors of the Washington Post published Sunday he said he would not have authorized CIA covert action in Angola would pull the 700 nuclear weapons out of South Korea would withdraw U S troops stationed there over a four or five year period and would strengthen relations with Japan

Henry Jackson on a weekend swing through Wisconsin claimed the backing of about 90 per cent of the state s organized labor and said it could give him an upset victory in the April 6 primary over his major opponents, Carter and Morris Udall

Fred Harris and the newest Democratic entrant, Sen Frank Church of Idaho appeared on televised interview programs

Harris called for a $10 billion individual income tax cut paid for by making the 'superrich and giant corporations start paying their fair share He also attacked Carter s position on tax policy

Church said limiting the nuclear arms race would be a major goal if he is elected

Udall running in New York s primary as well as Wisconsin s on April 6 won the endorsement Sunday of New York's New Democratic Coalition — the first time the organization has officially backed a presidential candidate

Political observers called the NDC vote a boost for Udall who already has picked up many of former candidate Birch Bayh s supporters in the state

Ford spent Saturday campaigning in North Carolina and Sunday at the White House

On Saturday Carter picked up eight of the 28 convention delegates selected in Oklahoma and Harris got five Another 15 were uncommitted and nine others will be chosen next month

Sit-in Over at New Paltz

NEW PALTZ—It appeared earlier today as if the occupation of three floors of the State University College at New Paltz administration building by students was over after a full weekend of discussion and negotiation between students and administrative officials

A resolution had been adopted Saturday night by the New Paltz branch of the ad hoc Statewide Alliance Against the Cutbacks (state budget) that would lead to release for the seventh eighth and ninth floor of the building after five day sit in

Conditions reportedly asked for (and ultimately met) in negotiations with President Stanley Coffman and other administrators included a series of worksohps he held (they were held for six hours Sunday) an open campus meeting be held (it is scheduled for 8 p m tonight) Dr Coffman speak with the chairman of he college board of trustees (reportedly accomplished) and that no arrests be made at any units of the state university system in connection with building occupations (Binghamton and Fredonia have emptied our protestors with amnesty)

There were several students still in the building earlier this morning when full staff returned to work in the adminstration building according to presidential assistant Gail Gallerie A seleton crew had been working during the occupation

The students do not consider the occupation of strategic importance according to statements made and have tried to demonstrate solidarity with campus staffworkers and professionals by not allowing violent elements to gain control of their actions One written statement on the student fight against education budget cutbacks concludes with the phrase Politicians are unable to deal with our problems It must be a peoples movement

Carey Freeze Could Cost $328 Million

ALBANY (UPI) — A major contractors association charges that Gov Hugh L Carey s freeze on hiring state employes could result in the loss of $328 million in federal funds — a major portion of a much lauded $3 billion public works program intended to create 150 000 jobs

Frederick Compagni president of the State Federation of Utility Contractors Associations issued a statement Sunday saying that delays in processing project applications could mean the failure to meet deadlines for receiving federal water and sewer funds

Compagni attributed the delays to the failure to fill 20 sanitary engineer positions in the Environmental Conservation Department s Bureau of Construction Grants which were approved by the legislature last year

In effect he said the state is saving $400 000 in salaries and risks the loss of $328 million in federal aid

Sewers cannot be built by news releases along Compagni said Our industry is disappointed because 150,000 new construction jobs which would have been created through this program have not materialized at a time of high unemployment

Last June 3 Carey s public relations office issued a statement announcing a plan to expedite approval of pure waters projects after the U S Supreme Court acted to free up several billions of dollars in federal funds impounded by Presidnet Nixon

The plan projected $1 13 billion would be let for contract in 1975 and $1 6 billion in 1976

EnCon Commissioner Ogden Reid contacted by UPI at his New York City office admitted that the program was running behind expectations — $960 million worth of projects had been readied for contracting to date

Only $150 million worth of projects were approved the year before he became commissioner Reid said

He also said that there were 30 unfilled jobs in the bureau responsible for processing project applications instead of the 22 Compagni reported

However, he said he expected the hiring freeze as it relates to that department function would soon be eased and added that the Budget Division had given tentative approval for hiring another 40 plus to expedite the program

The program obviously has had some constraints due to the budgetary and money market problems experienced by the state in recent months Reid said

He criticized New York City officials for delays in making certain decisions that would complete application for the $270 million Red Hook project which he said would bring the accelerated public works program nearly up to expectations in terms of jobs created

I want to make it absolutely clear Reid said "that both Governor Carey and I continue to hold this program a top priority not only in terms of jobs but environmentally as well

Compagni said the state must make applications for $278 million in projects by July 1 or lose this sum in federal aid An additional $1 billion must be obligated by Sept 30 1977, to qualify for the federal funds which will otherwise be awarded to other states

From our analysis Compagni said the department staff can now process only about $50 million worth of projects a month and we therefore believe that EnCon will only be able to obligate $200 million of the $278 million by July 1'

In the remaining 15 month it will fall short by at least an additional $250 million on the Sept 30 1977 target date he said

The lack of action on this program is an outrage Compagni said New York State is almost criminally negligent in this matter and ranks low in terms of processing local community water and sewer applications

Mellow Faces Charges

NEW YORK (UPI) — Millionaire Pittsburgh banker Seward Prosser Mellon could be liable to a variety of charges in the abduction of his two daughters from their mother s Brooklyn hideaway, sources close to the investigation said today

Police and officials from Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold s office called a meeting today to discuss possible charges against Mellon and the men who seized the two girls from the home of their mother Karen Boyd Mellon

Three men disarmed a bodyguard in a car outside Mrs Mellon s home Friday and abducted Catherine Leigh Mellon 7 and her 5 year old sister Constance Elizabeth

The bodyguard Lester Carew told police the men claimed they were FBI agents and had their hands in their pockets as if they were carrying guns

A spokesman for the district attorney s office said the men could be charged with first-degree robbery, applicable when someone uses or threatens the use of a dangerous weapon"

A source close to the investigation said Mellon and the men also could be charged with kidnaping

'We have not separated Mellon from the incident in Brooklyn,' the source said He may have been the driver No one has been identified"

NEW YORK (UPI) — A rare Ming vase bought by a Philadelphia couple for $150 in the 1940s has been auctioned off for $260 000 believed to be the highest price paid in this country for a piece of Chinese art

A spokesman for the Sotheby Parke Bernet gallery, 980 Madison Ave, said the 16th Century five color porcelain jar owned by Mr and Mrs A Douglas Oliver was sold Saturday to Eskenazi dealers of London

The spokesman said the $260,000 price tag was 'a record price in America at auction for Chinese art

The Olivers bought the vase for 150 bucks in an antique shop in the late '40s in Philadelphia, the spokesman said

A local museum appraised it for $450 and told them, You got a nice bargain"

Jim Lally, head of Chinese art at Sotheby s said, The estimate was probably correct in the '40s Chinese art didn't start to take off until 1965"

Lally had appraised the vase at $75,000 to $100,000

Special Moment for Senior

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kentucky, which has won four national championships, calmly added a second National Invitation Tournament title to its glorious basketball history.

The 71-67 victory Sunday over UNC-Charlotte touched off no wild celebrations or emotional displays on the part of the Wildcats.

But it was a special moment for senior guard Reggie Warford.

Warford scored 14 points for the Wildcats and played a vital role in their victory over UNC-Charlotte.

Only two weeks ago, Warford started the first game of his Kentucky career in the Wildcats' upset of Alabama, a victory celebrated with more exuberance than the NIT title.

A rib cage muscle tear threatened to keep Warford on the bench against UNC-Charlotte, but he talked coach Joe Hall into letting him start his last game and the low-scoring guard came through with 14 crucial points.

With Mike Phillips and Jack Givens on the bench for 10 minutes of the second half with four fouls each, it was left for Warford, who had only a 6.6 average, and backcourt mate Larry Johnson to do the scoring. Johnson finished with 16, which tied Phillips for Kentucky's high-scoring honors.

Kentucky coach asked Warford before the game if he was able to play and the 6-foot guard replied, "What difference does it make? I don't have to worry about it later."

After the game, Warford told reporters: "If I had missed my first shot, I would have asked coach to take me out of the game. I'd rather sit on the bench and watch the team win than hurt it by playing.

"I'm just going back to the playgrounds. It's the same, only there aren't 13,000 people watching. You just turn around and give each skin on a good shot. I'll shoot a lot."

The Kentucky victory deprived UNC-Charlotte's NIT adventure of a fairy tale ending, but the 49ers Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell walked over with the tournament's Most Valuable Player award after scoring 24 points.

Maxwell totalled 109 points in four games and set an NIT record by sinking 47 of 53 free throws. The old record was 38 successful free throws by St. John's Alan Seiden in 1959.

North Carolina State won the NIT's third-place trophy with a 74-69 victory over Providence as Kenny Carr scored 15 points and Phil Spence 14 to lead the Wolfpack.

Home Win For Solomon

By UPI

Harold Solomon didn't disappoint the home fans.

Solomon, who grew up in the Washington suburb of Silver Spring, Md., defeated New Zealander Onny Parun, 6-3, 6-1, in the finals of the $60,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament in the nation's capital Sunday. Solomon has now won two of his three latest tournaments in Washington and was runnerup in the third.

After collecting the $17,000 winner's check, Solomon said the friendly home atmosphere as a factor in his victory over the unseeded Parun.

"I prepare a little harder because I'm playing before my family and friends," he said. "I wish I could play all of my tournaments here."

The fourth-seeded Solomon split another $4,000 with Eddie Dibbs for their 6-4, 7-5 win over Mark Cox and Cliff Drysdale in the doubles final.

In other matches, Evonne Goolagong, playing almost flawlessly, dispatched ailing Martina Navratilova, 6-1, 6-1, Sunday to win the $75,000 Virginia Slims of Dallas tennis tournament.

Goolagong surged through the tournament without losing a set. She lost only 19 games in five matches and collected $15,000. It was her third win on the Slims circuit this year and hiked her prize money total to $63,125.

Navratilova said following her loss that she will take three weeks off in order to allow her ailing wrist to heal. The Czechoslovakian-born star is suffering from tendonitis and was well off her game against Goolagong.

Arthur Ashe handed Sweden's Bjorn Borg his first defeat in the $10,000, winner-take-all WCT Challenge Cup in Keauhou-Kona, Hawaii. There were controversial line calls throughout and they hampered Borg's play as he fell, 6-4, 7-6, 6-3.

Top-seeded Ken Rosewall relied on his powerful backhand to beat Raul Ramirez, 6-3, 6-3 and win the Tennis South Inivitation at Jackson, Miss., for the second straight year. Rosewall won $17,000.

Marty Riessen and Roscoe Tanner beat Sandy Mayer and Peter Fleming, 7-6, 7-6, in Independent Players Association doubles play at Carlsbad, Calif. Riessen and Tanner pocketed $3,000 each.

Unbeatens Battling Tradition

By UPI

For the first time, two unbeaten teams have advanced to the semifinals of the NCAA basketball championships. But before either Indiana or Rutgers can claim the national championship, they'll have to contend with the most awesome tradition in collegiate history.

Indiana, proudly bearing a 30-0 record and the nation's No. 1 ranking, gets first crack at the mystique of UCLA on Saturday. In the other semifinal at Philadelphia, 31-0 Rutgers meets another upstart team in Michigan.

The two survivors will play Monday night for the championship.

UCLA, although a loser of four games this season and ranked only fifth, cannot be discounted this far along in the playoffs simply because of its history—10 NCAA crowns in the last 12 years. Indiana, meantime, lost to the Bruins a few years ago in the semifinals and last year, after turning in another perfect regular season, lost to Kentucky in the Mideast regional final.

The difference between last year and this, though, is that Scott May is healthy this time. Against Kentucky last year, he had a broken arm and was ineffective trying to play with the arm in a cast. Also, the Hoosiers creamed UCLA, 84-64, back on Nov. 29 in a game played at St. Louis.

Indiana reached its current plateau the hard way, beating second-ranked Marquette, 65-56, in the Mideast regional final at Baton Rouge, La., Saturday. In the other regional finals, UCLA beat Arizona, 82-66, at Los Angeles, third-ranked Rutgers routed VMI, 91-75, at Greensboro, N.C., and Michigan overcame Missouri, 95-88, at Louisville, Ky.

Johnny Wooden, the retired "Wizard of Westwood" who led UCLA to its long string of successes, is one person confident that his successor, Gene Bartow, can lead the Bruins to another championship.

"When we've had to do it, we've done it," Wooden said. "I'm not making any predictions, but I was glad to see Indiana beat Marquette in the Mideast Regionals.

"That's not to say Indiana is not a great team. It is. But I think we can play Indiana better than Marquette because of the styles. It is simply a matter of matchups."

"I just hope," Wooden added, "history repeats itself. We beat North Carolina State during the regular season two years ago and then we lost to them in the NCAA semifinals. The same thing could happen at Philadelphia."

Bartow, who has been under severe pressure all season, said, "Well, we're where we're supposed to be at this time of the year. At least, that's what they told me when I came here."

Rutgers, after barely squeezing by Princeton, 54-53, in the opening round of the regionals, has come back strong and Coach Tom Young said, "I think right now we're playing as well as we have all year long. Our bench is doing a good job for us...and we're in great shape to go to Philadelphia."

He declined to comment on what strategy he is planning for Michigan, but he added, "It will a relief to be considered an underdog. We have been the favorite for so long, but we won't be underdog by much."

Claudine Longet and Spider Sabich

Book Claudine Longet In Sabich Shooting

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI) — Valdimir "Spider" Sabich, former world professional ski champion, was shot fatally Sunday and French-born singer and actress Claudine Longet was booked on an "investigation of homicide" charge.

Authorities today attempted to determine if his death was intentional or accidental.

French-born singer and actress Claudine Longet was advised of her rights today after being booked on the investigation charge. Authorities said if there are other charges, they will not be filed for several days.

Sabich, 31, was shot once in the stomach Sunday at his $250,000 home in Starwood, an exclusive Aspen subdivision. An autopsy was ordered.

"The investigation is centering on whether the shooting was accidental or intentional," said Pitkin County District Attorney Frank Tucker. "I have no idea what the cause was for the shooting.

"She'll be advised, not charged, today," he said. "The investigation is continuing."

Miss Longet, 35, the former wife of entertainer Andy Williams, has lived with Sabich for the past two years. Tucker said she reported the shooting late Sunday afternoon.

Aspen City Manager Phillip Mahoney said Miss Longet gave sheriff's deputies a statement before being taken to an undisclosed location. He said no cause for the shooting was known, although early reports indicated it was an accident.

"It came down to me that it wasn't a passion thing, but that the two of them were just clowning around," said Mahoney.

Miss Longet spent the night with friends after posting a $5,000 personal recognizance bond.

Williams, who was divorced from Miss Longet last spring, flew to Aspen early today to join his three children and his former wife, according to a family friend in Los Angeles.

"I understand there is some evidence it (the shooting) could have been an accident," the family friend said. "She is not in jail."

Sabich, a graduate of Colorado University and a member of its ski team, finished fifth at the 1968 Winter Olympics in Grenoble, won the World Pro Skiing crown in 1970, his first year on the pro tour, and the following year.

He had been semiactive since suffering a serious back injury in the final race of the 1973 season.

Miss Longet, who recently finished an album for Williams' record company, filed for divorce from the entertainer in January, 1975. Williams was often seen with Ethel Kennedy, widow of assassinated Sen. Robert Kennedy, following the couples' separation.

The Williams' youngest child was named after Kennedy.

"I am a fortunate woman, "Miss Longet said in an UPI interview two months before she filed for divorce. "I have a husband, I have my children and I also have my man. There's no reason two people can't live like Andy and I do."

Miss Longet also announced during the interview her plans to retire as an actress.

"Acting is tiresome," she said. "I don't like sitting around a set wasting time when I could be out skiing or enjoying myself by going out of town with my man. No, I won't tell anyone his name."

Pearson Survives Tough Race

HAMPTON, Ga. (UPI) — "I'm give out" David Pearson said after winning nearly $17,000 at the Atlanta 500 Sunday afternoon, and he thrust out his hands to show two large blisters as proof.

"This is the hardest race I've ever run and I've got these blisters to prove it," he said.

Remarking about a blown tire that put him one lap down early in the race, Pearson said "I never thought I would ever catch up."

The Spartanburg, S.C., native was not to be denied, however, as he saw many of racing's top competitors fall by the wayside.

Pole-sitter Dave Marcis, who set a track qualifying record of 160.709 miles an hour in the trials, dropped out with a blown engine on lap 109. Richard Petty, the only man to ever win six Winston Cup Grand National Championships, succumbed to similar problems and dropped from competition on lap 194.

Buddy Baker, another victim of engine failure, went out with less than 150 miles to run.

"David's corner speed was just too much for me," said Parsons. "When he dropped off the pace before that last caution flag (flag No. 8) I began to think I might have a chance to win."

But Parsons said Pearson "came back stronger than ever and I knew I could forget about Victory Lane unless David's car developed trouble. It's tough to sit there and know you can't win even though you're so close."

Pearson said he felt a vibration when Parsons went around him.

"I thought it was my engine, and I backed off," he said. "But since there were only a few laps left and nothing happened when I kept driving, I figured it must be a tire."

Cale Yarborough, who had been plagued by mechanical problems for the past year and is the only four-time Atlanta 500 winner, said he was disappointed at his third-place finish.

"But I'm pleased that we're back to being competitive. Every race has a boss," Yarborough said, "and we were the boss out there today. It's just that the boss lost this time."

Pearson agreed.

"Cale had the fastest car, and if there had been one more caution flag he would probably have won it," Pearson said "He was flying."

Yarborough took a commanding lead early in the race, but was forced into a 2:26 pit stop under green to repair a broken distributor. He was never able to make up his lost time.

The race was accident-free despite the eight caution flags falling for 46 laps. The closest call came on pit road when then-leaders Yarborough, Pearson and Marcis rushed to return to the track.

A crash was narrowly avoided as Yarborough scooted past with only inches to spare.

Pearson was asked if 1976 will be better for him than 1973, when he had 10 superspeedway wins in one season.

"Well," Pearson replied with a grin, "I've won three of the four races I've entered this year, and it sure looks like a helluva good start."

Bieler Scores Cup Upset

MONT STE. ANNE, Que. (UPI) — Italian Franco Bieler upset World Cup champion Ingemar Stenmark of Sweden Sunday in a dual slalom race, the last on the World Cup circuit this year.

The 25-year-old Italian easily won the first heat by 1.256 seconds before the 20-year-old Stenmark took the second run by 0.962 seconds to finish just 0.294 behind Bieler for the two runs.

Canadian Jim Hunter of Calgary, was third and another Italian Fausto Radici, fourth.

The win for Bieler was his first on the World Cup circuit, although the dual slalom here— the only parallel race of the season—didn't count for individual World Cup points.

The race did count toward the Nations' Cup, however, but had no bearing on those final standings, which Austria wrapped up on Friday.

Despite rain and above freezing temperatures, the racers said they had good conditions for their runs through the 21 gates on the 290-meter (1,157 foot) course with a vertical drop of 90 meters (359 feet).

In getting to the finals, Bieler took a bye into the second round and then defeated American Steve Mahre, of White Pass, Wash., and two fellow Italians—Gustavo Thoeni and Radici—to set up the finals against Stenmark in the elimination event.

Stenmark's road to the finals saw wins over Canadian Dave Murray of Abbotsford, B.C., Austrian Anton Steiner, Peter Luescher of Switzerland and Hunter.

Finishing behind Radici, in order, were Walter Tresch of Switzerland, Thoeni, West German Christian Neureuther and Luescher.

The race was only the second pro-type dual slalom in World Cup history. Last year Thoeni took the event in Val Gardina, Italy.

On Saturday, the women ran the same course with Switzerland's Bernadette Zurdriggen, defeating Irene Epple of West Germany.

Green's Record Speaks for Itself

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Hubert Green is frequently overlooked when people talk about "super stars" on the pro golf tour.

But his record speaks pretty loudly for itself.

Green, a 29-year-old Birmingham, Ala., native has been on the tour only five and a half years, but has won 10 tournaments and more than $616,000.

He picked up his second tournament victory in two weeks Sunday by beating Miller Barber by two strokes in the Greater Jacksonville Open. True, he didn't have "super star" Jack Nicklaus to contend with here — but Hubert beat the "Golden Bear" by six strokes the Sunday before in the Doral Open.

"Nicklaus wins more than anyone else percentage-wise, I guess," said Green, who raised his earnings the past two weeks to more than $89,000 to move past Nicklaus and Johnny Miller into fourth place on this year's money list.

"But, he doesn't win everything."

Green, who has yet to win a "major" championship (Nicklaus has won 15), hopes his current hot streak will carry through the Masters, three weeks from now.

"But, I won't feel good about the Masters 'til April, when I get there."

Green was eighth in last year's Masters, nine strokes behind champion Nicklaus.

His win here Sunday was his third in six months since he won the Southern Open last September for his only 1975 triumph after winning three tournaments and more than $200,000 in 1974.

Green says he's more interested in the victories than the money they bring.

"I'm out on the tour trying to win titles, not money!" he said.

Green threw away an early three-stroke lead Sunday when he took a double-bogey five at the third hole, throwing his putter on the ground in disgust when he missed the second of three putts he needed after driving into a sand trap.

"I hit a four-iron into the bunker, then lost my concentration," he explained.

Green quickly regained his compusure with a birdie at the next hole and reopened a three-stroke lead at No. 11 when he birdied and Barber bogeyes.

But the tournament wasn't over.

When Barber birdied 16 and Green bogeyed 17, Green went into the final hole protecting a one-stroke lead and promptly hit "a very stupid tee shot that ran through the trees into a bunker on the left."

Green took a nine-iron out of his bag and placed the ball just 18 inches from the cup to set up a birdie to double his lead.

That gave Green, who had shot 67s in both the second and third rounds, a 70-276 to tie the total he shot when he won this tournament two years ago.

"It was a fine round for Hubert," said Barber, who finished 71-278. "He used great shots and sure worked with the elements, especially the wind."

Hubert Green blasts from trap

Southern Idaho Defense Was Difference

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI) — Early in last weekend's championship games at the National Junior College Basketball Tournament, Southern Idaho coach Boyd Grant was praying his team's defense would hold up.

"From the way the game started, I was wondering if we'd ever get a basket," said Grant. "I felt defense would be the difference."

The way the game started was with top-ranked Southern Idaho going without a field goald for more then five minutes. It ended with Southern Idaho winning its first junior college championship, 62-50, over Mercer (N.J). and allowing Mercer to hit only 41 per cent of its shots.

"There was no question, our man-to man defense was not giving up many shots," said Grant, whose team was runnerup in the junior college tournament last year. "We just didn't make any mistakes on defense. Without a doubt it was a defensive win."

Southern Idaho took control of the game midway through the second half when guard Andre Wakefield sparked it to 11 unanswered points, scoring seven of the points himself, and moving the Eagles from a 41-39 advantage to a 52-39 edge.

"When we got eight or so points ahead, they had to come after us," said Grant. "The teams had been here all week and were pretty weary by this time. That made it awful hard. It seemed like the last couple of days, the team that broke out early in the second half won."

Wakefield finished with 17 points while Kenny Davis, who was named the tournament's outstanding player, had 16 points and 11 rebounds.

In other Saturday games, DeKalb South (Ga.) beat Columbia (Tenn.) 76-70 for third place; Allegheny (Pa.) beat Westchester (N.Y.) 54-45 for fourth place; Burlington (Iowa) beat Anderson (S.C.) 84-74 for fifth place and Lake Land (Ill.) beat Casper (Wyo.) 68-60 for sixth.

For Davis and Wakefield the win had a special meaning. They were the only returning starters for the Southern team which was beaten in the finals by Western Texas last year. And in the game, Davis picked up three fouls in the first five minutes of play and his fourth in the opening minutes of the second half.

"Last year we didn't have the intensity and we weren't ready," said Wakefield. "This year, we knew what it was about. We were ready for what had to be done."

But Davis felt the championship was clinched early in the season.

"They ranked us number one real early," he said. "It just seemed logical that the number one team would win the title."

Nolan Ryan Passes First Training Test

By UPI

The tall, slender righthander unleashed a fast ball and the rest of the California camp listened in pained silence for the reaction. The one word they didn't want to hear was "ouch."

But instead of yelling out in pain, the pitcher methodically waited for the return throw from his catcher and continued his workout. For both Nolan Ryan and his Angel teammates, spring training was a happy time.

"Amazing," catcher Andy Etchebarren said of Ryan's 15-minute session of batting practice at Holtville, Calif., Sunday. And Ryan offered, "You'd never know I had an operation."

Ryan, the all-time major league strikeout king when he claimed 383 victims in 1974, slipped to a 14-12 record last year and then underwent surgery last Sept. 23 to have a bone chip removed from his right elbow. On Sunday he threw a variety of fast balls and curves.

"He threw just excellent," claimed the Angels' chipper manager, Dick Williams. "He's further along than we anticipated."

The Angels also helped cheer another West Coast team on the first weekend of the delayed spring training season when they sold eight-year veteran catcher Ellie Rodriguez to the Los Angeles Dodgers for an undisclosed amount of cash and outfielder Orlando Alvarez.

"We always like to have an experienced catcher around if you need him," Los Angeles Manager Walter Alston explained.

However, there was speculation the Dodgers are planning another trade since they also have Steve Yeager, Joe Ferguson and infielder Ted Sizemore available to duty behind the plate. Rodriguez, who previously played with the New York Yankees, Kansas City Royals and Milwaukee Brewers, batted .235 at California last year.

Another pitcher who received good news Sunday was Jerry Koosman of the New York Mets, and the word he heard was that he wasn't being designated for the bullpen.

"I'm opening the season with Koosman in my starting rotation," Rookie Manager Joe Frazier said from the Mets' camp at St. Petersburg, Fla. "In fact, he is pitching our fourth game in Chicago."

Koosman was a 14-game winner last year, when he was asked to make two relief appearances. He has been named to open the exhibition season against the Yankees at Fort Lauderdale Wednesday night.

In other training camps: Nate Colbert reported to the Montreal Expos three days late because of illness in his family and claimed that former Manager Gene Mauch treated him unfairly last year, saying, "He deliberately overlooked me. I don't know why, I never did anything to him."...righthanders Harry Rasmussen and Lynn McGlothen will pitch for the St. Louis Cardinals in their first exhibition game against Detroit Wednesday...All-Star outfielder Bobby Murcer was one of only three players missing from the San Francisco camp.

Also. Recently acquired outfielder Oscar Gamble came to the Yankee camp proudly showing off a 10-inch Afro, and was escorted to a barber shop for a haircut...Dave Parker of the Pirates, on his fourth swing of the spring, drove a pitch some 400 feet well over the right-center field wall of the part at Bradenton, Fla., and said his goals for 1976 were to increase by 10 on his performance of last year when he batted .308, hit 25 homers and drove in 101 runs.

At Miami, Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said he would skip intrasquad games due to the late start of spring training...George Scott continued to impress with the bat, but said "under no circumstances" would he play in Milwaukee's first exhibition game Wednesday...Hector Torres hit a two-run double in the 11th inning to drive home the winning runs in a San Diego intrasquad game...and Kevin Bell singled home the winning run in the ninth inning of a White Sox intrasquad game.

A Lost Weekend For Philly's Sixers

By UPI

While the Boston Celtics were finding themselves again with the return of John Havlicek, the Philadelphia 76ers were having a "lost weekend."

Boston, which couldn't break 100 points while Havlicek was out six games resting a sore knee and has surpassed 100 points in the three games he's played since his return, kayoed Philadelphia Saturday night and Sunday.

But the biggest loss for the 76ers was that of high-scoring George McGinnis, who tore cartilage in his left knee following a collision with Boston's Paul Silas Saturday.

Without McGinnis, Philadelphia, now eight games behind the Celtics, was just unable to compete under the boards Sunday in a 108-100 loss. McGinnis is a forward but his presence often is felt elsewhere. Four 76er centers, who might've received some help from the brawny 6-foot 8, 225-pounder, combined for five points and 15 rebounds while Boston's Dave Cowens broke loose for 33 points and 27 rebounds.

"We were dominated in the center—that's as simply as I can put it," said 76er Coach Gene Shue. "At all the other positions, we probably outplayed all their players but they dominated at center. It was not even close."

Cowens, who had 28 points and 22 rebounds Saturday night in a 103-96 overtime win at Philadelphia, was often all alone under the boards. He had 18 points and 10 rebounds in the final period.

"We just kept going to Dave in the fourth quarter—he's our insurance," said Havlicek. "I was calling so many 'sixes' (in which the ball goes to Cowens near the basket) that I changed to something else one time just to give the play a blow (rest). But Tommy (Coach Heinsohn) told me to call the play right back."

"The ball was moving in my direction and they didn't front me," said Cowens. "Harvey (Catchings) would go after the ball and leave me alone inside. It's easier for me without McGinnis in there. He's one more guy to deal with and their leading scorer and rebounder He's an integral part; he really helps their effort."

Doug Collins had 28 points, Lloyd Free 24 and Steve Mix 22 for the 76ers. Havlicek had 20 points for Boston.

In other NBA games, Kansas City beat Chicago 112-101, Seattle topped Houston 17-107, Cleveland edged Washington 95-92, Detroit stopped Buffalo 118-112 and Milwaukee ripped Los Angeles 130-111.

In the ABA, Denver whipped St. Louis 131-115, Kentucky beat Virginia 138-129 and Indiana defeated San Antonio 114-109.

Kings 112, Bulls 101

Nate Archibald scored 25 points and Jimmy Walker added 20 to keep Kansas City's playoff hopes alive. The contest was enlivened in the fourth period when, after a technical foul on Chicago's Jack Marin, referee Jim Capers ejected Bulls assistant Ed Badger. Badger threw a chair at a fan seated behind the Chicago bench and the fan, in turn, threw the chair at Head Coach Dick Motta, who had to be restrained by his players as fans and police converged on the bench area.

Sonics 117, Rockets 107

Slick Watts poured in 10 points in a third-quarter surge and came up with five steals to tie Rick Barry's single-season steal record of 229 as Seattle beat Houston.

Cavs 95, Bullets 92

Bobby Smith tossed in 27 points, including a key jumper with two minutes left, to spark Cleveland past Washington before the Cavs' second-largest home crowd ever, 20,781. The Cavs moved to within 1½ games of the Bullets in the Central Division and cut their magic playoff number to five.

Pistons 118, Braves 112

Bob Lanier (34 points and 18 rebounds) and Curtis Rowe (22 points and 16 rebounds) provided the scoring and rebounding punch as Detroit beat Buffalo to snap a four-game losing streak

Bucks 130, Lakers 111

Bob Dandridge had 27 points and Brian Winters 26 to lead Milwaukee past Los Angeles. The victory was Coach Larry Costello's 400th win in his eight-year career with the Bucks.

Nuggets 131, Spirits 115

Dan Issel scored 25 points and grabbed 15 rebounds to help Denver tie its own ABA record of 27 straight home victories with a win over St. Louis.

Colonels 138, Squires 129)

Kentucky's Artis Gilmore scored seven of his 31 points in the second overtime to hand Virginia its 13th straight loss

Pacers 114, Spurs 109

Billy Knight hit 26 points and Don Buse and Travis Grant each added 23 to spark Indiana past San Antonio.

Joe Fulks

Joe Fulks Is Murdered

EDDYVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Joe Fulks, a member of the Basketball Hall of Fame, who was credited with introducing the jump shot in pro ball, was shot to death Sunday and another man was charged with murder

Fulks, 54, held the single-game scoring record for several years in the National Basketball Association — 63 points for the Philadelphia Warriors in 1949.

Fulks, who played eight seasons for the Warriors before retiring in 1954, was named to the All-Time Great pro basketball team In his first season in Philadelphia, after playing college ball at Murray (Ky.) State, the 6-foot-5 native of Kuttaway, Ky., led the league in scoring.

Lyon County Coroner Eugene Denney said Fulks died of a gunshot wound in the neck.

Singer Dominates 'I' Gymnastics

SCARSDALE—Juliette Singer of host Scarsdale High School dominated the Section One gymnastics meet Saturday with first places in all four events and a total score of 30.65 for the All Around championship.

There were 23 schools participating in the meet which will send its top three individuals in category to the state competition in Rochester this week. A dozen girls from DCSL schools were in the field including Kingston's Sue Osborn.

The top Dutchess finisher was John Jay's Dottie Mareska who was second in floor exercise. Arlington got a third place from Marissa Whitson in vaulting and a sixth place from Claire Tankard on the balance beam. Lynn Geis of John Jay was fifth on the uneven bars.

Barbara Amusa of Fox Lane and JoAnn Pipia of Mamaroneck were second and third respectively in the All Around competition with 25.70 and 25.50 points.

State qualifiers:

Vaulting—Juliette Singer (Scarsdale), 8.6; Barbara Amusa (Fox Lane), 8.0; Marissa Whiston (Arlington), 7.7.

Balance beam—Juliette Singer (Scarsdale) 6.90; Eileen Coudreaut (Ossining), 6.55; Julie Anderson (Scarsdale), 6.25.

Uneven bars—Juliette Singer (Scarsdale),7.30; Terrianne Melillo (Edgemont), 6.80; Ellen Perlman (Gorton), 6.10.

Floor exercise—Juliette Singer (Scarsdale), 7.85; Dottie Mareska (John Jay), 7.80, Julie Anderson (Scarsdale), 7.75.

Pierce Tops East Field

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) — Roxanne Pierce of Temple University won two individual titles Saturday night in the Womens Eastern Regional Gymnastics Championships at Cornell University.

Pierce, a freshman who competed in the 1972 Olympics, took first place on the balance beam and in floor exercise. She also placed second on the parallel bars and fourth in vaulting.

Other individual winners were Karen Brezack of Clarion, (Pa.) State in vaulting and Connie Jo Israel, also of Clarion State, on the uneven parallel bars.

Brezack and Israel led Clarion State to the team title Friday night.

Karen Shuckman of Penn State, last year's national champion, finished second in vaulting, third on the parallel bars, third in floor exercise, and fourth on the balance beam.

Refs Favoring Home Team?

By UPI

Frank Udvari, supervisor of National Hockey League officials, intimated Sunday night that some officials have been making close calls on goals in favor of home teams.

Udvari made the comment after watching the Buffalo Sabres notch their fourth straight victory with a 3-1 triumph over the Kansas City Scouts, winless now in their last 20 games.

The Sabres' insurance goal was a disputed one on a slap shot by Brian Spencer. The shot late in the second period hit the post and was ruled good by the goal judge.

"I felt helpless," said Udvari, watching from the press box. "I didn't need the replay to know it wasn't in. What burns me up the most is this has happened six times in the last three weeks in different cities and the decision has always gone for the home team."

Udvari, however, doesn't favor the use of instant replays, although acknowledging it would have helped Sunday.

"I've always been against replays. I'm still not in favor of them because what you're doing is second-guessing the referee. Tonight it would have worked but other times two people could see a replay and still not agree."

Flyers 4, Leafs 2

Terry Crisp, a 32-year-old veteran who had only four goals this season, got two to help Philadelphia beat Toronto and clinch the Clarence Campbell Conference and Patrick Division titles. The victory earned the Stanley Cup Champions a first-round bye for the playoffs.

Red Wings 6, Blackhawks 0

Michel Bergeron scored twice against Chicago and Ed Giacomin recorded his 50th NHL shutout and first for the Red Wings. It was Detroit's third straight win.

Blues 5, Canucks 2

North Stars 4, Kings 4

Tim Young scored with less tHan two minutes left to give Minnesota the tie and drop Los Angeles to third behind Pittsburgh in the Norris Division.

Penguins 4, Rangers 2

Jean Pronovost scored his 49th goal and Vic Hadfield his 30th to help Pittsburgh virtually eliminate the Rangers from the playoffs.

WHA

Andre Hinse stole the puck and scored unassisted at 14:22 of the final period as Houston beat Phoenix and clinched first place in the WHA West ... Vaclav Nedomansky's 50th and 51st goals lifted Toronto over Winnipeg ... Richie Leduc had two goals to give Cleveland its win over Cincinnati ... Rejean Houle's two goals sparked Quebec over Edmonton.

Scrimmage Nips DeMicco In YMCA Overtime Battle

KINGSTON — Ray Lindhorst's tap in at the buzzer gave Scrimmage Products a hair-raising, 105-103 victory over DeMicco Motors in a double overtime battle in the YMCA A League.

Scrimmage Products also hit the century mark against Joyous Lake, posting a 111-103 win earlier in the week. In B League results, Artie's Bar held off Sonny's Tigers, 90-87, and Berinato's topped Doc Smith's, 68-45.

The Motormen had to outscore Scrimmage by ten points in the fourth quarter to achieve an 88-88 tie in regulation and force the extra periods. Each team had eight points in the first OT, and it was seven-seven in the second overtime until Lindhorst beat the buzzer with his game-winner.

Lindhorst had 34 points altogether to lead the winners, but plenty of help came from Dan Heppner with 32 and Ron Thomas with 31. Ed Priest of DeMicco's took game honors with 40 points, and teammate Mike Palladino had 14 points and 18 rebounds.

Steve Peruso scored 38 to lead Scrimmage over the Lakers. Rod Chando's 41 was the best individual performance of the contest.

Artie's built a 13 point halftime lead and managed to make that stand up for a win. Jay Foust led the Tigers' second half rush with 41 points.

Ed McDevitt scored 23, and John Acker had 22 as Berinato's pulled steadily away from Doc Smith's.

Zeehs Cop Crown

KINGSTON—About the best tennis competition Pete Zeeh can find in Ulster County is his brother, Bill. When they get together for a doubles match, the search for a challenge gets harder.

Saturday, night the Zeeh's took the Kingston City Indoor Tennis Championship away from defending champs Dick Smith and Ron Woods in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2 at the Municipal Auditorium.

Smith and Woods didn't give away much, but the Zeeh's made their own openings. A service break put the losers in a hole in the first set, then Bill held his serve to end it.Smith and Woods tried to scramble back in the second set, but Pete wheeled out his crushing overheads to snap Woods' service.

Saturday morning both teams eliminated semi final opponents.The Zeeh's defeated Gordon Krajna and Dave Cooper, 7-5,6-3 while Smith and Woods coasted past Ron Schoonmaker and Charlie Farley, 6-1,6-1.

'Foul Finish' to Marlboro Cage Season

MIDDLETOWN—Marlboro High suffered a foul finish to its basketball season Saturday at Orange County Community College against Pleasantville in a intersectional battle of Class B champions.

Foul because three Duke starters drew five personals each and weren't around for the final buzzer. And foul because Pleasantville made good on 25 of 32 attempts from the free throw line. Those were major factors in the Section One school's 83-77 victory.

Marlboro coach Joe Ciampi wasn't happy about the way the calls were going especially when his all star center, Anthony Monroe, picked up his fifth personal in the first minute of the second half. Monroe is the Dukes' main ingredient, and his only bucket in the second half cut a Pleasantville lead that was once 16 points down to 41-39. Without him in the lineup, the losers couldn't keep the charge going.

Paul Bohlander, a 30 point scorer, and Ken Burfiend, who hit ten shots from the foul line and dumped in 18 points, kept Pleasantville on top the rest of the way. Marlboro did get as close as 74-73 late in the fourth quarter, but five straight Pleasantville points, which included three by Bohlander, opened up the gap the winners needed to coast home.

John DeMarco scored 23 and Rich Mills had 20 to keep the Section Nine champs in the contest. Marlboro ended its campaign with a record of 18-4.

Area Sports Briefs

YMCA Superstars Set

KINGSTON — The Kingston-Ulster County YMCA Superstars competition has been scheduled for the first two weekends in June. Fourteen different events are scheduled. Entries are available at the YMCA.

Paddleball, basketball, track, bowling, bike racing, weightlifting and golf are among the events to be held. The competitions are set for the "Y", Forsythe Park, Dietz Stadium and Mid-City Lanes.

A banquet at the Villa Roma restaurant will follow the competition.

Rhinebeck Sweeps Field

MAMARONECK — The Rhinebeck Country School swept the field at the second New York State Special Olympics Basketball Tournament last week, besting teams from nine other counties in both team and individual events.

The boys' team and the girls' team each brought a state championship back to Dutchess County. In a run, dribble and shoot competition, the top three places all went to Rhinebeck players.

Richard Belanger, Norman Burg and Andre Sanchez took honors in the boys' division, and Carol Rose, Cindy Murphy and Debbie Jones led the girls' field.

Pointer Chosen at MR Show

Judge Jerry Weiss chose the pointer, Bukany's Asylum, owned by Arthur Sanfillippo, as his Sporting Group I. Cora Miller put up the Saluki, Srinagar Aziz of Sultan (Gilbert Katz) in the Hound Group.

Fred Smith awarded Working Group I to the Great Dane, Dinro Bengal, owned by Beth Algie. The Cairn Terrier of Barney and Jean Hlavaty, Lochveggards' Little Minch, was judge Michael Gately's choice in the Terrier Group. Toy Group winner was Papillion, Josandre's Katydid Cadenza (Jacquelin Werb), under judge Ruth Terry.

In the Non-Sporting Group, judge Dr. Sam Draper's choice was the Lhasa Apso, Anbara's Abra-Ka-Dabra, owned by Barbara Wood. In the final round, Dona Hausman concurred with Draper's pick, awarding Best in Match to the Lhasa.

The highest scoring dog in trial was Elaine Hamilton's Shetland Sheepdog, Brown Jason, with a score of 196 in the Open A Class.

Rondout Tops OCS Gymnasts

BOICEVILLE—Rondout Valley High, taking three of four places in each event, pinned a 49.60-43.60 defeat on host Onteora Thursday behind individual first places by Pam Atkins and Donna Newell.

Atkins won on the balance beam also picked up a fourth in floor exercise for RVC. Newell triumphed on the uneven bars and gave the winners another fourth in vaulting.

Karen Flynn won the floor exercise, and Sue Barnes captured the vaulting to lead OCS.

The results:

Half Million

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The Long Beach Grand Prix Association announced Sunday it has paid out nearly half a million dollars towards the cost of prize money and transportation expenses to bring Formula One cars from Europe to Long Beach for next Sunday's race.

The association said of the $499,500 total, $265,000 was transferred to the Sports Car Club of America to be held for the account of the Formula One Constructor's Association for prize money.

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI) — Dorothy Hamill, world figure skating champion and Olympic gold medalist, is waiting today for the right offer.

"Right now, I'm just sort of taking it easy. I won't continue to skate as an amateur any more. But I'm deciding really what I'm going to do," she said Sunday. "I'll continue to skate of course. Whether it will be with an ice show, I don't know."

She said she would also consider making a movie in which she could both skate and act.

She said she was surprised by the turnout of 15,000 enthusiastic onlookers Sunday, when this normally sedate town welcomed her home.

"It wasn't really until today I knew how big this would be," said Hamill, 19, after riding down the main street in a beige convertible.

She won the gold medal in figure skating in February and the world figure skating title in Sweden last week. In New York Saturday, she received the Outstanding Young American Award from the National Republican Women's Club.

Dressed in navy velvet slacks and a white blouse, she had a white orchid pinned to her light blue blazer as she waved to her neighbors and friends.

"I've never seen people this excited in six years here," one observer said.

One man watching the parade said, "This girl has so much charm, she's the only one I would turn out for like this."

On the steps of Town Hall, Hamill was given the gold key to this wealthy town of 50,000.

Rain, which might have lowered the crowd size, began only after she was inside Greenwich High School for ceremonies featuring Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., and Rep. Stewart McKinney, R-Conn.

The two politicians read letters from President Ford, praising Hamill's accomplishments and inviting her to the White House.

Hamill, who never graduated from high school, appeared moved when she was given an honorary diploma.

Earlier in the day, the $500,000, Byram Skating Rink was renamed Hamill Skating Rink in ceremonies attended by 1,500 people. In a separate ceremony, a bronze plaque was attached to a huge rock at Binney Park Pond, where Hamill first learned to skate.

Ryan, Gallo Top Scorers On Coleman JV Team

KINGSTON — The final statistics of Coleman High's junior varsity basketball team showed Tim Ryan and T.R. Gallo to be the top point producers for a 10-8 season. Ryan scored 201, and Gallo netted 214 as the pair accounted for nearly half of the little Statesmen's 833 point total.

Gallo carried the best average, 12.6, and Ryan was the leading rebounder with 182 caroms. Ryan was also the most accurate shooter, hitting 48 per cent of his field goal attempts.

Other team leaders were Gary Dougherty who shot 87½ per cent from the foul line and racked up 50 assists, and Ed LaTourette who totalled 28 steals.

Coleman had an offensive average of 46.3 and a defensive yield of 47.1. The Statesmen shot 39 per cent from the floor during the season.

Most Inspirational

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Steve Garvey and Nolan Ryan have been named the most inspirational members of the Los Angeles Dodgers and California Angels, respectively, for the 1975 season, the Baseball Writers' Association announced.

Garvey, the National League's MVP in 1974 who batted .319 last season, won the Charles DiGovanni Award "to the player who most typifies the Dodger tradition." Ryan, who will try to make a comeback this season after suffering through 1975 with an arm injury, was voted the Fred Haney Award "to the most inspirational Angel."

The Los Angeles-Anaheim Chapter of the Baseball writers will make the presentations at the its annual banquet April 1.

Belcastro Leads YMCA

CORTLAND—The Kingston YMCA Boys swim team produced a pair of second place finishesin last week's New York State YMCA Boys Championships at SUNY Cortland.

Kevin Belcastro was the top individual finisher for Kingston, clocking 2:08.4 for a runnerup finish in the 200 yard individual medley. The other second came from the 14 and under medley relay team of Kirk Jacob, Brian Wilson, Tom Rancich and Kyle McCormick who posted a time of 1:53.2 in their event.

Belcastro and Jacob also nailed down third places. Belcastro got his in the 100 breaststroke with a 1:04.5 time, and Jacob scored in the 100 backstroke in 1:02.4.

The places came against a field of 1,197 competitors from 46 teams.

Seven other Kingston efforts resulted in a top ten finish. Chuck Mason got a fourth place in the 50 breaststroke (39.816) in addition to a 13th place in the 50 butterfly; Kenny Acquaviva had a fifth place performance in the 100 fly (58.831); Rex Herman took sixth in the 100 individual medley (1:18.13) as well as 14th in the 50 backstroke; and Jacob was tenth in the 200 freestyle (2:02.3).

In the relays, McCormick, Bob Turnbull, Rancich and Jacob were seventh in the 14 and under 200 freestyle; Mim Turnbull, Larry Jordan, Kyle McCormick and Bob Darling were ninth in the 12 and under 200 freestyle; and Scott Sauer, Mason, Herman and Nolfo were ninth in the ten and under medley relay.

Other top Kingston efforts came from Steve Olsen, 12th in the 50 free, Kevin McCormick, 13th in the 50 free, and Brian Wilson, 15th in the 100 breaststroke. The 18 and under 400 freestyle relay squad of Olson, John Hutton, Evan Matthews and Acquiviva took 11th.

Moose Wins

KINGSTON —Joe Consorti and Brian Timbrouck split 32 points between them and led the fastbreaking Kingston Moose All Stars to their fourth win in a row, a 58-49 decision over Marlboro.

John Parker helped the cause with 23 rebounds as the Moose shook off a sluggish first period to win going away. Next on the agenda for Kingston is the state championships in Auburn, April 2-4.

CH Takes Title

KINGSTON—Down 14 points at halftime, Williams Lumbet staged a second half run against the Children's Home in a game for the championship of the Over 30 basketball league Sunday.

The Lumberjacks almost pulled it out, but a foul shot by Bill Widholm with seven seconds left on the clock lifted the Home to a 61-60 victory.

Mark Westinghouse, who took game honors with 23 points, and Al DiBernardo, who scored 18, fired a strong first quarter by the winners as they took a 24-7 advantage.

Williams' began chipping away at that lead in the second period and continued to gain ground in the second half, but the deficit was too big to overcome.

Gary McDonald led the Lumberjacks with 19, and Howie Mann added 13.

Deaver Wins

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Dick Deaver of the Los Angeles Yacht Club emerged the winner Sunday following a four-way sailoff in the 12th running of the Congressional Cup Yacht Race.

The match racing series brought together 10 of the top international sailors who competed on a three-mile ocean course off here for four days. Winds of from five to 30 knots and rough seas running to a six-foot windwave caused considerable equipment failure aboard the yachts, but no injuries.

At the end of the normal nine races, four of the sailors had identical scores of 6-3 and qualified for the sailoff. They were Deaver; Tony Parker, Annapolis Yacht Club., Md.; Graham Hall, Naval Academy Sailing Squadron, Md., and Ted Turner, of the Atlanta Yacht Club.

They're racing in 10 days.

Vietnamese Orphans Rioted for 'Father'

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UPI) — Sixty young Vietnamese orphans denied permission to live with a man they consider their father went on a weekend rampage, demolishing their schoolhouse, battling police and threatening to kill three female teachers.

Welfare officials separated the children and sent them to different orphanages following the two-hour riot Sunday. The refugees broke almost every piece of furniture in the Skovholm Gaard School, smashed windows and heavily damaged three automobiles with hatchets.

It was the second major incident involving the children in three days.

The orphans, ranging in age from 5 to 19, became enraged when authorities refused their demands to be reunited with Henning Becker, the man they considered their father.

Becker, a 40-year-old journalist, brought the youngsters to Denmark when the Saigon government collapsed last year.

Two weeks ago, government authorities ruled that Becker was not caring for the children properly and they were placed in the government-run school. Twenty-eight of the children, thinking they would be sent back to Vietnam, fled to Becker's home in the country.

When police raided the cottage Friday, they were confronted by screaming children, some brandishing red-hot pokers.

After a 15-minute fight, police subdued the youngsters and took them back to the school. But Sunday, all 60 went on a two-hour rampage because they were refused permission to go back to Becker.

The children, some armed with knives, threatened to kill three female teachers who had locked themselves in a room.

"Although the door was locked, they kept sticking knives through it and shouted 'We will kill you'," said district police chief Joergen Nielsen. "Luckily they were not hurt."

They children were finally calmed when Becker was brought to the school north of Copenhagen.

Welfare officials said some of the orphans will be locked up in security wings of youth institutions, but refused to say how many orphans would be affected by the measure.

Social Affairs Minister Eva Gredal announced the government will decide today whether to expel Becker, who holds German citizenship.

A Nose Job On Bombing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A German shepherd dog sniffed out one of the few clues in the tangled wreckage of the terrorist bomb blast at LaGuardia Airport last December.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, in a report released Sunday, said the dog, named Brandy, was one of the first two dogs it trained to seek bombs in an experimental $12,000 program that began in 1971.

Brandy found a battery fragment at LaGuardia. She earlier had discovered a bomb on a TWA jet in 1972 some 12 minutes before it was timed to explode. Since then, the training program has been expanded to $400,000 to train dogs at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

"It was really amazing," said Lt. Kenneth O'Neil, commander of the New York City bomb squad. "With all the sophisticated devices on the market here's 'man's best friend' doing as good or better job."

The LEAA said dogs trained to smell bombs now patrol 18 major airports. Six more airports are to get them soon, the LEAA said.

Other achievements the LEAA cited:

— In Los Angeles dogs located 37 explosive devices and a number of weapons during six months in which they made searches in response to 460 alerts.

— In Oakland, Calif., a team found a bomb hidden in the acoustical ceiling of a federal building.

— A dog identified a letter bomb addressed to former Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty.

The LEAA said dog teams are now operating at airports serving Albuquerque, N.M.; Baltimore; Buffalo, N.Y.; Cleveland; Dallas; Denver; Houston, Tex.; Kansas City; Los Angeles; Memphis, Tenn.; Miami; Minneapolis, Minn.; Nashville, Tenn.; New Orleans; Pittsburgh; Salt Lake City, Utah; San Francisco, and Tucson, Ariz.

Dog teams will begin operating by June in Boston; Bismarck, N.D.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Oakland, Calif.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; and Seattle, the LEAA said.

Ex-Imperial Wizard Benefited From Jail

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — Samuel Bowers, 51, former imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, has put his six years behind bars to practical use — by earning a degree in religion and becoming a writer.

Bowers will have an opportunity to put those accomplishments to use on the outside. He was to be released today from McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary.

He was one of seven men convicted of conspiracy in the slayings of three civil rights workers in 1964. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals described the murders of Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James E. Chaney as cold blooded and merciless.

In prison, Bowers earned his degree from Pacific Lutheran University and won a reputation among his teachers as an excellent writer.

Dr. Ken Christopherson, chairman of the college's department of religion, described Bowers as the most interesting writer he has run across in 18 years of teaching.

Christopherson lowered Bowers' mark on one exam because Bowers had not answered head-on — but the writing was so good he reduced the grade only to an A-minus.

Bowers sent this note in reply:

"I suspect, my dear professor, that your sympathy for, and enjoyment of, the well-turned phrase may, on occasion, lead you out of the narrow path which represents the highest tradition of mechanical academic rigor.

"If this be a fault (and I would contend that it is not) then I promise to guard the secret of your lapse with diligence for, as you may have sensed, I am something less than diffident with respect to the crown jewels of the academy."

Reminder On Dog Licenses

KINGSTON — City Clerk Louis F. DeCicco reminds city residents who either own or harbor dogs that licenses for the animals have been due since Feb. 11. DeCicco indicated summonses would be issued in the near future.

"Get your dog's license now, before a summons is issued. Once a summons is issued, you may be liable for a fine of up to $10, cost of $2, plus you must obtain a license anyway," said DeCicco.

The cost of the license is $2.35 for a male or spayed female, $5.35 for a female dog.

Application may be made, by city of Kingston residents only, at the City Clerk's Office in City Hall or by mail. When mailing include name, address, phone; dogs name, sex, breed, age and color. Include a self addressed stamped envelope and check made payable to: "City Clerk of Kingston, N.Y."

"If you have any questions, you may call the city clerk's office anytime during regula business hours," DeCicco said

Clearing Backlog

BALBOA HEIGHTS, Canal Zone (UPI) — Operations at the Panama Canal returned to normal today and authorities began working to clear up the huge backlog of 175 ships stranded by a wildcat strike that closed the canal for five days.

About 700 American workers walked off the job last Monday to protest proposed wage cuts, but returned to their jobs Saturday after receiving assurances there would be no reduction in wages.

Canal authorities said 42 ships were expected to pass through the 51-mile waterway by this morning, easing the biggest lineup of ships in the Canal's 62-year history. Fifteen vessels ships cleared the canal Saturday night, shortly after the dispute was settled.

Under normal conditions, between 35 and 40 vessels each day sail through the waterway linking the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans.

Harold R. Parfitt, governor of the Canal Zone, said Saturday it would take about a month to clear the backlog completely.

Gen. Omar Torrijos, Panama's chief of state, assured the American workers their rights would be respected in the new treaty being negotiated between the United States and his government.

Torrijos' statement apparently was aimed at easing the U.S. employes' concern over job security in the event the canal operation was turned over to the Panamanian government.

The government also agreed to the setting up of a commission, formed by workers and Zone authorities, to study working conditions.

The walkout was described by one canal spokesman as "the biggest crisis in the canal's history."

A canal zone spokesman said despite the return to the normal 24-hour operations schedule Sunday, any boat that arrived in the next few days would have to wait four or five days before transit through the waterway.

Panamanian shipping agents estimated that each day lost would cost ship owners $5,000.

The canal employs some 11,000 Panamanians and 3,600 Americans. But only about 700 Americans took part in the job action.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

MONDAY, MARCH 22

Your birthday today: Career-building occupies most of this year's time and energy. Your natural aggressiveness is dramatized by pressure or inspiration from little crises. Relationships are susceptible to occasional failures in communications or cooperation; think about every move, however trivial. Avoid expensive commitments. Today's natives have a knack for finances and related subjects, as well as a theatrical flair.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Be satisfied with minimum business progress. Take the day off if feasible. You can't do much about the comments of associates. Remain unruffled.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: So-called silent partners become querulous. Abandon schemes involving casual travel. Charity begins at home; protect your own welfare.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: An intense and inspiring pace is followed by much success in personal and public enterprises. Quit while you're ahead and avoid excess.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Reject efforts to embroil you in disputes. Concentrate on the job. Loved ones don't realize what you're going through; be easy on them.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Present and future resources ride on trivial decisions. Buy only what you need. Let others display temper, but you maintain your poise.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Use sales resistance as a shield where group funds are concerned. Paying careful attention brings useful information. Be selective in business deals.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Discipline your response to older folk, avoiding harsh action. Listen to the whole story of family incident. Travel with sensible precaution.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Work of any significant quality is all uphill. You must cope with people who won't accept things as they are. Stay out of legal procedures.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Ancient chickens come home to a new roost. Learn from the experience without recrimination. Follow a low-key course; don't even think of speculation.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Ask no favors, although many are asked of you. See to neglected maintenance work. Whether to buy new or repair the old is a difficult decision today.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Your theories are under fire from all sides. Little is gained by an immediate defense. Renewed resolution comes later. Consider how to improve your health.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: It's no time to get involved in anybody's gamble or expedition. Consider each situation and your natural reaction in context. Children create problems.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Phd.

EMBARRASSED: (Q.) Chip and I have been going together for a little more than five months. We really love each other and aren't afraid to say so. When he takes me places I have a great time, but it seems like he'll wait for people to look at us, then he'll kiss me.

Things that aren't supposed to be done in public he'll do. I'm not talking about sex because we both think we're too young for that without being married. (I'm 15 and he's 16.) I'm talking mostly about kissing — also hugging and stuff like that.

I just think he shouldn't do this in public almost ALL the time. What can I do? — Uncomfortable in New York

(A.) Tell Chip very clearly that it embarrasses you to be kissed in public and that it embarrasses other people who may see the two of you kissing. Tell him to stop it. But don't be just negative.

Arrange a set of personal signals. When he wants to kiss you or hug you and there are other people around, he can touch you a certain way, or say a certain code word. Then you and he can enjoy that kiss or hug later in private.

HUGGER: (Q.) I like this boy Charles. He is funny, and nice to me. But every time I look back at the back of the bus he hugs this other girl for meanness. What should I do? He hurts me and makes me mad. He knows I like him. — Up in Front and Unhappy in North Carolina

(A.) First of all, don't look back. Also, don't assume something that may not be true. Charles may be hugging the girl because he likes her — not because he wants to tease you.

Jim: "We haven't discussed the bridge proverbs such as 'second hand low' for some time."

Oswald: "Most of these go way back to whist. The reason second hand usually plays low is that his higher cards can usually be effective later on in the play. Thus, he only plays high second hand when he has some really good reason to make the play.

Jim: "In today's hand South should play dummy's queen of hearts immediately. It won't have any value at all later on, but may just win that first trick."

Oswald: "This time it does and South is on easy street. If he takes a diamond finesse against East, he is sure of eleven tricks. If he tries it the other way, he will only score ten."

Jim: "If East produces the king of hearts, South can run five clubs and then go after diamonds. This time a wrong guess will cost him his contract."

Doing Something Very Special

Assemblyman Emeel Betros, R-99th Dist., (R) has joined statewide and national personalities in support of four"Very Special Arts Festivals." The project will give the state's handicapped youngsters opportunity to exhibit and deomonstrate their work in the fields of music, theatre, visual arts, dance and films, according to Eugene Maillard (L) of Poughkeepsie, festival coordinator for the State Education Department.

Conducting Purchase Poll

HURLEY—The Town of Hurley is conducting a straw-poll among its residents concerning a proposal to buy a 45-acre tract of the Oehler Mountain Lodge on Schildtknecht Road for a town recreation center.

In a letter asking town residents for their feelings on the matter, the town recreation commission notes that the tract consists of a swimming pool approximately 50 by 80 feet, bathhouses and a pavilion, a pond approximately 40 by 160 feet, a 225 by 375 foot athletic field with lights and anannouncer's booth and a parking lot with a capacity of 100 cars.

Ballots must be postmarked not later than Wednesday, March 24, and will be tallied Saturday, March 27

The purchase price is $63,125. The current budget appropriation for recreation is $10.000 and the annual cost for the new program plus the existing program is estimated at $25.000 which would translate into approximately $2.20 per thousand of assessed valution for town taxpayers.

"At the present time we contract most of our recreation programs outside the town," the commission noted in a letter to taxpayers "With this acquisition, we could centralize within the town as well as expand our offerings."

One of the major difficulties in finding a site was the need for a central location. The town is literally cut in two sections by the Ashokan Reservoir and Hurley and West Hurley have shared little but a tax rate in the past, officials noted

Eastern shore residents have accessto Hurley Recreation at a cost of $60 a year but those on the reservoir's eastern shore, although they comprise half the town's population, have no facilities at all

Upkeep of the park is estimated at $20,000 about $8 55 for a taxpayer with a $4.000 assessment on his property

The facilities and grounds are reportedly in excellent shape and well maintained Bridal paths and tow roads offer opportunities for snowmobiling, horseback riding, and other sports Other suggested uses for the gently rolling 45 acre site include tennis courts' a basketball court and town office buildings

The commission discovered an abandoned road that joins Eagle Nest Road which, if it would be put into use again, would make the recreation area closer to old Hurley than to West Hurley.

Votes will be tabulated at 10 a.m. Saturday March 27, beginning at 10 a.m., in the Town Hall in Hurley.

Explains School Position

KINGSTON—Frederick G. Hofbauer, a member of the Board of Education of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated, has released the text of a letter written in reply to the Lake Katrine PTO, the Edson PTO, and the M Clifford Miller Junior High School TACT regarding his position on the problems caused by alleged overcrowding at Kingston High School

Hofbauer said: "These are the things I am sure of at the present time:"

• Implementation of the School Safety Review by the State Education Department has been started by the board and should be completed without delay

• Since elementary enrollment is declining, there must be a closing of some elementary schools The statere commended phasing out four by 1980 Class size average is 22 75 and declining The teachers' contract is for 29 and 30 per class except for special education

• Junior high enrollment will peak at about 2,735 in 1976-77 The district now has a junior high capacity for 2 750 students Enrollment will continue to decline for the next 10 years. Some rooms in junior high schools are not used during the entire day. After the bulge next year, with full utilization and some changes at Bailey and Miller, the district should not need the Myron J Michael building for a junior high school

Hofbauer said he recently visited the high school and saw no overcrowding of classrooms, hallways or cafeteria. "In fact, there were five to 10 empty seats in all classes I observed.I even found some rooms which were not being used part of the day."

Hofbauer said that split sessions beginning in September should yield even more space.

"The answer to a new high school in Lake Katrine at this time must be 'no'," Hofbauer said. "At a time when our operating budget is almost at its limit, where do we get the money to operate it? By closing some other school? Two high schools cannot be operated as cheaply as one."

Offering "a few thoughts on the Lake Katrine proposal," Hofbauer said:

• "Did you know that the school was designed for 1,600 students but with support systems for 2,000? In the future it could be enlarged and there then would be no need for a high school on Broadway

• "Did you know that it has been designed without study halls? Where will students go during free periods? Will it be an open campus or will students be given short schedules?

• "Did you knowt hat a stadium and other athletic fields would be built, in addition to a swimming pool?

• "Did you know that the school district owned Deitz Stadium and gave it to the City of Kingston?

• "Did you realize that over 80 per cent of the students assigned to Lake Katrine would have to be bused?

• "Did you know that curriculum offerings at KHS and Lake Katrine would be different?"

Hofbauer predicted that if a new high school is built in Lake Katrine, Kingston High School and MJM are doomed for closing in the near future.

Citing limitations on money available to the district, Hofbauer said. "What we need is one high school on Broadway which would include the MJM building, and two junior high schools, Miller and Bailey. Then we can have our programs for students and not have a lot of empty schools for lack of students to fill them or the money to operate them. We are going to have empty rooms and empty schools. Any new construction now will only add to the list of empty rooms or schools of the future.

"May I add that the direction this board will take will depend on the platform of the candidates elected in May."

Concert, Not Court

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — British Rock star Davie Bowie will not appear in City Court today for arraignment on marijuana possession charges, according to the performer's attorney.

Bowie, who was booked as David Robert Jones of London, and three companions were arrested on charges of fifth degree marijuana possession early Sunday in a three room suite at the Americana Rochester Hotel by vice squad members and a state police investigator About eight ounces of marijuana were recovered, authorities said. The Class C felony charge carries a 15-year maximum sentence.

They were later released on $2,000 bond each and ordered to return to court today.

However, Thomas Presutti, Bowie's attorney, said his client left the city Sunday for a concert in Massachusetts.

Presutti said he will "request the court's indulgence" today, since there are heavy penalties for breaking concert engagements.

Bowie was expected back in Rochester on Wednesday, Presutti added

Arrested with Bowie were a Rochester woman, Chiwah Soo, 20, and two members of Bowie's entourage, James Osterberg Jr., 28, of Ypsilanti, Mich., and Dwain Vaughns, 22, of Brooklyn

Bowie appeared at downtown concert earlier in the evening

Presutti said none of the four had previous arrest records

Police Seek Shotgun Wielding Robber

By Matt Spireng

LAKE KATRINE—State police are seeking a shotgun wielding robber who fled with some $150 from a Lake Katrine store Sunday night after firing a shot that reportedly narrowly missed hitting the woman store manager.

Police said the robber entered the Convenient Food Mart on Leggs Mills Road at about 11 p.m. and without warning fired a blast from what was believed to be a sawed-off shotgun. Authorities said the woman manager on duty at the time, who was not identified, told them she felt the breeze as the shot flew past her leg and became embedded in a wall.

The masked robber then proceeded to demand money from the cash register, which he got, and fled on foot. Two male clerks were reportedly in a rear room of the store at the time of the holdup and did not enter the business area until after the holdup man fled.

Authorities said the robber was a white male, about 20, 5-feet, 10 or 5-feet, 11, of slim build and with a full dark mustache. He was wearing a stocking mask, a pull-over hat, blue dungarees and a light blue windbreaker at the time of the robbery.

State police asked anyone with possible information regarding the robbery to call 338-1702.

Woman Killed

A Dover Plains woman who was to have celebrated her 59th birthday Sunday was killed when a blaze swept through her residence during the early morning hours.

State police identified the dead woman as Gertrude Struwe of Old Route 22, Dover Plains.

Police said he 6:40 a.m. fire was apparently started by a cigarette. The blaze started in the bedroom of the dead woman and destroyed her house. She was found in a adjoining room near a window, and had been apparently attempting to escape when she was overcome by smoke, authorities said. Investigation is continuing.

Two Are Jailed

Two young Newburgh men were jailed on multiple charges Saturday night after one of them allegedly attacked a New Paltz patrolman who had placed his companion under arrest.

Police said Patrolman George Miro stopped to check a car in a ditch on Libertyville Road and found that the driver was allegedly drunk. As he attempted to place the driver, Archie Thoby, 19, of Newburgh under arrest for driving while intoxicated, a passenger, John Hall, 26, of Newburgh, allegedly attacked him and a scuffle ensued. Hall was eventually charged with second degree assault, resisting arrest, obstructing governmental administration, and fourth degree criminal possession of a weapon—a knife. Thoby was additionally charged with driving while his license was suspended and fourth degree possession of a weapon—a billy club. Miro was not reported seriously injured.

Hall was jailed in lieu of $6,000 bail. Thoby was jailed in lieu of $1,100 bail.
